NEW YORK CLIPPER

THE OLDEST AMERICAN SPORTING AND THEATRICAL JOURNAL.

FRANK QUEEN, Editor and Proprietor. | NEW YORK, SATURDAY, MAY 25, 1878. | VOLUME XXVI.—No. 9. Price Ten Cents.

MARRIED.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER,
BY E. NORMAN GUNNISON.

And so you are married! Well, that is right!
Let me see! You were free when last we met!
I remember! We waltzed in the hall that night!
In a pause of the music I called you "Pet."
Your hand was so soft and your eyes so bright
That I thought you had, somewhere hid, a heart.
I pressed your form as we danced that night;
And now we are severed so far apart.

I loved. Did you love me? I thought you did,
As my eyes looked down to your eyes of blue
That were merely veiled by the trembling lid
That partly shaded them from my view.
And now, should all lands and seas divide,
You were not more distant to-day from me
Than standing here by me, close to my side,
For you are married and I am free!

Do I love? Could I love, then, another's wife?
Though dearer by far than the heavens above,
I would tear the passion from out my life,
Nor shame the name of a holy love.
Let it pass! You were only by far too dear
And I too trusting. At least 'tis well!
How strange that the days of one short year
Should change this earth from a heaven to hell!

ROSA APPASSIONATA.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER,
BY SANTLEY STERLING.

So they named her. She was born in Lima, and in the Church of Santa Rosa, in that beautiful tropical city, the child was baptized, by the worthy Padre Morales, Rosa Appassionata. The Smith that followed it sounded a little bit ludicrous; but we soon got used to it, or, rather, thought nothing about it. She was the only daughter of my father's stepbrother, who had gone to Peru and there married a dark-eyed native, who, after three years, died, leaving Rosa behind her. Of grief, or I know not what, Mr. Smith departed this life some six months after his wife, and Rosa, in the care of a South-American "man-ma," was sent to my mother to be brought up with me and Charley. We were all three sent to boarding-schools, different ones, at an early stage in our career, so that I and my half-cousin saw but little of each other, save in the brief holidays, when we were naturally thrown together at Lynwood—my lovely home.

I saw her, as children see each other, without thinking much about her, or noticing how she looked, but from my earliest recollections I am forced to acknowledge that I entertained a dire dread of her—principally, no doubt, owing to the fact that she bit me and struck me whenever we were alone together, and then laughed and crowed, when I screamed or complained of her, in so sweet a manner as to totally disarm our nurses. Moreover, she was far stronger than I, although a little thing, while I was plump and larger. When she was fifteen years old, and I sixteen, I went South, and remained from home two years, visiting one of my uncles in Virginia. On my return we were both young ladies, and I think I saw her for the first time, I really saw my stepcousin as she was—a little, lithe, strong figure, below the medium height, small hands and feet, although by no means pretty ones. Her hands were always cold and moist. She was thin, and by that perverse disposition which Nature frequently exhibits Rosa was pale, almost livid; quently exhibits Rosa was pale, almost livid; there were curious dark shadows around her thin scarlet lips and encircling her strange round eyes, her nose was by no means either pretty or small, her forehead was narrow and retreating, and her hair, which was the blackest I ever saw, hung in little waves over her eyes, and was gathered in braids on top of her head—the sole beauty about her. What disfigured her and made her almost repulsive, entirely so to many people, was the scar of an abscess, white as snow in the sallow paleness of her complexion, that marred her chin; but, happily, she appeared totally unconscious of it, and indeed Rosa, strange as it may seem, thought herself pretty. She dressed in execrable taste, and scorned suggestion or interference as an insult; she ignored Brother Charley, just of age and shortly to sail for Germany, and took a desperate fancy apparently to me.

I wished that she had not. The old, dim terror of my childhood's days had a faint hold upon me now—she annoyed me, and worried me, and it seemed to me that she knew it and persisted in it purposely. If I went to walk by myself in the gardens she was beside me; if I proposed a ride, she was after me before my horse was without the gate at the lodge; and she watched me with the eyes of a lynx for carefulness and covertness. She would sit and stare at me for half an hour at a time, remorselessly, while I changed my seat and fidgeted hopelessly about the room; and when at last, exasperated beyond measure, I would inquire what in the world she was looking at, or what conclusion she had arrived at, she would reply, with an attracted start, that she hadn't thought of me—she was reflecting on some book she had read, or what she should do that afternoon.

After being at Lynwood all Summer and seeing Brother Charley off for Europe in October, the cold, chilly Fall of our Northern climate began to tell upon me. The two years spent in Virginia had spoiled me for snow and cool winds and icy nights. The physician said I must go South, and, accordingly, after much parleying, it was determined that mamma and Rosa and I should go to Florida for the Winter, and we went. The lovely, quaint, half-Spanish town of Picardina, where medicinal springs had also attracted thousands of sufferers and pleasure-seekers as well, was selected for our abiding-place, and the big hotel, with its sloping lawns, its orange-groves, where the blossoms were just blooming, seemed to me a most delightful spot. A beautiful little river that fell tumbling over a mass of rocks seventy feet high gave variety to the place and a name, "The Cascade," to the monster hotel.

Very much as in our own resorts of pleasure and health-seeking at the North, thrown into such close and constant proximity with people, we soon knew a great many, and the lovely, lazy days passed along swifter almost than I, for one, could have wished.

On board the San Jacinto, during our brief voyage from New York to Savannah, we had met a young Englishman, whose face Rosa had immediately commenced to rave over—she was a passionate lover of physical beauty—and in truth the face of Mr. Rawdon Algernon Scrope Eustis was not one to be passed unobservingly by. He was as sallow, to the full, as my cousin Rosa, with the odd combination of curling blonde hair, close-clipped to his shapely head and eyes, bluer than any I ever saw, dreaming their own soft dreams under arched, heavy, black brows; it was a high-bred face, perhaps a trifle supercilious, but sweetness lay, a powerful redeemer, about his curved, beautiful mouth. He was tall, with superb broad shoulders, and a swinging, well-bred walk that distinguished him perfectly among his fellows. He was courteous to us on board, but we parted at Savannah with a fearful crowd on the wharf, quite unconsciously to each other, and without so much as a bon voyage.

We had been in Picardina, I should think, not over two weeks, when one day, just before tea, Rosa came rushing into my room, breathless.

"He's here!" she cried, throwing herself down on my bed full length.

"Who? for mercy's sake!" I answer, letting my hair tumble down as I back in the excitement of the moment as I turn from the mirror.

"Rawdon Eustis."

"Gracious!" I exclaim, twisting up my brown, long locks again. "I supposed, at the very least, the President or the Pope."

"Only a man," she replies with a small sneer. "There are none here, that I can see, so I thought you'd be glad to hear of the arrival of one."

"I've found several already, my dear. It was you who took stock in the young Briton, remember, not I. Is he as handsome as ever?"

"I suppose so—he looked awfully exhausted and ill. He asked for you," she says, turning two sharp eyes up to my face, and scrutinizing me in the old, persistent fashion.

"How kind! I had almost forgotten him."

"Bah!" Rosa says contemptuously. "No, you hadn't. What do you say so for? Do you know, Archie, you and he look alike?"

"How complimentary! I never knew before that I was yellow, or that my eyes were the color of the sky—a sort of physical Dutch flag—thanks!"

"Nonsense! It isn't that—it's something in your two faces that is alike—they fit, they ought to be looking at each other, they ——"

"Do hush," I cry, laughing aloud, "and go and dress yourself—the gong will sound in three minutes—go."

We women—the majority of us—are remarkably quick in our perceptions; in less than a week I saw that Rosa was loving Rawdon Eustis, but as to whether he was loving her or not I could not determine; with my half-cousin I had the advantage of constant intercourse; I knew the wild, fierce nature that writhed and twisted under that cool exterior, and I knew that the love she gave would be terrible in both its mental and physical intensity. He seemed to take not much notice of her; he was courteous and polite, but a little negligent and indifferent where a lover would have been overthoughtful—at least, so it appeared to me.

The orange-blossoms were carpeting the earth with their creamy beauty; the air was heavy with their sweetness; the band was playing, I remember it well, a Strauss waltz—"German Hearts," I think—and we were all sitting out on the broad piazza, with the lovely Southern stars above us. Rawdon Eustis came up towards our group.

"Miss Lawrence, will you go and take a little walk with me? The air is very dry, and your mother cannot object."

"I—thank you, Mr. Eustis; but ——" I look instinctively, unconsciously, at Rosa. She is looking at me with a sort of wide, frozen smile on her thin lips.

"Will you come?" he asks seriously and very quietly.

"Yes; thank you, I will." I say it impulsively and gladly. We walk down the lawn-path, and then turn off into the sweet-smelling grove, and saunter on and on deep into the scented shadow.

"Was it an unpardonable liberty, my asking you for half an hour of your society to-night?" he asks after we have exhausted my vocabulary of admiration over the night.

"No, not at all."

"I hesitated some time, but I wanted very much to ask you a question, Miss Lawrence, and there seemed to be really no chance to do it."

"You were entirely right. I am quite ready to answer any question, Mr. Eustis, that you can ask, if it is in my power." We are standing still now, and he is a little way from me, the starlight shining on his cold, soft eyes. I could not help wondering if they would ever grow warm, for Rosa's sake.

"Say to me first," he speaks slowly, "that you will try to pardon what I may say—that you will look leniently upon my question—that you will not misjudge me." The voice is eagerness itself.

"Indeed, I will try to do as you wish," I answer, while I can think of nothing but Rosa.

"I am keeping you standing; sit down, please do." I sink down on the soft, mossy bank, and he stands. "You remember," he says quickly, "that we met on board the steamer?" I bow my head. "When I looked into a lady's eyes that night, as we steamed out of New York, I knew that they were the eyes of the woman I loved. I fought against this, I argued with myself, to no purpose! You see, I am here where she is. You, Miss Lawrence, doubtless think me absurd, carried away by a passionate fancy; it is not so. There are things that come to us, after years of patient waiting, in a flash; such is my love—it demands nothing; it asks no return now; but will you, can you tell me if, if ——" I look up into his face; the blue eyes are warm enough now, Rosa will say, I think, very happy—"anyone has been before me?"

"No," I answer, "no one has."

"You are quite sure?" There is a sort of dim agony about his mouth that I do not quite understand.

"I am quite sure."

"And you are not angry?"

"No, indeed I am not."

And then he and I go back quickly and in silence. I leave them soon for my own room, and there I fall a-thinking of this tender, curious soul that has lifted a corner of the veil that hides it for me to look beneath—of this odd pair of lovers that fate has thrown together; I fall a-wondering—Heaven forgive me!—if he will like to kiss her, if those soft, warm, craving lips will yearn for the touch of Rosa's cold, thin mouth! if the scar is nothing to him, if such a fastidious soul as I know his to be will not, some day, recoil from the venomous, fawning, cloying nature of Rosa Appassionata.

One week, two, three; I love him. Yes, I—who held my heart so high above every man's reach save his who sought it long and humbly—I love him, Don Eustis, my half-cousin's lover, as I never hoped to love any man. I flatter myself that I hide it; I think no one would dream it. I do all I can to help them; I throw them together so that they may know each other better, and I avoid him, and keep out of the way as much as I possibly can; just now I declined a walk up the glen with him—poor fellow! asked for pity and gratitude's sake—and send her in my stead. I cannot make him out—I cannot—he is not the devoted adorer at all; he fastens no lingering long looks upon her face, he haunts no places where she goes; he offers nothing, asks nothing at her hands—he is a patience man than I though he was. And she? Watches me until I am wellnigh mad.

"Did you have a pleasant walk?" I ask, willing to say something to him as he comes up and stands in front of me; Rosa has gone in to get her shawl.

"It is dusty," he answers. "May I sit down?"

"Why, of course," making place for him on the long settee.

He picks up one of the tassels of my cloak—it is the first time I ever saw him betray the faintest physical interest in anything.

"Why do you avoid me so?" The words startle me, the voice startles me a thousand times more—it is full of pleading and gentleness.

"I do not avoid you, I mean"—I stammer and stop short.

"Yes, you do; do you suppose I cannot see it? You go by yourself, you keep upstairs where I cannot even see you—I am a little of the sea, sea!"

"Must I, forsooth, be at hand ever to play the obnoxious but necessary "third" in their walks and excursions? What can my half-cousin have done to discourage him?

"You need not be," I answer.

"Are you sure that no one has been before me?" There is such earnestness in his eyes that I am fain to look away from them.

"Quite sure," I reply; "and none knows better than I."

He smiles his rare, happy smile, and is going to speak, when suddenly Rosa comes through the low window near him with her shawl on, and is comfortably down beside him. Very soon I make some futile excuse and leave them. I go up to my room, and wonder why God in his bitter wisdom has sent this curse into my life. I grow cruel, and think they will not enjoy much happiness together. Why, it is like putting a hyena, purring, poisonous, panther nature, into the arms of a Bengal tiger for a pure-souled woman. My love, my love!

Twenty times I walk towards my window, and twenty times away from it again; it gives upon the veranda where they two are sitting—where perhaps now—this moment—that soft, beautiful, clean mouth is pressing its kisses on her cold, wet lips! I must see, I will! I rush to the window—there they are, not as I left them, but he is standing and she is kneeling at his feet, her two arms are twined about him, her face is turned up; I see it, livid with its white scar in the moonlight; she looks there in her green gown, with her nervous twisting fingers on his arms, like, O God! I know not what—but not a woman.

"My poor child, my poor child, you don't know what you're saying!" Don's face is flushed ruddier than any girl's under the first kiss of a first lover.

"Don't I?" she cries, as she huddles closer to him and grasps at his strong hands. "It's hunger and thirst, and poison in my veins; it makes me feel like killing you sometimes; it has turned my life into a hell. O Don, Don, love me, kiss me, take me in your arms! Am I so hateful? Look at my hair, isn't it beautiful?" She tears the hairpins out and shakes the whole night-black mass down about her. "There! look at it! I can kiss and love and comfort and be sweet as any woman!" Don Eustis is paralyzed. He stares at her in stupefaction for a moment, just a moment; then he takes her hands down with his own powerful ones, lifts her to her feet as though she were a child, and looks at her a full minute, still that flush upon his face, while every spark of compassion fades out of it—there is nothing left but disgust.

"Miss Smith, to-morrow, please God! you will have forgotten this; it will have been mercifully blotted out of your recollection. Remember that to me also it is a blank!" And there he leaves her.

"Will you come down to the Cascade?"

It is bright and beautiful the next morning; Rosa and I and my mother are all sitting together on the lawn, when Don Eustis comes up and asks me to go with him. I rise and lay down my work without a word; Rosa rises also.

"Wait a minute," she cries; "I'm going too."

"I think you had better not, Miss Smith; the dew is very heavy this morning, and your feet will inevitably get wet," said Mr. Eustis.

"Absurd!" she answers; "and if they do, I never take cold—it's no worse for me than for Archie!"

She comes up and lays hold of my arm, and so we three walk on to the Cascade.

"This is a pretty place to sit," observes Rosa, stopping on the great overhanging, shelving rock, through one of whose deep fissures the pretty, ferocious little Picardina River goes tumbling along over the precipice.

"Do you wish to rest?" Mr. Eustis asks, looking at me.

"We might as well—yes." I sit down on the edge of the rock and watch the foaming waters as they rush over and down into the black, deep, bubbling pool far below; my half cousin sits beside me, with her arm around my shoulder, and Don stands a little way off, leaning against a tree-bole, with an unfathomable expression on his haughty face. I am lost in thought—I am completely bewildered, and wonder if I have had the nightmare—if my eyes have been blinded all these weeks, or only blinded by some horrible vision last night.

"What are you thinking about?" Rosa asks.

"Oh, I don't know. Take your arm away, please, Rosa." I try to shake it off—it oppresses me.

"No, I won't. I always like to be feeling something."

"Well, I don't like to be felt—do stop!" Perhaps I speak a little querulously—she goads me to it often enough, regardless of my will.

"There, then!"

The girlish arm is withdrawn, and I am hurled into space, blinding, terrifying, instantaneous, but above the roar and surge of waters that close above me I hear Don Eustis' voice.

"My God! my God!"

I know nothing more—no lightning-like panorama of my past whole life flashes through my brain such as people talk of—absolute oblivion until I feel strong arms about me and hear his voice whispering over me.

"My darling, my darling! Archie!"

"Yes." I open my eyes to see him, with all his blonde, beautiful hair, shining with the waterdrops, his face flushed, his eyes, ah, love! not cold, but warm and passionate above me.

"Archie, I ask my return now. I have been patient; I want everything—the body I have saved from death, and the heart and soul within it. Will you give yourself to me?"

I can only creep a little closer in his arms. I feel two warm kisses from my lover's lips on mine, and then a cry like the wail of a stricken animal writhing in impotent rage comes to me—it is my half-cousin Rosa, cowering not three paces from us, her face livid with its strange, dark shadows, and her hands pressed tightly over her heart.

"Haven't you any mercy on me when I'm dying?" she screams. "Do you want me to remember you always, eternally, like that?"

When after two days of absolute quiet I rise once more and take my place among my fellows, I am myself—no harm has come to me, not one bruise or cut; but they tell me that my half-cousin is dead. The physicians called it burst-ing of a blood-vessel through terror at my fall—in my heart I think hers was one of the few that really break.

Don never mentions her; he has never, and I reverence him for it, told me one word of the pitiful scene that night on the piazza beneath my window. When he came to speak, at last, supercilious look comes over his face, and he always gathers me closer to him.

So long ago, in the church in far-off Lima, they named her, foolishly enough, Rosa, for she was the color of no rose that ever bloomed; but Padre Morales was perhaps a prophet in his country when he baptized Mr. Smith's only child "ROSA APPASSIONATA."

WINDY:

A REMINISCENCE OF A POLYSYLLABIC PROGRAMMER.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER,
BY VANDYKE BROWN.

It is possible that you may have met with J. Wyndingham Thomlinson. If you happen to be connected with the show business or with a newspaper, such a possibility becomes almost a certainty. Mr. Thomlinson was both a showman and a journalist—that is, he had risen, through various degrees from the level of a candy-butcher in Levi North's Circus to the dizzy altitude of a programme-writer and advance-agent. He was on familiar terms with all the newspaper men in the country, and his skill in working the daily press was something upon which he prided himself less only than upon his polysyllables.

Now that poor Thomlinson's oily tongue is stilled forever, I cannot but think his peculiarities worthy of brief record. Those who knew him in his early youth solemnly affirm that his fondness for long words evinced itself before he had put away his pinafore. Be that as it may, it is certain that when he came to peddle candy under canvas, at the unripe age of fourteen, he talked like a condensed dictionary. Picking his way skillfully among the seats, his sonorous voice might be heard rolling off sentences somewhat like these:

"Unadulterated confectionery, fresh as the moisture upon the morning fields, only a paltry dime a package! Sweet and toothsome, free from any deleterious substances, and recommended by all the leading members of the medical profession! Each and every package warranted to contain a rare and beautiful present, either in chromo, and approachable workmanship and the greatest multiplicity of design! Ten cents secures this saccharine treasure. Who is the next to avail himself of the golden opportunity?"

Whatever the merits of the candy or the worth of the jewelry, there can be no doubt that the speech was amazingly effective.

It was not until years after this budding epoch in his career that I came to know Thomlinson personally. He had long outgrown the candy-butcher's stature, but time had only increased the majestic proportions of his vocabulary. In spite of the inscription upon his elaborately printed card, I had good reason to believe that Mr. Thomlinson's name was not Thomlinson at all, but Jones. He had been christened Thomas W. Conscious that such a name was out of all keeping with his distinguished talents, and regarding it with especial disfavor on account of its brevity, he turned the Thomas into Thomlinson, evolved Wyndingham from the W., and exterminated the Jones with the exception of the initial letter. After this master-stroke it seemed really a pity that his friends should invariably speak of him as "Windy." And yet this abbreviation was so eminently appropriate that no wonder it clung to him through life.

I am inclined to think that Windy originated the style of writing which is now universally employed in circus-bills. The simple rule which governed his literary work was never to use a one-syllabled word where it was possible to use a dissyllable, and never to use a dissyllable where a longer word could be introduced. By holding fast to this principle, not only in his writing but also in his speech, he made himself in a certain way distinguished. There was no mistaking the most trivial sentence which flowed from his pen, or rolled itself off his ready tongue. The habit took so firm a hold upon him that I honestly believe he was utterly unconscious of his peculiarity. If he entered a barber-shop he was tolerably certain to express himself in some such manner as this:

"I want you to remove this capillary excrescence which has become a troublesome superfluity, and which, as you perceive, disfigures my otherwise symmetrical physiognomy!"

By the time he had made an end of this request the astonished barber was generally disposed to hold his peace, convinced that his patron was not to be accosted in the familiar way peculiar to the craft.

A letter written by Windy only a few months before his death lies before me as I write, and it will not, I hope, be considered a breach of confidence if I reproduce it here. The motive which prompted the missive becomes apparent upon reading, but it is to be doubted whether anybody ever before made the request for a loan of ten dollars in such overwhelming language. Here is the epistle:

MY HIGHLY-ESTEEMED FRIEND.—It is with a sense of mingled shame and sorrow that I communicate to you my present embarrassments. Unpropitious fortune has temporarily overshadowed me with a financial cloud. Numerous unsympathetic creditors, conspicuous among whom is the lady whose humble domicile I have of late made my abiding-place, clamorously demand immediate satisfaction for their several and individual claims. My landlady is so unreasonably emphatic in her requests that, upon sundry occasions, she has presumed to confront me as I was about departing from the house, and in tones by no means dulcet she has repeatedly threatened to appeal to the legal authorities unless I liquidated my indebtedness, which amounts to the precise sum of eleven dollars and fifty cents. Insignificant as this sum appears, it is more than I am able just now to command. The difficulty of obtaining it is seriously heightened by the fact that my valued and appreciative relative—I refer to my uncle—already holds the few decorative trinkets which I possess as collateral security for various loans in this extremity I am prompted to appeal to you. The fragrant garland of friendship will be materially strengthened by granting the trivial supplication which I shall proceed to make. As against the liabilities already enumerated, my total assets at the date of this writing aggregate one dollar and fifty cents. If, therefore, I were the fortunate possessor of an additional ten dollars, I should be enabled to satisfy my landlady's claim. In memory of the many happy hours we have passed together, and as a slight token of the high esteem in which I am modestly conscious you hold me, may I look to you, and not in vain, for a temporary advance of the amount heretofore specified? A speedy compliance with this request will fill with undying gratitude the overshadowed soul of

Yours, etc., J. WYNDINGHAM THOMLINSON.

I lent him the money. It would have been worse than cruel to have refused even a stranger who put his request in such a shape as that.

Thomlinson's last sickness was heightened by the quaint humor of the man, so that neither he nor his friends appreciated how near the end was. I dropped in to see him almost daily, and he would rattle on about all sorts of subjects in defiance of the doctor's advice that he should keep perfectly quiet. It was a glorious afternoon in May that I climbed up the rickety stairs which led to his fourth-story room, and found that twenty-four hours had wrought a fearful change in my friend. The ashen paleness, peculiar to death, was upon his face. An unnatural lustre lighted the sunken eyes. He was so weak that the effort to speak appeared to have completely bereaved him of his breath, and yet he straightway began to talk in spite of the exertion which it cost him.

"Temporary—temporary, old fellow. Nothing of a permanent or serious character. This physical weakness, aggravated as it just now is by a certain dimness of vision, will speedily pass away."

"I hope so," I returned heartily. "But I don't think I would talk any more now—it seems to tire you."

"Not in the least, I assure you," he answered, although even as he spoke he gasped for breath. "There is nothing exhaustive in conversational exercise. It is rather exhilarating—recuperative, so to speak. I shall be able to descend from this elevated abode at the expiration of a few days, and then I shall accept Hepworth's compliments very kindly. He wishes me to undertake the duties of advertising-agent, and I have concluded to comply with his flattering request. Hepworth never was properly written up—his bills have been the fragmentary productions of uncultivated brains. I will reveal to him what the beauties of artistic programme composition really are!"

"Yes, yes," I interpolated, for his voice was growing weaker and weaker, and I felt it my duty to stop him if I could; "you will do Hepworth proud, I know. But we won't talk any more about him now. You need rest."

"Hepworth's Hemispherical Hippodrome and Historienic Harlequinade," he murmured, without heeding my interruption. "That makes a capital title. Alliteration always was my delight. Then let me see—this marvelous concentration of unapproachable ——"

"Thomlinson," I exclaimed, "you must stop this. You are dying!"

"Unapproachable," he repeated in a whisper, paying no heed to my expostulation, "and unprecedented attractions—collected at an outlay—of—incomprehen ——"

He never finished the sentence. I bent down and called him by name. There came no response. J. Wyndingham Thomlinson was dead. But, remembering that he had still two syllables of "incomprehensible" to utter, I can but think that he drifted into the world of the incomprehensible content and happy.

TOBY.

Toby was a sheep of middling size, lightly built, finely limbed, as agile as a deer, with dark, intelligent, gazelle-like eyes, and a small pair of neatly-curled horns, with the points protruding about an inch from his forehead. His color was white except on the face, which was slightly darker.

As an old sailor I wish to say something of Toby's history. I was on board the good brig Reliance of Arbroath, bound from Cork to Galatz, on the left bank of the Danube. All went well with the little ship until she reached the Grecian Archipelago, and here she was detained by adverse winds and contrary currents, making the passage through the islands both a dangerous and difficult one. When the mariners at length reached Tenedos, it was found that the current from the Dardanelles was running out like a mill-stream, which made it impossible to proceed; and accordingly the anchor was cast, the jolly-boat was lowered, and the captain took the opportunity of going on shore for fresh water, of which they were scarce. Having filled his casks, it was only natural for a sailor to long to treat himself to a mess of fresh meat after his water. He accordingly strolled away through the little town, but soon found that butchers were as yet unknown in Tenedos. Presently, however, a man came up with a sheep, which the captain at once purchased for five shillings. This was Toby, with whom, his casks of water, and a large basket of ripe fruit, the skipper returned to his vessel. There happened to be on board this ship a large and rather useless half-bred Newfoundland. This dog was the very first to receive the attentions of Master Toby, for no sooner had he placed foot on the deck than he ran full tilt at the poor Newfoundland, hitting him square on the ribs, and banishing almost every bit of breath from his body. "Only a sheep," thought the dog, and flew at Toby at once. But Toby was too nimble to be caught, and he planted his blows with such force and precision that at last the poor dog was fain to take to his heels, howling with pain, and closely pursued by Toby. The dog only escaped by getting out on the bowsprit, where, of course, Toby could not follow, but quietly lay down in a safe place to wait and watch for him.

This first adventure showed that Toby was no ordinary sheep. How he had been trained to act an independent part no one could tell. His education, certainly, had not been neglected. That same evening the captain was strolling on the quarter-deck eating a bunch of grapes, when Toby came up to him, and, standing on one end, planted his forefeet on his shoulders, and looked into his face, as much as to say:

"I'll have some of those, please."

And he was not disappointed, for the captain amicably went shares with Toby. Toby appeared so grateful for even little favors, and so attached to his new master, that Captain Brown had not the heart to kill him. He would rather, he thought, go without fresh meat all his life. So Toby was installed as ship's pet. Ill fared it then with the poor Newfoundland; he was so battered and cowed that for dear life's sake he dared not leave his kennel even to take his food. It was determined, therefore, to put an end to the poor fellow's misery, and he was accordingly shot. This may seem cruel, but it was kind in the main.

Now, there was on board the Reliance an old Irish cook. One morning, soon after the arrival of Toby, Paddy, who had a round bald pate, be it remembered, was bending down over a wooden platter cleaning the vegetables for dinner, when Toby took the liberty of insinuating his woolly nose to help himself. The cook, naturally enough, struck Toby on the snout with the flat of the knife, and went on with his work. Toby backed astern at once; a blow he never could and never did receive without taking vengeance. Besides, he imagined, no doubt, that, holding down his bald head as he did, the cook was desirous of trying the strength of their respective skulls. When he had backed astern sufficiently for his purpose, Toby gave a spring; the two heads came into violent collision, and down rolled poor Paddy on the deck. Then Toby coolly finished all the vegetables, and walked off as if nothing had happened out of the usual.

Toby's hatred of the whole canine race was invincible. One day, when the captain and his pet were taking their usual walk on the promenade, there came on shore the skipper of a Falmouth ship, accompanied by a very large, formidable-looking dog. And the dog only resembled his master, as you observe dogs usually do. As soon as he saw Toby he commenced to set his dog upon him; but Toby had seen him coming and was quite en garde; so a long and fierce battle ensued, in which Toby was slightly wounded and the dog's head was severely cut. Quite a multitude had assembled to witness the fight, and the ships' riggings were alive with sailors. At one time the brutal owner of the dog, seeing his pet getting worsted, attempted to assist him; but the crowd would have pitched him neck and crop into the river, had he not desisted. At last both dog and sheep were exhausted, and drew off, as if by mutual consent. The dog seated himself close to the outer edge of the platform, which was about three feet higher than the river's bank, and Toby went, as he was wont to do, and stood between his master's legs, resting his head fondly on the captain's clasped hands, but never took his eyes off the foe. Just then a dog on board one of the ships happened to bark, and the Falmouth dog looked round. This was Toby's chance, and he did not miss it, or his enemy, either. He was upon him like a bolt from a catapult. One furious blow knocked the dog off the platform, next moment Toby had leaped on top of him, and was chasing the yelling animal towards his own ship. There is no doubt Toby would have crossed the plank and followed him on board, had not his feet slipped, and precipitated him into the river. A few minutes afterwards, when Toby, dripping with wet, returned to the platform to look for his master, he was greeted with ringing cheers; and many was the plaster spent in treating our woolly friend to fruit. Toby was the hero of Galatz from that hour; but the Falmouth dog never ventured on shore again, and his master as seldom as possible.

On her downward voyage, when the vessel reached Sulina, at the mouth of the river, it became necessary to lighten her in order to get her over the bar. This took some time, and Toby's master frequently had to go on shore; but Toby himself was not permitted to accompany him, on account of the filth and muddiness of the place. When the captain wished to return he came down to the river-side and hailed the ship to send a boat. And poor Toby was always on the watch for his master, if no one else was. He used to place his fore-feet on the bulwarks and bleat loudly towards the shore, as much as to say: "I see you, master, and you'll have a boat in a brace of shakes." Then, if no one was on deck, Toby would at once proceed to rouse all hands fore and aft. If the mate, Mr. Gilbert, pretended to be asleep on a locker, he would fairly roll him off onto the deck.

Toby was revengeful to a degree, and, if anyone struck him, he would wait his chance, even if for days, to pay him out with interest in his own coin. He was at first very jealous of two little pigs which were bought as companions for him; but latterly he grew fond of them, and, as they soon got very tame, Toby used to walk about on the deck like a couple of footballs. There were two parties on board that Toby did not like, or rather that he liked to annoy whenever he got the chance—namely, the cook and the cat. He used to cheat the former and chase the latter on every possible occasion. If his master took supper and sat down with him on his knee, Toby would at once commence to strike it off with his head. Finding that she was so soft and yielding that this did not hurt her, he would then lift his forefoot and attempt to strike her down with that; failing in that, he would bite viciously at her; and, if the captain laughed at him, then all Toby's vengeance would be wreaked on his master. But after a scene like this the sheep would always come and coax for forgiveness. Our hero was taught a great many tricks, among others to leap backward and forward through a life-buoy. When his hay and fresh provisions were out, Toby would eat pea-soup, invariably slobbering all his face in so doing, and even pick a bone like a dog. He was likewise very fond of boiled rice, and his drink was water, although he preferred porter and ale; but, while allowing him a reasonable quantity of beer, the captain never encouraged him in the bad habit the sailors had taught him of chewing tobacco.

It is supposed that some animals have a prescience of coming storms. Toby used to go regularly to the bulwarks every night, and, placing his feet against them, snuff all around him. If content, he would go and lie down and fall fast asleep; but it was a sure sign of bad weather coming before morning when Toby kept wandering by his master's side and would not go to rest.

One day Captain Brown was going up the steps of the Custom-house, when he found that not only Toby but Toby's two pigs were following close at his heels. He turned round to drive them all back; but Toby never thought for a moment that his master meant that he should return.

"It is these two awkward creatures of pigs," thought Toby, "that master can't bear the sight of."

So Toby went to work at once, and first rolled one piggie down-stairs, then went up and rolled the other piggie down-stairs; but the one piggie always got to the top of the stairs again by the time his brother piggie was rolled down to the bottom. Thinking that, as far as appearances went, Toby had his work cut out for the next half-hour, his master entered the Custom-house. But Toby and his friends soon found some more congenial employment; and when Captain Brown returned he found them all together in an outer room, dancing about with the remains of a new mat about their necks, which they had just succeeded in tearing to pieces.

Their practical jokes cost the captain some money one way or another.

One day the three friends made a combined attack on a woman who was carrying a young pig in a sack; this little pig happened to squeak, when Toby and his pigs went to the rescue. They tore the woman's dress to atoms and delivered the little pig. Toby was very much addicted to describing the arc of a circle; that was all very good when it was merely a fence he was flying over, but when it happened that a window was in the centre of the arc, then it came rather hard on the captain's pocket.

In order to enable him to pick up a little after his long voyage, Toby was sent to country lodgings at a farmer's. But barely a week had elapsed when the farmer sent him back again with his compliments, saying that he would not keep him for his weight in gold. He led the farmer's sheep into all sorts of mischief that they had never dreamed of before, and had defied the dogs, and half-killed one or two of them.

Toby returned like himself, for when he saw his master in the distance he bleated aloud for joy, and flew towards him like a wild thing, dragging the poor boy in the mud behind him.

Toby was taken on board a vessel which was carrying out emigrants to New York, and was constantly employed all day in driving the steerage passengers off the quarter-deck. He never hurt the children, however, but contented himself by tumbling them along the deck and stealing their bread and butter.

From New York Toby went to St. Stephens. There a dog flew out and bit Captain Brown in the leg. It was a dear bite, however, for the dog, for Toby caught it in the act and hardly left life enough in it to crawl away. At St. Stephens Toby was shorn, the weather being oppressively hot. No greater insult could have been offered him. His anger and chagrin were quite ludicrous to witness. He examined himself a dozen times, and every time he looked round and saw his naked back he tried to run away from himself. But when his master, highly amused at his antics, attempted to add insult to injury, by pointing his finger at him and laughing him to scorn, Toby's wrath knew no bounds, and he attacked the captain on the spot. He managed, however, to elude the blow, and Toby walked on shore in a pet. Whether it was that he was ashamed of his ridiculous appearance, or of attempting to strike his kind master in anger, cannot be known, but for three days and nights Toby never appeared, and the captain was very wretched indeed. But when he did return he was so exceedingly penitent and so loving and coaxing that he was forgiven on the spot.

When Toby arrived with his vessel in Queen's Dock, Liverpool, on a rainy morning, some nice fresh hay was brought on board. This was a great treat for our pet, and after he had eaten his fill he thought he could not do better than sleep among it, which thought he immediately transmuted to action, covering himself all up except the head. By-and-bye the owner of the ship came on board, and, taking a survey of things in general, he spied Toby's head.

"Hollo!" he said, "what's that?" striking Toby's nose with his umbrella. "Stuffed, isn't it!"

Stuffed or not stuffed, there was a body behind it—as the owner soon knew to his cost—and a spirit that never brooked a blow; for next moment he found himself lying on his back, with his legs waggling in the air in the most expressive manner, while Toby stood triumphantly over him, waiting to repeat the dose if required.

The following anecdote shows Toby's reasoning powers. He was standing one day near the dock-yard foreman's house, when the dinner-bell rang, and just at the same time a servant came out with a piece of bread for Toby. Every day after this, as soon as the same bell rang, "That calls me," said Toby to himself, and off he would trot to the foreman's door. If the door was not at once opened he used to knock with his head; and he would knock and knock again until the servant, for peace-sake, presented him with a slice of bread.

And now Toby's tale draws near its close. The owner never forgave that blow, and one day, coming by chance across the following entry in the ship's books, "Penelos—to one sheep, 5s.," he immediately claimed Toby as his rightful property. It was all in vain that the captain begged hard for his poor pet, and even offered ten times his nominal value for him. The owner was deaf to all entreaties and obdurate. So the two friends were parted. Toby was sent a long way into the country to Carnoustie, in Forfarshire, to another of some of the owner's children, who were at school there. But the sequel shows how very deeply and dearly even a sheep can love a kind-hearted master. After the captain left him, poor Toby refused all food, and died of grief in one week's time.

"I have had many pets," says Captain Brown, "but only one Toby."—Chambers' Journal.

THE TWIN SISTERS.

The Misses Minnie A. and Lena G. French, professionally known as the French Twin Sisters (and whose portraits we give on our first page), were born in Lee, Mass., in March, 1862. Their father, Charles French, in company with Josiah Rice, published for many years The Valley Gleaner, the first newspaper published in that region. Some years ago he retired from that business, and with his family removed to New York City. On Tuesday evening, May 23, 1871, a pantomime entitled "The Three Funchbacks" was produced for the first time in the Grand Opera House, this city. In the review of the performances published in THE CLIPPER we find the following: "Two little misses of some six or seven Summers danced a sailor's hornpipe so well that they were recalled. Their names were not announced." These were the French Twins, and from then made their debut on the stage, and their names were given to the public in this journal June 12. After the conclusion of their engagement at this theatre they went to Hooley's Theatre in Brooklyn, L. I., where they performed as dancers. They remained in this city at Tony Pastor's Opera-house, in the Bowery, Jan. 22, 1872, fulfilling a four weeks' engagement. On Jan. 29 they performed for the first time in public a double song-and-dance, which met with much favor. Since that time they have fulfilled engagements in many of the principal variety theatres of this country, and are accounted popular and attractive performers. Their specialties now include musical sketches, duets, songs-and-dances, and fancy and jig dancing. They evince some dramatic talent, Minnie having acted in variety theatres the title character in "Nan the Good-for-nothing" quite successfully, and Lena having played May Edwards in "The Ticket-of-leave Man." Their young sister, Little Eva, having successfully acted the child, Adrienne Renaud, during the run of "A Celebrated Case" in this city, proves that there is inherent dramatic ability in the family. During the past season they were engaged at Aberle's Vivoli Theatre here, and a few weeks ago they were discharged because, it is said, they refused to entertain visitors in what is termed the "wine-room." They commenced a suit against the proprietor of that theatre for sal

NEW YORK CLIPPER.

SATURDAY, MAY 25, 1878.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

No Answers by Mail or Telegraph.

J. McC.—1. B cannot build up on without having one. He forfeits the game in penalty. 2. The answer to this is that, in the first place, casino is a four-hand game when played by partners, and was never intended as a partner game. In the second place, a player can assist his partner by throwing out such cards as, in his judgment, his opponents can not capture. Or he can assist him in the way you inquire about, if a special agreement, the standing rule of casino proper governs—a player cannot combine or build without having in his hand a card that will take the pile. Apart from this, there is the cardinal rule of all games—to win without a fee for their services. 2. Your own city would be the best place to produce an American drama for the first time.

ANXIOUS INQUIRER.—1. The chief duties of an advertising agent attached to a permanent theatre are to see advertisements inserted in the newspapers, and look after the posting and distributing of bills, lithographs, etc. 2. No amusements of a show nature are given in Tammany Hall, Pelican Palace here. 3. See CLIPPER ALMANAC of this year. 4. Utility people receive from $8 to $20 per week, according to ability; property-men, $20 to $30 per week.

FAIR, Horneilsville.—The fielders have no right to appeal for judgment except in the case of players running bases, or on foul balls. The umpire is the sole judge as to the character of the ball pitched, whether it be fair or unfair, and neither the pitcher nor catcher has the right to appeal to him in regard to balls or called strikes. The umpire, under the new rules, is empowered to fine any player who annoys him by unnecessary appeals of this kind.

A. P. J., Bishop's College, Louisville.—A balk is made whenever the pitcher makes any one of the various movements he makes in delivering the ball to the bat, and fails to so deliver it. He cannot make any motion to pitch the ball to the bat outside of his position without making a balk.

BETTOR, Buffalo.—"I bets J that the Buffalos don't get a run after the eighth inning up to the finish. Ten innings were played, and the game was drawn without the score at the eighth being changed; who wins the bet?".....The party who bet on their not getting a run after the eighth inning.

HAYMAKER, Troy.—"A bets B that a ball batted ten feet in the air (high), striking within the lines of a fair and a foul ground (between home and third bases), is considered a foul. Please decide.".....All balls batted up in the air are fair or foul, according as they strike the ground fair or foul. The ball you describe was a fair ball, Level A. Decide.

D. D. D., Grand Rapids.—There is a man of that name who, years ago, had a good reputation in Rochester, Buffalo, Syracuse, and other portions of New York as a capable teacher of the art of boxing, but we never heard of his going to England with Heenan, or having any hand in the latter's training for his fight with Sayers.

PATRICK, Jersey City.—1. Hanlan defeated Wallace Ross in a five-mile race at Toronto, Ont., last Fall. 2. Courtney never rowed a race of more than three miles. 3. Wait and see. 4. No match has been made between Courtney and Trickett, and, unless the American consents to go to Australia to row, none is probable.

J. R. B., St. Louis.—1. A tenor with a minstrel troupe receives from $25 to $40 per week, according to his merit and reputation. 2. The cost of such an advertisement would depend upon the space it would occupy. Six lines 90 cents, or ten lines $1.20.

M. S., Suffern.—The sire of B. F. Carver was Lightning, and his dam was La Victime. He ran almost everywhere, from Long Branch, N. J., to Austin, Texas. He was a brown horse, not a black. His best mile time, so far as we can now recall, was 1:46; and four minutes.

J. A. L., Cooperstown.—Either watch for them as they appear in our amusement columns, or address them through the respective companies in care of this office. As the present season is about closed, better wait until the next one is about opening.

A. T. F., Boston.—Your letter never reached us. No answers by mail. It is difficult to progress you definitely at this time the future movements of the gentleman inquired after, as the regular season is just closing, and engagements for next season have not yet been made.

J. B. B., Van Etten.—No answers by mail. Your best plan would be to advertise for a rope walker to perform in your town July 4. The terms would be from $50 and expenses to $200, according to the reputation of the performer.

CONSTANT READER, Portland.—Biglin and Maxwell's time in the pair-oared three-mile race at Silver Lake, June 14, 1877, was 21m. 49¾s. Faulkner and Reagan rowed the same distance, in a pair, at the Centennial Regatta, 1876, in 21m. 20s.

K. M., Penn Yan.—1. Rose Goodall seems not to be playing just now. She is a legitimate actress. 2. Lizzie Eyron is a variety specialist, and is now traveling with May Fisk's English Blondes.

OLD-TIMER, Toronto.—The Bostons won the championship in 1877, and thereby won the right to fly the champion pennant until Nov. 1, 1878. The Chicagos were champions in 1877 until October of that year.

BIG LAW, Louisville.—We would not advise you to undertake the task, for your success is doubtful; and even if you succeed, your expectations of "making anything" out of it are not likely to be realized.

J. H.—Chinamen have become citizens of the United States. We suppose it has occurred to you that the Constitution has always been, and always will be, interpreted differently by different persons.

UMPIRE, Cincinnati.—A loser. The winning club did but tie in any one inning. "Winning in one inning" means that the winners, in some inning unmarked, inning score more runs than the losers do in the entire game.

CHARITY, Baltimore.—"Rosedale" is not on public sale. Write to the author, Lester Wallack, Wallack's Theatre, this city, for the privilege of performing it for a charitable purpose.

N. J. S., Depere.—Address Scott & Co., Fulton street, Brooklyn, for the list of the market value of coins. That, we guess, is what you really want. No answers by mail.

M. C., Charleston.—1. It is a run of four for your 4, and a run of three for his 3, the game ending 4, 3, 2, 1. 2. The cards need not fall in their natural order. 3. Four sevens and an ace count 24. 4. A run of four for 7, 9, 8, 6.

C. F. T., Boston.—Robert Stickney is a son of the late Samuel P. Stickney, and was born in New Orleans, La. His late wife was a daughter of John Robinson of Cincinnati, O.

S. S. C., Elk City.—We have on sale no lists of companies now traveling. By reading THE CLIPPER attentively each week you will see them. We have returned by mail the P. O. stamps you sent.

M. H., Newark.—Maggie Mitchell is her real maiden name. In private life she is Mrs. Paddock. She first acted in "Fanchon" in St. Louis, Mo., in May, 1861. 2. It is purely a matter of opinion who is the best tragedian living.

RIVERSIDE, Cambridge.—A base is stolen whenever the baseman succeeds in getting from one base to another without being assisted by an error either of the player throwing the ball or of the baseman for whom it is thrown.

NELLIE R.—The same answer applies to the dollars, halves and quarters, which were issued under the law governing dimes and half-dimes. The three-cent silver piece was issued by Act of Congress, March 3, 1863.

MISS D., Philadelphia.—The "Water Queen" business can only be learned from some competent instructor. When a person doing feats of swimming performs in your city, interview him or her upon the subject.

OLD SUBSCRIBER, San Francisco.—1. James O'Neil is an American by birth. 2. Miss Catherine Lewis and Miss Jeffreys Lewis are sisters. 3. Miss Litton is the leading Adelaide Neilson's intention to visit America next season.

C. F. H. JR., Oil City.—"Otto" is a copyrighted drama and the sole property of George S. Knight, who alone can grant you a performance for it. By writing to him in care of this office he may do so.

W. A. M., Newark.—B. A. Rendle dramatized "Bleak House" and called it "Chesney Wold;" for Miss Bleakley Inchek; but it has since been altered and partially rewritten by another person to us unknown.

FRANK W., Chillicothe.—1. The Georgia Minstrels (C. B. Hicks' party) are in Australia. 2. The late well-known James Robinson and Charles W. Fish was given for advertising purposes.

MAUD, St. Louis.—The letters and their meaning are as follow: T. B.—times at bat; R.—runs; 1B.—base hits; P. O.—players put out; A.—assisted in putting out; E.—fielding errors. 2. Yes, if his specialty suited.

INQUIRER, Cincinnati.—Richard Penny Sheridan, who was born in Dublin, Ireland, in September, 1751, and died in London, Eng., July 7, 1816, was the author of "The School for Scandal."

JAMES R.—Mike Donovan and Jim Murray fought on Smith's Island, opposite Philadelphia, Aug. 28, 1873. Forty rounds were contested in 1h. 3m., when the police stopped it, and the stakes were subsequently drawn.

J. A. C., Petrolia.—1. Dwyer challenged to fight with or without gloves. 2 Nothing further was said about the matter. 3 and 4. There may be performers bearing those names, but they are not known to us. 5. No.

G. J. M., Natick.—We never attend to any commission for the sale of tickets.

J. B. B., Cleveland.—George Francis Train lectured at the Broadway Theatre, this city, May 12. Please note our rule at the head of this department.

D. F. L., Philadelphia.—Goldsmith Maid's best time (2:16) was made at Mystic Park, Boston, as a 3-year-old, in 1857, and not October of that year.

BIG LAW, Louisville.—We would not advise you to undertake the task, for your success is doubtful; and even if you succeed, your expectations of "making anything" out of it are not likely to be realized.

J. H.—Chinamen have become citizens of the United States. We suppose it has occurred to you that the Constitution has always been, and always will be, interpreted differently by different persons.

UMPIRE, Cincinnati.—A loser. The winning club did but tie in any one inning. "Winning in one inning" means that the winners, in some inning unmarked, inning score more runs than the losers do in the entire game.

CHARITY, Baltimore.—"Rosedale" is not on public sale. Write to the author, Lester Wallack, Wallack's Theatre, this city, for the privilege of performing it for a charitable purpose.

N. J. S., Depere.—Address Scott & Co., Fulton street, Brooklyn, for the list of the market value of coins. That, we guess, is what you really want. No answers by mail.

M. C., Charleston.—1. It is a run of four for your 4, and a run of three for his 3, the game ending 4, 3, 2, 1. 2. The cards need not fall in their natural order. 3. Four sevens and an ace count 24. 4. A run of four for 7, 9, 8, 6.

C. F. T., Boston.—Robert Stickney is a son of the late Samuel P. Stickney, and was born in New Orleans, La. His late wife was a daughter of John Robinson of Cincinnati, O.

S. S. C., Elk City.—We have on sale no lists of companies now traveling. By reading THE CLIPPER attentively each week you will see them. We have returned by mail the P. O. stamps you sent.

M. H., Newark.—Maggie Mitchell is her real maiden name. In private life she is Mrs. Paddock. She first acted in "Fanchon" in St. Louis, Mo., in May, 1861. 2. It is purely a matter of opinion who is the best tragedian living.

RIVERSIDE, Cambridge.—A base is stolen whenever the baseman succeeds in getting from one base to another without being assisted by an error either of the player throwing the ball or of the baseman for whom it is thrown.

NELLIE R.—The same answer applies to the dollars, halves and quarters, which were issued under the law governing dimes and half-dimes. The three-cent silver piece was issued by Act of Congress, March 3, 1863.

MISS D., Philadelphia.—The "Water Queen" business can only be learned from some competent instructor. When a person doing feats of swimming performs in your city, interview him or her upon the subject.

OLD SUBSCRIBER, San Francisco.—1. James O'Neil is an American by birth. 2. Miss Catherine Lewis and Miss Jeffreys Lewis are sisters. 3. Miss Litton is the leading Adelaide Neilson's intention to visit America next season.

C. F. H. JR., Oil City.—"Otto" is a copyrighted drama and the sole property of George S. Knight, who alone can grant you a performance for it. By writing to him in care of this office he may do so.

W. A. M., Newark.—B. A. Rendle dramatized "Bleak House" and called it "Chesney Wold;" for Miss Bleakley Inchek; but it has since been altered and partially rewritten by another person to us unknown.

FRANK W., Chillicothe.—1. The Georgia Minstrels (C. B. Hicks' party) are in Australia. 2. The late well-known James Robinson and Charles W. Fish was given for advertising purposes.

MAUD, St. Louis.—The letters and their meaning are as follow: T. B.—times at bat; R.—runs; 1B.—base hits; P. O.—players put out; A.—assisted in putting out; E.—fielding errors. 2. Yes, if his specialty suited.

INQUIRER, Cincinnati.—Richard Penny Sheridan, who was born in Dublin, Ireland, in September, 1751, and died in London, Eng., July 7, 1816, was the author of "The School for Scandal."

JAMES R.—Mike Donovan and Jim Murray fought on Smith's Island, opposite Philadelphia, Aug. 28, 1873. Forty rounds were contested in 1h. 3m., when the police stopped it, and the stakes were subsequently drawn.

SOUTHWARK, Lancaster.—We cannot say what has become of Miracle St. Clair, vocalist. The letter you refer to is still in our office, not having been sent for.

TOMMY DODD, Milwaukee.—The negative, under our rule.

J. B. B., Cleveland.—George Francis Train lectured at the Broadway Theatre, this city, May 12. Please note our rule at the head of this department.

D. F. L., Philadelphia.—Goldsmith Maid's best time (2:16) was made at Mystic Park, Boston, as a 3-year-old, in 1857, and not October of that year.

BIG LAW, Louisville.—We would not advise you to undertake the task, for your success is doubtful; and even if you succeed, your expectations of "making anything" out of it are not likely to be realized.

J. H.—Chinamen have become citizens of the United States. We suppose it has occurred to you that the Constitution has always been, and always will be, interpreted differently by different persons.

UMPIRE, Cincinnati.—A loser. The winning club did but tie in any one inning. "Winning in one inning" means that the winners, in some inning unmarked, inning score more runs than the losers do in the entire game.

CHARITY, Baltimore.—"Rosedale" is not on public sale. Write to the author, Lester Wallack, Wallack's Theatre, this city, for the privilege of performing it for a charitable purpose.

N. J. S., Depere.—Address Scott & Co., Fulton street, Brooklyn, for the list of the market value of coins. That, we guess, is what you really want. No answers by mail.

M. C., Charleston.—1. It is a run of four for your 4, and a run of three for his 3, the game ending 4, 3, 2, 1. 2. The cards need not fall in their natural order. 3. Four sevens and an ace count 24. 4. A run of four for 7, 9, 8, 6.

C. F. T., Boston.—Robert Stickney is a son of the late Samuel P. Stickney, and was born in New Orleans, La. His late wife was a daughter of John Robinson of Cincinnati, O.

S. S. C., Elk City.—We have on sale no lists of companies now traveling. By reading THE CLIPPER attentively each week you will see them. We have returned by mail the P. O. stamps you sent.

M. H., Newark.—Maggie Mitchell is her real maiden name. In private life she is Mrs. Paddock. She first acted in "Fanchon" in St. Louis, Mo., in May, 1861. 2. It is purely a matter of opinion who is the best tragedian living.

RIVERSIDE, Cambridge.—A base is stolen whenever the baseman succeeds in getting from one base to another without being assisted by an error either of the player throwing the ball or of the baseman for whom it is thrown.

NELLIE R.—The same answer applies to the dollars, halves and quarters, which were issued under the law governing dimes and half-dimes. The three-cent silver piece was issued by Act of Congress, March 3, 1863.

MISS D., Philadelphia.—The "Water Queen" business can only be learned from some competent instructor. When a person doing feats of swimming performs in your city, interview him or her upon the subject.

OLD SUBSCRIBER, San Francisco.—1. James O'Neil is an American by birth. 2. Miss Catherine Lewis and Miss Jeffreys Lewis are sisters. 3. Miss Litton is the leading Adelaide Neilson's intention to visit America next season.

C. F. H. JR., Oil City.—"Otto" is a copyrighted drama and the sole property of George S. Knight, who alone can grant you a performance for it. By writing to him in care of this office he may do so.

W. A. M., Newark.—B. A. Rendle dramatized "Bleak House" and called it "Chesney Wold;" for Miss Bleakley Inchek; but it has since been altered and partially rewritten by another person to us unknown.

FRANK W., Chillicothe.—1. The Georgia Minstrels (C. B. Hicks' party) are in Australia. 2. The late well-known James Robinson and Charles W. Fish was given for advertising purposes.

MAUD, St. Louis.—The letters and their meaning are as follow: T. B.—times at bat; R.—runs; 1B.—base hits; P. O.—players put out; A.—assisted in putting out; E.—fielding errors. 2. Yes, if his specialty suited.

INQUIRER, Cincinnati.—Richard Penny Sheridan, who was born in Dublin, Ireland, in September, 1751, and died in London, Eng., July 7, 1816, was the author of "The School for Scandal."

JAMES R.—Mike Donovan and Jim Murray fought on Smith's Island, opposite Philadelphia, Aug. 28, 1873. Forty rounds were contested in 1h. 3m., when the police stopped it, and the stakes were subsequently drawn.

SOUTHWARK, Lancaster.—We cannot say what has become of Miracle St. Clair, vocalist. The letter you refer to is still in our office, not having been sent for.

TOMMY DODD, Milwaukee.—The negative, under our rule.

J. A. C., Petrolia.—1. Dwyer challenged to fight with or without gloves. 2 Nothing further was said about the matter. 3 and 4. There may be performers bearing those names, but they are not known to us. 5. No.

G. J. M., Natick.—We never attend to any commission for the sale of tickets.

CONSTANT READER, Portland.—Biglin and Maxwell's time in the pair-oared three-mile race at Silver Lake, June 14, 1877, was 21m. 49¾s. Faulkner and Reagan rowed the same distance, in a pair, at the Centennial Regatta, 1876, in 21m. 20s.

K. M., Penn Yan.—1. Rose Goodall seems not to be playing just now. She is a legitimate actress. 2. Lizzie Eyron is a variety specialist, and is now traveling with May Fisk's English Blondes.

OLD-TIMER, Toronto.—The Bostons won the championship in 1877, and thereby won the right to fly the champion pennant until Nov. 1, 1878. The Chicagos were champions in 1877 until

TECUMSEH vs. LOWELL.

The Tecumsehs and Lowells met for their second championship game May 13, and the result was the reverse of the previous contest, the home club being well whitewashed in this game, while their opponents ran up a score of six, only two of which were earned. Foley was hit hard in this game, while the Lowells were unable to hit Goldsmith with any effect. Hawes put in two errors, the first of the latter, his chances being all easy to take care of. The batting of the visitors was almost perfect, their only error being a passed ball in the left field by Hornung of a hard-hit ball by Hawes. The outfielders' work for the home club was fine, that of Hawes, barring his errors, especially so, he making two beauty flies on a sharp run.

| TECUMSEH. | T. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | E. | LOWELL. | T. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Powers, c... | 5 | 1 | 1 | 5 | 0 | 0 | Hawes, c. f., | 4 | 0 | 2 | 3 | 0 | 2 |
| Hall, c. f.... | 5 | 2 | 2 | 1 | 0 | 0 | Whitney, l.f. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 3 | 0 | 1 |
| Hornung, l. f. | 6 | 1 | 3 | 2 | 0 | 0 | Foley, p.... | 4 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 1 | 0 |
| Burke, s. s.. | 6 | 1 | 2 | 5 | 7 | 0 | Powell, 1st b | 5 | 0 | 1 | 12 | 0 | 1 |
| Barnes, 2d b | 4 | 0 | 2 | 1 | 4 | 0 | Whitney, 3b | 5 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 4 | 1 |
| Goldsmith, p | 4 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 3 | 0 | Sullivan, c.. | 3 | 0 | 1 | 7 | 2 | 0 |
| Bradley, 1b. | 4 | 0 | 1 | 13 | 1 | 0 | Wright, s. s. | 3 | 0 | 1 | 1 | 8 | 0 |
| Dorscher, 3b | 4 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 1 | 0 | Knight, r. f. | 3 | 0 | 1 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Dunigan, r. f | 4 | 0 | 2 | 1 | 0 | 0 | Booth, 2d b. | 3 | 0 | 1 | 3 | 3 | 1 |
| Totals... | 42 | 6 | 13 | 27 | 14 | 1 | Totals... | 34 | 0 | 8 | 26 | 12 | 7 |

Tecumseh.....1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—2
Lowell.....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0

Earned runs—Tecumseh, 2. First base on errors—Tecumseh, 5. Umpire, J. J. Egan. Time, 2h.
*Hall was struck by a batted ball.

NEW BEDFORD vs. COLLEGIANS.

The New Bedfords—en route South—stopped at Princeton, N. J., May 18 to play the college nine of that city; but the University nine were unable to play, and so a match was made up in which several of the Princetons took part. The collegian nine were unable to bat Bradley, while the Bedfords got into their pitcher for 13 hits, with total of 17. Bradley, Evans, Reilly and Gore distinguished themselves in the field; Stovey, Evans, Gore, Crook, Davis and Reilly leading with the ash. Cutts made the only run for the collegians, stealing from third home while ball was passing between pitcher and catcher. Mutrie deserves especial mention for making several scientific sacrifice-hits.

| NEW B'FD'D. | T. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | E. | PRINCETON. | T. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Evans, r. f.. | 6 | 1 | 1 | 3 | 0 | 0 | Richm'd, l. f. | 4 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 1 |
| Gore, c. f.... | 5 | 1 | 2 | 3 | 0 | 0 | Winslow, 2b. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 3 | 0 |
| Pigeott, 1stb | 5 | 0 | 0 | 5 | 1 | 1 | Meader, r. f. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Bradley, p.... | 5 | 1 | 2 | 2 | 9 | 1 | Nicker'n, 1b. | 4 | 1 | 0 | 16 | 0 | 0 |
| Crook, 3d b.. | 5 | 1 | 2 | 3 | 1 | 1 | Ray, c..... | 3 | 0 | 0 | 4 | 1 | 2 |
| Stovey, l. f.. | 5 | 3 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 | Marple, c. f. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Davis, 2d b.. | 5 | 2 | 2 | 0 | 1 | 1 | Vandyke, c. f | 4 | 0 | 0 | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| Mutrie, s. s.. | 5 | 3 | 0 | 3 | 1 | 0 | Kallie, 1st b. | 3 | 0 | 0 | 7 | 0 | 2 |
| Reilly, c.... | 5 | 1 | 2 | 12 | 0 | 0 | Hammell, s. s | 3 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 2 | 1 |
| Totals.. | 46 | 14 | 13 | 27 | 13 | 2 | Totals.. | 34 | 1 | 3 | 27 | 11 | 15 |

New Bedford.....0 0 1 0 1 0 2 7 3—14
Princeton.....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0—1

First base by errors—New Bedford, 7; Princeton, 2. Earned runs—New Bedford, 5. Umpire, Mr. Oliver of the Princeton University Club. Time of game, 2h.

STATEN ISLAND vs. CRESCENT.

The Crescent Club of Plainfield, N. J., visited Staten Island on May 18, and there had a very pleasant match with the gentlemen of the Staten Island nine, the result being the science of the Islanders.

| STATEN ISLAND. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | | CRESCENT. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Henry, p. | 1 | 2 | 0 | 3 | | Smith, s. s.... | 0 | 1 | 3 | 3 | |
| Worth, 1st b..... | 3 | 2 | 15 | 0 | 2 | St. John, l. f.... | 1 | 0 | 2 | 0 | |
| Jansen, 3d b..... | 2 | 1 | 2 | 2 | 1 | McCutcheon, 2d b. | 1 | 3 | 2 | 5 | |
| Dollard, 2d b..... | 0 | 0 | 3 | 4 | | Busby, r. f.... | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | |
| Fiske, s. s..... | 1 | 1 | 0 | 1 | | Potter, p..... | 0 | 0 | 1 | 3 | |
| McKinley, c. f.... | 3 | 2 | 2 | 2 | | Merritt, 1st b..... | 1 | 0 | 10 | 0 | |
| Wiggins, c..... | 1 | 1 | 4 | 1 | | Ashmore, c..... | 1 | 1 | 5 | 1 | |
| Sanford, r. f..... | 2 | 2 | 0 | 0 | | Cornwell, 3d b.... | 1 | 0 | 1 | 0 | |
| Barr, l. f..... | 1 | 1 | 2 | 0 | | Littell, c. f..... | 1 | 0 | 1 | 2 | |
| Totals... | 15 | 12 | 27 | 13 | | Totals... | 6 | 5 | 27 | 13 | |

Staten Island.....2 0 1 2 0 1 1 7—15
Crescent.....0 0 0 1 1 2 1 0—5

Earned runs—Staten Island, 5. Umpire, Mr. Cole of the Alpha Club. Time, 2h. 15m.

WITOKA vs. ALASKA.

The Alaskas of Staten Island played the Witoka nine on the Capitoline Groundsfon May 18, with the appended result:

| WITOKA. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | E. | ALASKA. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Hoy, c. f..... | 1 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 | Smith, 1st b.... | 1 | 1 | 13 | 0 | 0 |
| Shannon, r. f.... | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | Carpenter, c.... | 0 | 1 | 3 | 2 | 0 |
| Clare, p..... | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 5 | Esterbrook, s.s. | 1 | 2 | 4 | 1 | 0 |
| Crane, s. s..... | 1 | 1 | 3 | 0 | 2 | McCord, 2d b.... | 1 | 0 | 1 | 2 | 0 |
| Smith, 2d b..... | 1 | 2 | 2 | 3 | 1 | Poorman, p.... | 3 | 1 | 2 | 1 | 0 |
| Farrell, 1d b..... | 1 | 2 | 2 | 0 | 0 | Sullivan, r. f.... | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Burns, c..... | 0 | 1 | 4 | 5 | 11 | Newman, r. f.... | 0 | 2 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Reid, 1st b..... | 1 | 1 | 10 | 0 | 2 | Higgins, 3d b... | 2 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 |
| Willetts, 3d b... | 0 | 0 | 0 | 3 | 1 | Mack, c. f..... | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 |
| Totals... | 7 | 9 | 27 | 13 | 24 | Totals... | 10 | 6 | 27 | 11 | 7 |

Witoka.....0 1 2 2 0 0 0 0 —7
Alaska.....0 0 0 0 1 0 2 3 0—6

Umpire, Mr. Rice of the Alaska, New York. Time, 2h. 15m

WESTBORO vs. BROWN.

A second victory was secured by the Westboros over the Brown University nine at Providence, R. I., May 17.

| WESTBORO. | T. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | E. | BROWN. | T. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Gilligan, c... | 5 | 0 | 0 | 12 | 0 | 3 | Richm'd, l. f. | 4 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 1 |
| Cronin, 2d b | 5 | 1 | 2 | 1 | 2 | 0 | Winslow, 2b. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 3 | 0 |
| Sweeny, 1b. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 10 | 0 | 0 | Meader, r. f. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Quinn, r. f.. | 4 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 | Nicker'n, 1b. | 4 | 1 | 0 | 16 | 0 | 0 |
| Gardiner, 3b. | 4 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 0 | Ray, c..... | 3 | 0 | 0 | 4 | 1 | 2 |
| Porter, c. f.. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | Crocker, p.... | 4 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Keefe, p.... | 4 | 2 | 2 | 1 | 9 | 1 | Butt'rw'th, 3b | 3 | 0 | 0 | 3 | 3 | 0 |
| Tierney, s. s. | 4 | 1 | 2 | 2 | 1 | 0 | Taylor, s. s.. | 3 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 1 | 1 |
| McCarty, l. f | 4 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 | Stone, c. f... | 3 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Totals... | 38 | 8 | 8 | 27 | 13 | 6 | Totals... | 31 | 1 | 2 | 27 | 14 | 11 |

Westboro.....1 0 1 4 0 0 0 0 2—8
Brown.....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0—1

First base on errors—Westboro, 2; Brown, 2. Umpire, D. C. Martin. Time, 1h. 40m.

HAYMAKER vs. MERIDEN.

On May 18 the Haymakers of New Haven showed up in Meriden, Ct., where they waxed the local team.

| MERIDEN. | T. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | E. | HAYMAKER. | T. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Keeney, l. f. | 4 | 1 | 1 | 2 | 0 | 1 | Lane, 2d b.. | 5 | 2 | 2 | 0 | 4 | 0 |
| Nolan, c. f.... | 4 | 0 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 | Carpenter, c. | 5 | 0 | 1 | 11 | 6 | 1 |
| Redigan, 3b. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 4 | 3 | 0 | Flanagan, l. f | 4 | 1 | 1 | 3 | 0 | 1 |
| Cusick, 2d b. | 3 | 1 | 1 | 8 | 2 | 2 | McDon'd, 1b | 4 | 1 | 1 | 13 | 0 | 1 |
| Carpenter, c. | 3 | 0 | 1 | 2 | 2 | 1 | Coffey, s. s.. | 4 | 1 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 5 |
| Reid, p..... | 4 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 7 | 0 | Murray, c.... | 4 | 0 | 0 | 4 | 2 | 0 |
| Lockah'e, r. f | 3 | 2 | 2 | 0 | 0 | 1 | Clark, 3d b... | 3 | 2 | 1 | 2 | 4 | 1 |
| Davis, s. s... | 3 | 1 | 2 | 2 | 4 | 0 | Smith, r. f.. | 3 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 2 |
| Birdsey, 1b. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 7 | 0 | 0 | O'Neill, c. f. | 3 | 1 | 2 | 0 | 0 | 2 |
| Totals... | 32 | 6 | 8 | 27 | 14 | 10 | Totals... | 34 | 9 | 10 | 27 | 21 | 14 |

Meriden.....1 0 0 2 0 0 0 1 2—6
Haymaker.....6 0 0 0 0 0 3 0 0—9

First base by errors—Meriden, 5; Haymaker, 4. Umpire, George Heller, International League. Time, 1h. 42m.

MANCHESTER vs. LOWELL.

Wellnigh three thousand people went home disappointed after these clubs had finished their match on Lowell, Mass., on May 18, the visitors having scooped in the home team by a score. The play was excellent upon both sides, the victors fairly surpassing theuselves.

| MANCHESTER. | T. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | E. | LOWELL. | T. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Cogeswell, 1b | 4 | 0 | 1 | 11 | 0 | 0 | Hawes, c. f., | 4 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Kelley, c..... | 4 | 0 | 0 | 4 | 4 | 0 | F. Whitney, lf | 3 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| O'Rourke, c f | 4 | 1 | 2 | 6 | 0 | 0 | Foley, p.... | 3 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 3 | 0 |
| Leary, ss.... | 4 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 3 | 0 | Powell, 1st b. | 3 | 0 | 0 | 13 | 0 | 2 |
| Dailey, s. s.. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 4 | 0 | A. Whitny, 3b | 3 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 |
| Hawkes, 2b. | 4 | 0 | 2 | 2 | 2 | 0 | Sullivan, c.. | 3 | 0 | 0 | 7 | 2 | 1 |
| Rowen, r. f.. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | Wright, s. s. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 6 | 0 |
| Woodhe'd, 3b | 5 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 2 | 1 | Knight, r. f.. | 3 | 0 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 1 |
| Snigg, l. f.... | 3 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | Booth, 2d b. | 3 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 3 | 1 |
| Totals... | 36 | 1 | 5 | 27 | 17 | 1 | Totals... | 29 | 1 | 2 | 27 | 16 | 6 |

Manchester.....0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 2—3
Lowell.....0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0—1

Earned run—Lowell, 1. First base on errors—Harris, Leary, Dailey, Woodhead. Umpire, J. J. Egan of Boston. Time, 2h. 15m

STAR vs. ALLEGHENY.

The visiting Alleghenies showed how badly they are capable of playing when they met the Star Club at Syracuse, N. Y., May 17.

| STAR. | T. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | E. | ALLEGHENY. | T. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Dorgan, c. f. | 5 | 2 | 3 | 0 | 0 | 1 | Knowdell, c. | 4 | 0 | 1 | 4 | 1 | 5 |
| Hotaling, c.. | 6 | 2 | 3 | 16 | 3 | 3 | Luff, l. f.... | 4 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 1 | 0 |
| Farrell, 2d b. | 5 | 1 | 2 | 1 | 5 | 0 | Fenner, s. s. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 2 | 1 |
| Mack, s. s.... | 6 | 2 | 3 | 0 | 2 | 0 | Strief, 2d b.. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 5 | 9 | 1 |
| McKin'on, lb | 6 | 2 | 3 | 9 | 0 | 1 | Clinton, cf, p. | 4 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 4 |
| McCormick, p | 6 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 14 | 1 | Glasse'ck, 3b | 4 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 4 | 1 |
| Mansell, l. f. | 5 | 2 | 2 | 0 | 0 | 0 | Lane, 1st b.. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 10 | 1 | 0 |
| Carpter, 3b. | 5 | 3 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 0 | Hagan, r. f.. | 3 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 |
| Macullar, r. f. | 4 | 1 | 2 | 0 | 0 | 0 | Jenckes, p, cf. | 3 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 3 | 1 |
| Totals... | 48 | 16 | 20 | 27 | 21 | 6 | Totals... | 33 | 1 | 2 | 27 | 23 | 14 |

Star.....1 3 0 0 2 4 4 0 2—16
Allegheny.....0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0—1

Earned runs—Star, 7. First base on errors—Star, 3; Allegheny, 5. Umpire, Joseph Young of Syracuse. Time, 2h. 20m.

ATLANTIC vs. RICHMOND.

The Richmonds and Atlantics played their second game at Richmond, Va., May 15, the latter winning by a score of 8 to nothing. Notwithstanding cloudy and uncertain weather, the attendance was large.

| RICHMOND. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | E. | ATLANTIC. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| H. Hankins, c. | 0 | 0 | 4 | 0 | 1 | Chandler, 1st b. | 1 | 2 | 11 | 0 | 1 |
| W. Hankins, l. f | 0 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 | Parson, l..... | 1 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Hinchman, 2b. | 0 | 1 | 2 | 3 | 3 | W. Barford, c. | 2 | 1 | 9 | 4 | 3 |
| Glenn, s. s..... | 0 | 1 | 2 | 4 | 1 | Lively, 2d b.... | 0 | 1 | 4 | 3 | 1 |
| Marion, c. f.... | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | R. Barford, r. f. | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Powell, 1st b.... | 0 | 0 | 9 | 0 | 0 | Crosslin, s. s. | 0 | 2 | 2 | 2 | 1 |
| Latouche, 3d b | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 3 | Devine, p..... | 0 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 2 |
| Galloway, r. f.. | 0 | 0 | 1 | 1 | 0 | Marion, 3d b.... | 3 | 2 | 1 | 2 | 0 |
| Boshen, p..... | 0 | 2 | 1 | 4 | 2 | Dolan, c, f..... | 1 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Totals..... | 0 | 5 | 27 | 15 | 12 | Totals..... | 8 | 10 | 27 | 13 | 8 |

Umpire, C. W. Turner.

THE MILWAUKEE CLUB.

Our correspondent at Milwaukee, Wis., writes: "The Milwaukees returned home from their Southern trip May 12, feeling much better for their two weeks' severe practice. They played seven League games—won one, lost five, and the seventh was declared a draw. This was not a very encouraging record, it is true; but the lesson taught will be of great benefit to them in future contests. It is all very well to be sanguine, to be confident of success, but it is poor policy to be overconfident, to count success a foregone conclusion. The members of the Milwaukee nine are far younger in professional experience and years than any of their opponents; but as baseball is essentially a game for boys, there is no earthly reason why the younger men should not excel in the sport. The home team had fifteen days' practice together when the League season opened. They came together late in the season, and when they did arrive rainy weather set in and prevented at least twenty days' practice. Cincinnati had sixty days' good, steady practice, and Indianapolis had about the same when the season opened. It is plain to see which clubs had the advantage. The Milwaukees played under great disadvantages, but a strong determination to win was evinced in each contest: it was conceded that there was sufficient raw material in the nine, which, with a little discipline, would develop rapidly. The prediction that the batting strength of the team had been underestimated was not very far wrong."

BASEBALL NOTES.

Jersey City will be represented this season by a strong team, known as the Browns. They will play their opening game on Monday, May 27, with the strong Alaskas of Staten Island, at the Centennial Grounds, Jersey City. The Browns consist of the following players: G. W. Brown, p.; J. G. Brown, c.; T. S. Brown, 1st b.; A. L. Brown, 2d b.; P. Brown, 3d b.; S. W. Brown, s. s.; E. L. Brown, l. f.; D. R. Brown, c. f.; R. W. Brown, r. f.... The Excelsior Club (amateurs) of Memphis, Tenn., has been organized three years, and is run by Willie Gibbons, c.; George Benshierd, p.; Jerry Donohue, s. s.; Frank O'Neil, 1st b.; John McGrath, 2d b.; John Flynn, 3d b.; Tom Keys, l. f.; John McBride, c. f.; and Pat Cummins, r. f. George Renshierd is secretary and treasurer, and John Flynn captain..... The Riversides and Eagles May 12, and Riversides and Eckfords May 19, at Central Park..... In the game between the Lafayette College team and the Eagles of New York, at Easton, Pa., O'Connor, the catcher of the latter, was struck in the eye, seriously injured by a foul tip, and obliged to retire from the field at the opening of the second inning, thereby causing the utter demoralization of the team. Sweeny will be found to catch, Fallon to first, and Parks, an old ball-player of Easton, to center..... The Hudson B. B. C. have organized for the season of '78, and will have their opening game on Saturday, May 25, when they will appear in a new suit, composed of gray pants, shirts and hats, blue belts and stockings, all made for them by Glover of Brooklyn. They will play a strong nine. The Hudsons would like to hear from Poughkeepsie, Albany, Troy, Syracuse, Hornell, Utica, Rochester, Binghamton, New Haven, Lynn, Springfield, Buffalo, Lowell, Pittsfield, Allegheny, Meriden, Monitors, Waterbury, Auburn, Resolute of New Jersey, and the Amherst, Brown, Howard, Yale, Princeton and Trinity College Clubs. All communications should be addressed to Ben Baldwin, cor. sec'y, 46 4th st., So. Brooklyn, N. Y..... The Eagle B. B. C. of Washington have reorganized, and, says the manager, "by the aid of some enterprising gentlemen have secured one of the finest grounds ever seen in Washington, situated at the head of the Columbia street Railway, corner 15th and H streets, N. E. The cars run direct to the gates. The ground is 591 feet long by 464 feet wide, inclosed with a good fence, 6 feet high, a grand stand, covered seats, with ample accommodations for 1,500 people. It is by far the finest ground ever seen in Washington, and I am now prepared to offer liberal inducements, guarantee, or sharing terms, to all professional, semi-professional or amateur clubs coming this way during the season of 1878." Address Wm. Warren White, manager Eagle B. B. Club, Third Auditor's Office, Washington, D. C..... May 15, at Utica, N. Y., Utica vs. Rusty, 14 to 0.....14, at Marlboro, Mass., Hudson vs. Madden Bros., 10 to 9.....

MONITOR VS. MERIDEN.—The Meridens of Meriden, Ct., visited Waterbury May 16, and were then and there defeated by the Monitors. The Meridens were confident of victory, as they had defeated the New Haven professionals the two games those clubs played. The Monitors batted with telling effect, earning eight runs and making 21 basehits. The Monitors play the New Havens here in June, and would like to arrange a series of games with all State clubs for the State championship.

| | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Monitor..... | 3 | 0 | 1 | 4 | 0 | 0 | 8 | 0 | 8—19 |
| Meriden..... | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0—1 |

Earned runs—Monitor, 8. Three-base hit—Fruin, 1. Two-base hits—Mulvaney, 2; Fruin, 1; Fitzgerald, 1; Reid, 1. Double-plays—Fruin and Connor, 1; Keesey and Carpenter, 1.

BUFFALO vs. NEW HAVEN.

The Elm City nine claim that the game in which they opposed the Buffalos at New Haven, Ct., May 17, was given to the latter by unjust decisions. The local team did most execution with the stick, and also excelled in fielding. Holdsworth and Moore and Battin and Moore were credited with double-plays.

| BUFFALO. | T. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | E. | N. HAVEN. | T. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Eggler, c. f.. | 4 | 1 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 0 | H'dsw'th, c. f. | 4 | 0 | 2 | 3 | 1 | 0 |
| Allen, 3d b.. | 5 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | Barrett, l. f. | 4 | 0 | 1 | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| Pierce, s. s.. | 5 | 1 | 3 | 3 | 5 | 1 | Battin, 3d b. | 3 | 0 | 2 | 3 | 5 | 0 |
| Crowley, c.. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 7 | 2 | 1 | Lynch, s. s.. | 4 | 1 | 0 | 1 | 3 | 1 |
| Libby, 1st b. | 4 | 1 | 2 | 9 | 0 | 0 | McCabe, 2b.. | 4 | 1 | 1 | 3 | 1 | 0 |
| Galvin, p.... | 3 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 5 | 1 | Ring, r. f.... | 4 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Fulmer, 2b.. | 3 | 0 | 1 | 5 | 3 | 1 | Cumm'gs, p. | 4 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 3 | 1 |
| McSorley, r. f. | 3 | 0 | 1 | 2 | 0 | 0 | Moore, 1st b. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 12 | 0 | 0 |
| Dolan, l. f... | 3 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 1 | 0 | Barnie, c.... | 2 | 0 | 1 | 2 | 1 | 1 |
| | | | | | | | Pabor, r. f... | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 |
| Totals... | 35 | 3 | 8 | 27 | 18 | 5 | Totals... | 36 | 2 | 9 | 27 | 15 | 4 |

Buffalo.....0 0 1 0 0 2 0 0 0—3
New Haven.....0 0 0 0 0 0 2 0 0—2

Earned runs—Buffalo, 2; New Haven, 4. Umpire, Wilbur E. Horton. Time, 1h. 45m.

LOWELL vs. WORCESTER.

May 17 the Lowells played a very interesting game with the Worcesters on the grounds of the former. McGlynn and Matthews have joined the Worcesters and played in the game. Matthews was a little lame, and gave place to Flint in the seventh inning.

| LOWELL. | T. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | E. | WORCESTER. | T. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Hawes, c. f.. | 5 | 2 | 3 | 0 | 0 | 0 | McGlynn, c.. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 4 | 3 | 1 |
| F. Whitney, l. f | 5 | 2 | 1 | 2 | 0 | 0 | Muldoon, s.s. | 4 | 0 | 1 | 1 | 2 | 0 |
| Powell, 1st b. | 5 | 0 | 0 | 9 | 0 | 1 | Farrell, 3b. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 7 | 1 | 2 |
| Whitney, 3b. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 4 | 0 | Moran, l. f... | 4 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Sullivan, c.. | 6 | 1 | 1 | 3 | 1 | 1 | Lynch, 2d b. | 4 | 0 | 1 | 2 | 1 | 1 |
| Wright, s. s.. | 3 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 3 | 1 | Fitz'ld, c. f., | 3 | 0 | 0 | 5 | 0 | 1 |
| Knight, r. f.. | 5 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 0 | Flint, r. f., p. | 3 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 2 | 0 |
| Booth, 2d b.. | 4 | 2 | 2 | 4 | 3 | 1 | Gill, 2d b., p. | 3 | 0 | 1 | 5 | 1 | 0 |
| *Hartwell, 1b | 2 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 1 | Math's, p., r. f. | 3 | 0 | 1 | 1 | 5 | 0 |
| Totals... | 46 | 12 | 15 | 27 | 13 | 5 | Totals... | 32 | 0 | 3 | 27 | 15 | 6 |

Lowell.....2 1 0 3 0 0 2 2 2—12
Worcester.....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0

*Powell was hit in the face, and Hartwell took his place in the eighth inning.

Umpire, H. E. Webster.

THE HORNELLS arrived home May 11. They played 17 games, won 10 and lost 7. Receipts, $1,300; profits, $600. Games for this week:

May 15, Hornell vs. Auburn, at Hornellsville; State.
May 16, Hornell vs. Cricket, at Hornellsv'le; International.
May 18, Hornell vs. Rochester, at H'n'lsv'e; International.

They have a double grand stand added, reporters' stand and telegraph office to grounds. A platform is placed a blackboard in right field to announce result of each inning. The board is 16 feet long and 6 feet high.

LOWELL vs. HUDSON.—May 15 the Lowells visited Hudson, Mass., and defeated the home club. as will be seen below. The Hudsons played a strong batting game, and the second-base play of Robinson was first-class respect.

| LOWELL. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | E. | HUDSON. | R. | 1B. | PO. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Lowell..... | 3 | 2 | 0 | 4 | 0 | 4 | Hudson..... | 1 | 1 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 0—4 |

Umpire, Waldo Brigham. Time, 2h. 15m.

GEN. WORTH VS. BEACON.—A match at Stoneham, Mass., May 18, resulted in the defeat of the Beacons of Boston by the Worth Club.

| | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| General Worth..... | 2 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 4 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0—9 |
| Beacon..... | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0—1 |

Umpire, George Merrill of Melrose.

THE RING.

DONOVAN AGAIN DEFEATS McCLELLAN.

Readers of this column will remember that after the glove-contest between W. C. McClellan and Mike Donovan, in this city, April 6 last (which the latter lost only by neglecting to follow the referee's instructions, as he had his man dead beaten in sixteen rounds), Donovan offered to fight Mac again either with or without the gloves, for $500 or $1,000 a side. Either of these amounts Mike could doubtless easily have obtained, after the way in which he had handled the previously undefeated and formidable victor over Doyle, Cash, Murray and McDermott, but it is about equally as certain that McClellan could not, and for the self-same reasons. However, Mac had received a blow in himself still, attributing his downfall to weakness resulting from overtraining, combined with the alleged disadvantage under which he believed in consequence of the loss of his right hand, which he broke in his fight with McDermott, being of comparatively little use to him. Such being the case, and friends who thought they saw an opportunity for some more money in the pugilistic line being willing to undertake the management of another subscription affair, a purse of $500 was promised the rival gladiators as a substantial inducement for them to again attempt a decisive settlement of the question as to their relative pugilistic abilities. Both men were agreeable, and they set to work to get themselves in trim for the encounter, which took place in a room uptown—the same place where McClellan and Harry Hicken fought a draw some months ago—on Saturday evening, May 18, three days later than the date originally fixed upon. So great was the desire to secure tickets of admission to this selectistic levee that, though not obtainable for less than ten dollars apiece, the demand for them was far greater than the gentleman managing it cared to supply, the less being to have only enough spectators present to make up the purse for the winner, afford the loser solid consolation, and pay incidental expenses. About one hundred and fifty succeeded in securing passports, composed mainly of professional and business men, gentlemen of leisure, etc., with a sprinkling of old-time and modern knights of the P. R., and men well known on the race-track throughout the country. The men fought on a stage erected at one end of the room, reaching from side to side, with ropes stretching across the front after the fashion of the ring—but the dimensions of the fighting space being about eighteen by twenty feet. It was well lighted, but the air of the ill-ventilated room was chokingly close and the heat oppressive, rendering many of those who occupied seats in the improvised gallery to doff their upper garments, and threatening destruction to the shirt-collar of a military gentleman of note, as well as that of him whose motto is: "No coat on dry land."

Shortly after eight o'clock the principals made their appearance, Donovan being accompanied by his brother Jerry and Joe Goss as seconds, while McClellan had Johnny Dwyer and Ned Mallahan for esquires. The former is 30 years old, 5ft. 8in. in height, and scaled 145lb; McClellan is a year the senior of his opponent, and was a pound heavier. The colors were: For Donovan, Andy Sheehan, one of McClellan's seconds in his fight with Morrissey; for McClellan, a retired boxer, who was one of Mac's seconds in his fight with McDermott and the first meeting with Donovan. Billy Borst officiated as referee. The men were dirobed without unnecessary delay, and upon being delivered at the centre were very quick to get at the business which called them together, Donovan being first to offer; and though his initial essay was parried, Mac being short in his return, he immediately afterwards hit McClellan heavily with the right on the ear. Jumping back from the latter's attempt to retaliate, he was instantly ready with a straight right-hander, which reached the victualing department; McClellan then sprang to close quarters, and a succession of telling short-range discharges took place, and as they broke Mac received a hard blow on the nose. He gave change in the shape of a good hit on his favorite mark, the stomach, receiving in the middle of the head, and immediately afterwards catching a right-handed rap on the left side of the conk. Fast and viciously they fought, generally at half-arm distance, Donovan twice getting his left arm around his opponent's neck, and punishing him severely about the bouy, while Bill fought principally at the head, though sending home an occasional rasper on the ribs. It was thus early apparent that Donovan was the stronger man, and, as he was plainly the better fighter at both close quarters and full distance, his friends had no fears for the result. They were still banging away when the referee called "Time" at the expiration of three minutes. As soon as they were called up after a minute interval, McClellan rushed upon Mike, but the latter jumped out of harm's way, and then, quickly stepping in, delivered with the left full in the face, but was countered on the cheek. Another counter, Donovan on the body and Mac on the head, was followed by a spirited rally, each using both hands, a left-hander knocking McClellan back, and while he was staggering from its effects Mike followed it up with a cannon-shot with the right on the jaw, sending Bill onto his back near the front of the stage. Donovan walked to his corner, looking well satisfied with himself, while Mac's friends carried him home and were very sorry with their aim, who was bleeding from an abrasion of the skin on the forehead. This gave the two first events to Donovan. They had now been at it but five minutes in all, but the amount of work they had done was sufficient to make them both blow pretty hard. Accordingly, when they came up the third time they were not in so great a hurry to resume, sparring for wind being the prelude to a series of long-range shots, Donovan making a double journey to the tender part of the body, and putting in a good smack on the nose, which turned on the ruby tap, McClellan countering twice on the head, reaching the body once, and Donovan Mike's cheek with a swiftly-sent right-hander. A rally, with sharp in-fighting, wound up with a clinch, and Mike attempted to put the hug on, but Bill slipped down. To describe the four rounds that followed would be but much of a repetition to warrant the space the description would occupy. In all of them Donovan had the best of the fighting, being much steadier and cooler than his opponent, exhibiting better judgment, and hitting straighter and harder, Mac being frequently quite wild in his deliveries, betraying great excitement, and his blows lacking force to an extent suggestive of staleness. Very much of the punishment he got he received in closing, Donovan always aiming to seize him about the neck and then administer pepper in the region of the air pumps, this sort of treatment, which Mac seemed unable to prevent or take pattern from, rapidly weakening the latter and gradually knocking the fight out of him. In the fourth round, after a scramble across the stage, McClellan was backed up against the side wall, and Donovan, catching him around the neck with the left hand, pulled down his head and delivered three damaging upper-cuts, the round ending with McClellan falling prone on his face as they seperated after a hot rally in the centre of the stage. In the next round, after several exchanges in favor of Mike, Bill dashed in and surprised Donovan with one, two, on the head, the latter falling back before the onslaught, but recovering instantly, and having the best of the hitting in the succeeding hammer-and-tongs work, the round being concluded with the men down side by side. The sixth round opened with an exchange, followed by an engagement at close quarters that speedily ended in Mac being fought off his legs. McClellan opened the seventh round with a

THE LATE GEN. THOMAS S. DAKIN, ### AMERICAN RIFLEMAN.

Sudden and severe was the shock occasioned by the unlooked-for announcement, in our last issue, of the death of the distinguished American citizen and soldier whose name forms the caption of this article, and whose portrait appears above. Born in Orange County, N. Y., in 1801, when he attended his first battalion muster at the age of seventeen, it was not to the success which in after years his business qualifications, strengthened by industry, pluck and perseverance, won for him in the growing city of Brooklyn a handsome fortune at the age of forty, nor yet to his career as a military man, whose gallantry in times of war and ability and services in the paths of peace gained his promotion, grade by grade, from the modest station of a high private to the rank of major-general; but it was the prominent position to which he attained as a representative man among the leading riflemen of America, that made the name of Gen. Dakin familiar, respected and honored throughout the land, and it is with his doings as a marksman that we have to deal in this brief sketch. He was the only man who occupied a place in every one of the international matches which have been contested since the organization of the National Rifle Association, and its offshoot, the Amateur Rifle Club, in 1872. He was one of the active directors of the former Association, an original member of the latter, and one of the incorporators of Creedmoor. Recognizing, in his official position as commander of a large body of militia, the benefits to accrue from a reasonable course of instruction and practice in rifle-shooting, and convinced of the necessity of securing a plot of ground suitable for this purpose, he was one of the most earnest advocates of the formation of a national association, and after it had been organized and was in working order he was among its most enthusiastic supporters, and few were more faithful attendants at the range than he, while he afforded the men of his command every opportunity possible to perfect themselves in the use of the arm, a thorough knowledge of which it was their business to possess. The National Association opened the Creedmoor grounds June 21, 1873, and that year Gen. Dakin commenced practice at long-range shooting, and to his efforts as an individual marksman then, and as a team shot and officer of marked disciplinary ability subsequently, must in a great measure be ascribed the success with which American riflemen have met in competitions with the pick of foreign hands. Their intelligence that a range had been established in this country, and that there were among its habitues men who made pretensions to unusual skill in shooting at long distances, induced Major A. B. Leech, captain of the Irish eight who had just won the Elcho Shield at Wimbledon, Eng., to look westward for a chance to gain yet brighter laurels than their victory over their English and Scotch competitors had brought them. Accordingly, on Oct. 31, 1873, he issued a challenge offering to match a team chosen from the Irish R. A. armed with Rigby rifles, to shoot against a like number of American-born marksmen, using rifles of American manufacture, at 800, 900, 1,000 and 1,100 yards, Wimbledon regulations, for a stake. The directors of the N. R. A. paying no attention to this, the A. R. C., at the first meeting held after their organization, Dec. 5, 1873, resolved to accept it, provided the 1,100 range be omitted and the competitors number six, instead of four. At the time this action was taken there had been but one competition at distances over 800 yards, and most of the members, including the majority of those who subsequently formed the first American team, had never fired a shot at 1,000 yards. Correspondence with Major Leech resulted in a match for $1,000 in gold being arranged. Although the A. R. C., aware of their weakness, had extended invitations to riflemen in all parts of the country to compete for places on the team, the contestants were all members of the club, which then had but sixty-three names on the roll. Seven competitions were had to determine who should constitute the team, there being a large number of aspirants for the honor, and among the successful six was Gen. Dakin, who throughout shot very evenly. His companions were Major H. Fulton, Col. H. A. Gildersleeve, L. L. Hepburn, G. W. Yale and Col. John Bodine. Col. G. W. Wingate was captain of the team. The match was shot at Creedmoor, Sept. 26, 1874, the Americans winning by 934 to 931. Gen. Dakin was the sixth man on the team, and his score was the lowest, 139 points, the highest being Fulton's 171. In the match a bull's-eye counted 4 points. Upon their return home the foreigners, feeling dissatisfied, challenged their victors to shoot another match, upon like conditions, in Ireland, which was accepted, and as soon as the weather became favorable in 1875 a series of competitions took place at Creedmoor, Gen. Dakin once more coming to the front as one of the leading six. The match was shot at Dollymount, Dublin, Ireland, June 26, 1875, the subject of our sketch headed the list with 168, R. C. Coleman being low, with 156. The other Americans were Gildersleeve, Bodine, Fulton and Yale, and the total scores: Americans, 968; Irishmen, 928. Col. Gildersleeve was captain. When the undaunted Irishmen challenged for a third match, Dakin was again found before the butts, and, as before, his steady, excellent shooting secured for him a position on the team, as also upon the eight who represented America in the first Centennial Trophy Competition, Sept. 13, 14, 1876, at Creedmoor. On the latter occasion our champions met the selected teams of Ireland, Scotland, Australia and Canada, defeating all of them. The conditions were thirty shots per man at 800, 900 and 1,000 yards—fifteen shots per man at each distance for each day, and the scores were: Americans, 3,128 out of a possible 3,600; Irish, 3,104; Scotch, 3,063; Australian, 3,062; Canadian, 2,923. Dakin headed the Americans on the first day with 203 out of 225, but on the second day fell to seventh place, with 198, his total score being 394, which ranked fourth in the list. His companions were R. Rathbone, L. Weber, Gildersleeve, Fulton, Allen and Bodine. The third match with the Irish team was shot at Creedmoor Sept. 21, 1876, conditions the same as in preceding matches, except in scoring, bull's-eyes counting 5, centres 4, inners 3, and outers 2. The Americans won, Dakin topping the score on both sides with 208 out of 225, and the Irish being again beaten—1,165 to 1,154. Rathbone, Allen, Weber, Fulton and Farwell were Dakin's comrades. After having for the fourth time won his way to a place in a representative American team, the General was, on account of his experience, established reputation and ability in organization and discipline, elected captain of the eight which met Great Britain's team on Sept. 13, 14, 1877. On this occasion our men, besides the General, were L. C. Bruce, C. E. Blydenburgh, Weber, H. S. Jewell, Allen, F. Hyde and W. H. Jackson. They won by the grand totals of 3,334 to 3,242, Dakin's total, 400—202 and 198—being the lowest, which shows how extraordinary was the marksmanship shown. After this contest, in a little speech made upon the grounds at Creedmoor, deceased declared that in future he should leave long-range shooting to younger men. Although he made the poorest record on this occasion, the manner in which he handled his men, during the trial competitions and in the match, admittedly had much to do with their achieving so decisive a victory. His last shot in public was, we believe, fired in an off-hand match at Union Hill April 16, 1878. His demise will be as sincerely mourned by the foreign riflemen with whom he became acquainted as it is by his countrymen. Gen. Dakin took part in many individual competitions at Creedmoor, with varying success, but we have no room for a record of these. His funeral, which took place on May 16, was very impressive. The remains of the dead general, attired in full uniform, were conveyed from his late residence to the City Hall, and placed in a bier in the rotunda, where thousands of his mourning fellow-citizens gazed for the last time upon his features. The body was removed thence to his residence, where private services were performed, Rev. Dr. Seymour and Tipp officiating. At three o'clock the casket was finally closed, placed in the hearse, and the cortege proceeded to the Church of the Redeemer, where services were conducted according to the Episcopal ritual. The casket was then placed upon a caisson and conveyed to Greenwood Cemetery, an immense throng lining the route of procession, which was military in character, members of the National and other rifle associations and clubs, civic societies, municipal and other officers likewise following the remains to their final place of repose. The pallbearers were Adjutant-general Townsend, Major-general Alexander Shaler, Brigadier-generals Joshua M. Varian, William G. Ward, James Jourdan, and John B. Woodward.

THE ACTOR'S AMBITION.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER,
BY EDWARD E. KIDDER.

A talented army of Thespian folk,
Ambitious and popular pets,
From handsome and dashing young juvenile men
To merry and charming "soubrettes,"
From stately Othello of dignified mien
To the softer Desdemona in "weeds,"
Are doing their best, with the ultimate hope
Of getting "a chance in New York."

When Patterson made his first "comedy hit"
Far out in the wilds of the West,
And people declared his Aminidab Sleek
Would make a great stir at the least,
He heard with delight what his auditors said,
And "worked up the newspaper talk"
With a fervent hope that his talent some day
Might give him "a chance in New York."

When Tompkins supported the famous Macbeth
As very few actors could do—
Investing Macduff with a fervor that won
The plaudits of Kalamazoo—
He played all his favorite "points" at the "star,"
And watched him with eyes like a hawk,
In hopes that the mighty and muscular Thane
Might take him along to New York.

Miss Dazzle, the creamy, voluptuous blonde,
Far famed for her beautiful form,
Whose glittering diamonds and wonderful limbs
Have taken so many by storm,
Considers the gossip she nightly excites
As idle and purposeless talk,
Except when it points to her ruling desire,
The chance to appear in New York.

The fidgety "clowns" and the "funny old men,"
The "juvenile ladies" so fair,
The "leading" and humble "utility," too,
The dancers who whirl through the air—
In fact, all the people who nightly assume Complexions of rouge and of chalk
Delight in entertaining a mutual hope
Of "hitting 'em hard" in New York.

Large numbers who sought metropolitan fame
Our public applaud and admire,
While others, less fortunate, we must confess
Have not "set the city on fire."
Endeavor, we beg, to make well your parts,
Whate'er your particular "walk,"
And, when least expected, some manager keen
Will give you a "chance in New York."

THE DARK AND THE LIGHT:
OR,
DRIFTING APART ON THE OCEAN OF LIFE.

A Story of Absorbing Interest, Thrilling Effects, and Powerful Dramatic Situations.

BY JANE MILL,
AUTHOR OF "DAN'S TREASURE." "CLYTIE CRANBOURNE." "THE GOLDEN BOWL" ETC.

CHAPTER XXV.

ARTHUR FISH RECEIVES HIS CONGE.

A mighty pain to love it is,
And 'tis a pain that pain to miss;
But of all pains the greatest pain
It is to love and love in vain.

When Elizabeth awoke the next morning she found not only that it was broad daylight, but, on glancing at her watch, that it was some hours later than her usual time of rising. Her maid answered her bell with the question:

"Would you like your breakfast, miss?"

"Yes," was the reply. "I am hungry."

A few minutes after, when the tray upon which were tea and several delicacies that could tempt her appetite appeared, she asked Flowers, who brought it:

"Is my aunt up yet?"

"No, miss; she's dressing, and Mrs. Fish and Mr. Arthur have had breakfast alone."

"Mr. Arthur? Is he here?"

"Yes, he came last evening, a few minutes after you had gone, and stayed the night."

"Oh!"

And she ate her breakfast in silence. Her desire for food was gone, and the hunger of which she complained was soon appeased.

"Will you have your bath got ready, miss?" asked the attendant.

But the answer was:

"No; I shall not get up just yet; I am so tired."

Then she threw herself back on her pillows, and tried to realize and face the difficulties before her. Two questions stared at her blankly with uncomfortable gloom. The strange question of her birth, also the complications that beset her prospects of marrying. Over the first she had no control; the second she had made for herself. Here, also, was her difficulty; her marriage was her own business, and she could do pretty much as she liked about it, since nobody could marry her against her will; and if both of her lovers left her it would be absurd to suppose that others would not be ready to step forward and fill up their place. But the question of birth! Was it true, as that horrible woman asserted last night, that the blood of a dark, despised and inferior race coursed through her veins? It could not be! And yet ——

She held up her hand, so small and shapely, but it was not white! Springing from the bed, attired only in her nightdress, she stood before the long pier-glass, in which she could see her own reflection from head to foot. Very lovely was the face she saw there; but it was not white, nor was it in type Saxon or Celtic or Norman. No: there was the stamp of race upon her, not of a pure race, but of a mixture of white and brown, that made the very shape of her features, the whites of her eyes, the texture of her hair, as well as the color of her hair, unlike those of the men and women with whom she came in daily contact. Yes; there it was. So far that horrible woman was right; she was dark and unlike other girls, whatever the cause might be.

But how could that be? And what were the circumstances producing the doubt and insecurity that since she was a child of five had oppressed her? She got into bed again, for her feet were becoming cold, and tried to piece things together, never a very easy or satisfactory proceeding. Over and over again had the housekeeper told her of her first arrival at the Abbey—"a wee baby," as she expressed it, "of three or four months old;" of how her mother had been drowned and she herself had been rescued from the sea, and how Lady Elizabeth had "took on" when the captain of the Lurline brought her to her aunt. All this had been clear and simple enough; then came her father's visit when she was little more than five years old, and she remembered that he thought she was someone else, asked after her mother, and then pushed her from him. This all came back to her mind, coupled with the fact that her father had never written to her; that her aunt had always secluded her, even at the cost of shutting herself off from the world, until lately; and from Lady Elizabeth's observation in the carriage about Arthur Fish she now felt assured that she had known of her presumed and secret engagement to him, and that it was because she had thought her safe in consequence that she had invited the Grants to the Abbey, and allowed her to make their acquaintance.

"And now they are downstairs talking over my manifold sins and transgressions, as the Prayer-book has it," she muttered grimly. "Well, let them talk. The question for me to decide is how I will act."

Another half hour she remained in bed; then she sprang up, ordered her bath, and gave the maid orders as to what dress she would wear. For good or evil, her mind was made up as to what course she would pursue. Never had she been more careful with her toilet, though it was plain and simple enough. A lavender-gray cashmere dress fitted her round, girlish figure, and made the pale face, which had been skillfully touched over with powder, look fair and delicate, while her dark hair, closely twisted at the back of her head, still left a few short curls to stray over and shade the low, broad forehead. Only a scarlet geranium worn in her bosom offered a contrast to the almost Quakeress-like appearance of her costume.

"There!" she muttered, in a low tone, taking a last glance at the looking-glass. "They can't eat me, and I think they will find it difficult to frighten me."

Then she descended to the morning-room.

"Good-morning, auntie; good-morning, Mrs. Fish. Ah! how do you do, Arthur?"

And she gave her hand to the young man kindly and indifferently, but without any hesitation or embarrassment.

"I came on purpose to see you," he said, with both pain and anger in his countenance. "You have not written to me for a fortnight."

"No," she replied, gathering up courage and speaking in her ordinary tone, feeling savage with him also for compelling her to make her excuses or explanations before her aunt and his mother. "The fact is, Arthur, I did not intend to write. We have made a mistake, both of us, and the sooner we recognize the fact the better."

"But I have made no mistake, that I am aware of," said the young man, resolved to keep his temper, and thinking at the same time how beautiful she was.

"Then I have," she went on pitilessly. "We have been playfellows together, and I was very fond of you, and always shall be—as a brother. The mistake I made was in not having seen anyone else, believing I could love you as a husband."

"And you have seen someone else whom you can love as I believed you loved me?" he asked hoarsely.

"Yes, I have."

Then, as she saw how the words cut him and made him writhe, she added:

"It is kinder and more honest to tell you now than later, isn't it?"

"Yes. But I have loved you from my boyhood. Are you sure you are not mistaken now?"

"Quite sure; I am very sorry, Arthur."

"There is nothing more to be said, if that is the case. Good-bye; may you be as happy as I hoped to have made you. Good-bye, Lady Elizabeth."

He touched their hands for a moment, and, followed by his mother, left the room, while Lizzie, expecting her aunt to scold or advise her, stood pulling one of the geraniums in her bosom to pieces. But Lady Elizabeth made no comment about the painful scene she had just witnessed. She had definitely decided that her brother-in-law must come home to look after or put in her right position the girl who was reputed to be his daughter, and, besides being tolerant to the girl, and keeping her as much as possible out of mischief, now Arthur Fish was disposed of and she herself was defied, there was nothing more to be done but wait until the only person who had power to disown or control her could appear upon the scene. Consequently Lady Elizabeth went on reading her magazine as though no interest in distressed lovers could influence her mind except through its pages.

Lizzie, finding she was to be left to her own devices, for the time, at least, went to one of the windows of the room that commanded a view of the principal approach to the Abbey, and, taking a book in her hand, pretended to read it. But it might have been upside down for all her mind grasped of its contents, for she was watching to see Arthur Fish go away, and hoping he would do so before Donald Duncan came to call. It is not to be supposed for an instant that she was utterly callous in all this. On the contrary, she was very sorry for Arthur, and would have spared him this pain had it been possible without abandoning the course she had sketched out for herself; and had she been left alone she would have told him her change of mind more tenderly and with more regard to his feelings than she had now shown. The presence of his mother and her aunt, however, seeming, as it were, to attempt to coerce her, had driven her to be coldly definite, and had held back any demonstration of affection or weakness, she might otherwise have been tempted to indulge in.

A very solitary life had this girl led. Love and sympathy, such as others of her age feel to be the very breath and essence of life, were but little known to her, and now she feels that she must stand more completely alone than ever, that she must fight her own battle, and that upon her own coolness and courage will hang success. No faltering or faltering must mark her words and actions. She knew nothing—if the truth be told, she wished to know nothing—about her birth and parentage than she had already been told, but of her doubts and fears and surmises she was determined to make Lord Duncan her confidant, and she judged his character and knew the man too well to doubt that if any evil were to come to her from this source he would stand faithfully by her, and treat her with more chivalrous devotion in misfortune than he would ever evince in happiness or prosperity.

"No, Donald will never fail me," she murmured. "Arthur Fish might, but I can rely upon my Scotch chieftain as upon a rock."

And then another idea occurred to her; some kind friend would be quite sure to tell him about her love passages with Arthur, thus trying to separate them. Lizzie's knowledge of the world from actual contact was nil, but she had read novels by the hundred, for a box filled with light literature came down from Mudie's every week, in addition to the large collection of the same kind that was to be found on the shelves in the Abbey library. The one patent idea that resulted from all this study at the present moment was that secrecy was a mistake, since somebody was quite sure to divulge any matter anyone would desire to be hidden at exactly the most inconvenient time. To be the first to make a statement, confession, or to admit an error, gave one an advantage of its seeming to be voluntary, to which might be added the circumstance that, without any great stretch of the truth, one's own coloring and tone could be given to the affair, while, if left to others to recount, what in one story was most praiseworthy and deserving of commendation, in the other would be reprehensible, if not criminal. From which method of reasoning Lizzie came to the determination that she would tell Lord Duncan not only her disquieting doubts and surmises about her parentage, but also her own version, be it observed, of her engagement to Arthur Fish.

"If I am first with my story they can't cut the ground from under my feet," she thought, with exultation, as, throwing the book down as though in weariness, she rose to her feet and walked towards the door.

"Where are you going, Lizzie?" asked her aunt, for the first time since they had been alone showing consciousness of her presence.

"To my own room," was the reply.

At which the elder lady bowed her head in assent. Lizzie left the room and went to her own chamber; but her stay there was short, and, snatching up a hat and cloak, she hurried down again into the garden, for from the window she had seen not only Arthur Fish leave with his mother for the railway station in a carriage, but Lord Duncan on horseback enter the grounds.

"I must talk with him first," was the impression upon her, as she went out to meet him, while Lady Elizabeth, little dreaming of what was taking place, wrote out the following telegram to her brother-in-law in India:

"You must come home at once. Matters are reaching a climax, and no one can control E. but you."

"There," she thought, "it will be another six weeks before he can be here, and meanwhile I must keep off anything definite."

And as these ideas passed through her mind a servant brought in a note from Major Grant. Nervously she tore it open. It contained, however, but a few words. He was off to London to fulfill her commission, and he might have added, also, his own. Still more uncomfortable would she have felt had she known that, even while she was reading what his hand had written, he was himself talking to Mr. George Gorlidge—the man who, barely sixteen years ago, had engaged to discover Suma for her, and had promised himself to be master of Drayton Abbey, in both of which designs he had up to the present moment failed. Will he be more successful in his third venture?

CHAPTER XXVI.

MR. GORLIDGE EXPRESSES HIS OPINION.

"Love various minds doth variously inspire,
He stirs in gentle natures gentle fire,
That wealth of incense on the altar laid,
With raging flames tempestuous souls invade."
DRYDEN.

While Elizabeth Fitz-Howard Hill was testing the value of the new version of the old adage on the desirability of being off with the old love before getting on with the new, Major Grant was having a consultation with our old friend Mr. Gorlidge. The flight of years, leaving their footprints behind, make a strangely different impression upon different people. On the coarse, sensual, selfish and impure all their worst qualities being in large preponderance in comparison to the good, work themselves out to the surface; while to the pure in heart, the intelligent and truthful, the better part of their nature gives character to the whole face and form, till those who in their youth were handsome become, ere middle life, brutalized and ugly with indulgence and evil passions, while the men and women whom once we thought plain become attractive and beautiful by the radiance of the noble soul that shines out of their eyes, gives fulness and purity to their voice, sweetness to their countenance, and dignity and grace to their movements. Thus it is that at forty, and the lustres preceding and succeeding that age, men and women carry their souls written more clearly on their faces than earlier or much later in life, and the glamour which youthful beauty and the decay of old age might cast upon them are both in the distance.

George Gorlidge had followed greatly in the footsteps of those "who love darkness rather than light because their deeds are evil," not but that he was an eminently respectable man, and went to church regularly on Sundays, and would have taken his family with him had he been possessed of one. This not being the case, however, he endeavored to make the best of his opportunities, while seeming to listen to the sermon, by decorously taking stock of the younger female portion of the congregation, and raising hopes in the hearts of two or three members of the softer sex—delusions, which, it is scarcely needful to say, would never be realized.

As he sits in his office-chair now, with a large table, in which were numerous drawers stuffed with papers, before him, one cannot help noticing how he has developed during the sixteen years that have passed over his head since we last met him. Large-limbed, inclined to be stout, his face, upon which beard, whiskers, or moustache cannot be coaxed to grow, spotted at distant intervals with pimples; his reddish hair darker than of old, but his keen brown eyes, sharp, searching, and giving the idea that they would pierce through you ruthlessly as ever, all bore with them evidence of the outgrowth of sordid, selfish sensualism allied to cunning which had helped to fill his pockets, perhaps, but had certainly failed to raise him one solitary step in the social scale. A greater contrast than the soldierly, sunburnt major, with all the pride and exclusiveness of caste and the consciousness of moral and social superiority could scarcely have been found; and when he took the chair placed for him, and began to state the object of his visit, it was rather like a man giving orders than seeking for advice or assistance, even though he were prepared for it.

"I want a man and a girl found," he said tersely. "Can you do it?"

"Probably," was the equally laconic reply. "How did you hear of me?"

"I saw your name advertised, and you managed an affair for a friend of mine in India; found his wife, who had run away from him. Do you undertake this matter?"

"Yes, if terms are satisfactory, and you can give us sufficient clue to go upon. In the case you speak of the affair was easy enough. But we have failed in one case; I crossed the Atlantic twice myself, hunted for years, more than once thought I had got the woman I wanted, and yet failed; but I had no portrait of her, no proper description, and I might even have spoken to her and she known it, and yet have failed. We object to failures, and I must know what I am about."

"Certainly. In the first place, I want you to discover a man whose real name was Temple. He was grandson of Baron Bartlett. You will see his name here," and he handed him a small copy of a peerage, pointing to a particular line where the name mentioned appeared.

"This William Temple," he went on, "was convicted of forgery, and transported now nearly twenty years ago. You will be able to get the date of the conviction. He was liberated some years after on ticket-of-leave. I want to find him."

"If he is alive, sir, we'll do it. But, let me add for your information, this same William Temple received the Queen's pardon for a crime he never committed. On his death-bed the real culprit confessed his crime. I've got it here," with a nod towards a very large chest of very small drawers. "Anything more to tell me about him, sir?"

"No, except that I want him found, if living, or positive proof of how and when he died, if he is dead."

Mr. Gorlidge made some rather lengthened notes. Then he said:

"You said something about a girl, sir."

"Yes, this is quite a separate matter. I want to find out who she is and where she is. You may have to send a man over to Germany to learn what I want to know."

Gorlidge assented.

"You have a portrait?" he asked.

"No; but I have one so much like her that she might be recognized from it. I have also made a sketch of her face from memory. You are accustomed to study faces; will you look at those two portraits and tell me if you see any resemblance?"

The man, accustomed to hunt out hidden things, took the drawing and the ivory painted miniature in his hand, and studied them long and intently.

"I seem to have seen them or someone like them before," he said, evidently puzzled.

"Are they alike?" asked the major impatiently.

"Yes, but they are not portraits of the same face. They might be twin sisters, or mother and daughter; but the eyebrows are more curved in one; there is a dimple on the chin of the other, and, though so much alike, the very shape of the forehead is different, even though this was drawn from memory, holding up the major's handiwork. "If you look at the miniature and think of the face, you will see that it could not be the same."

"Oh, I know it is not," said the major hastily; then, seeming to regret his observation, he added: "I can leave the drawing with you, and tell you where I saw the original."

"You can't tell me her name?"

"Yes, I think I can. I heard her called Loo, and I made inquiries, and found that the lady with whom she was traveling was named Travers. I should imagine, therefore, that her name is Lucy or Louisa Travers."

"Umph!"

Mr. Gorlidge made a note of the name, inquired what city on the Continent the girl in question had last been seen in; then, observing that in this case he should have to go himself, entered with his usual frankness into the question of fees and payment. Being satisfied on this point, somewhat to his surprise, it must be admitted, Mr. Gorlidge promised to send reports of his success, Major Grant giving him his address at the Indian Club. Keen as he had been, however, not a suspicion of the truth flashed across George Gorlidge's mind. The case in which he was baffled, as may be guessed, was that in which he failed to find Suma, and, though the memory of it was still keen upon him, he had not the faintest idea or suspicion that the girl he was now commissioned to trace had ever had any connection with the woman he had previously been paid to discover. Meanwhile Major Grant went to his club, met some old friends, dined, and decided to stay in town the night, perhaps for a day or two, when, just as he was leaving late in the evening, with the intention of going to the lodgings that were always ready for him, some hours or three days off, he encountered on the steps of the building his nephew, Lord Duncan.

"Hollos, Donald! What do you do here?" he asked.

"I came to see you," was the reply.

"All right; will you come in, or go round to my diggings?" was the next question.

"I'll go round with you."

And thus the two men, almost in silence, made their way to the place where, when in town, the elder man made his home. His hatchkey opened the door, and, though the staircase was in darkness, he led the way, pausing at length at a door, in which he inserted a key, then walked into what might be termed a dark space, about which he fumbled for a little time. He discovered the matches at last, lighted the gas, shut the door, took a couple of bottles of wine from a cupboard, also some cigars and glasses, motioning his nephew to a seat, and, desiring him to help himself, said, in a tone of interrogation:

"Well?"

"I've had a day of it at the Abbey, then I thought I'd come on to you," volunteered the young man, as he filled his uncle's glass and his own. "I want your advice, or rather, to be plain, your help."

"Oh, I see; my advice wouldn't go for much."

"Well, no, uncle; matters have gone too far for that. The truth is, I've proposed and been accepted, and that out of an aunt refuses to let me be engaged to her niece."

"If you are speaking of Lady Elizabeth Fitz-Howard in this disrespectful manner, I must request you not to do so again. I hope one day to call that lady my wife," said the major, becoming red in the face, while his nephew sprang to his feet, laughed heartily, and, slapping him on the shoulder, exclaimed:

"Bravo, uncle! I'll welcome her, and be proud of my aunt, though she has been so chilly and stern with me to-day."

At which the major could but unbend, and, being congratulated and sympathized with, had no resource but in return to listen to, as he termed it, the young man's folly.

"I asked Lizzie to marry me last night," began the young man, "and this morning I went to the Abbey to inquire after the ladies, and to tell Lady Elizabeth of my hopes, and ask for her kind word with Captain Hill. When I reached the grounds of the Abbey, Lizzie met me. We took a walk, and she told me some odd things about herself—how her father never wrote to her, and her aunt treated her as though she were not one of the family, and how she heard she was brought from the wreck where her mother had died when she was a baby, and of her solitary existence, and how she had no one but me to love her, until my heart ached for the poor child."

"And she told you nothing else, I suppose?" asked his uncle grimly; "nothing about any other lover?"

"Yes, she did. She told me about the companion's son, Arthur Fish; how he had been her playfellow when a child, and how nice and kind he was, till, when he told her he loved her, she, knowing nothing of the difference in love between the feeling for a brother and a husband, assented to his importunity, and it was not until she met me that she knew how impossible it was for her to marry him."

"Of course—poor idiot. And what happened after that?" asked his uncle, with something like a sneer.

"After I had talked with Lizzie, and we had pledged ourselves that nobody and nothing should divide us, I went in to see her aunt, feeling that it was only fair she should be told how matters stood, and her consent asked, if only out of compliment."

"Well?" asked the major, as his nephew paused.

"Well," returned his nephew, "she was as mysterious as a Delphic oracle; talked of insuperable objections; of things not being what they seemed; of Lizzie being only a child; of my father's approval and consent, and even when I offered to get the latter she shifted about, said Lizzie was not her daughter, therefore she had no authority in the matter, but finally finished up by refusing, as she termed it, 'to countenance an engagement between us.'"

"Well, and what is the next step to be?" asked the elder man.

"The next step, if we meet with such opposition, will be to go and get married," replied Donald Duncan, fixing his eyes upon his uncle. "We have no desire to do anything clandestinely," he went on; "we won't be unreasonable or impatient in any way; but if relations will set their backs up against us, we'll just go our own way and defy them."

"And suppose 'Lizzie,' as you call her, should not be what you suppose her—should have no more legal claim to the name of Fitz-Howard Hill, or to the succession of Drayton, than you have. What then?"

"If she were a beggar girl in the street, uncle, and loved me as I believe she does, I would still marry her," was the reply.

"Have you forgotten the proud old man at home, Donald, and your ancient name and lineage?" asked his uncle pathetically.

But the other replied warmly:

"No! Because I wouldn't be unworthy of them. I'll keep my word, and my name and lineage are worth but little if I can't raise my wife to my own level, whatever her birth or parentage may be."

"Don't be so hot, Donald; you can't marry this girl, but ——"

"I will marry her, uncle, and I'd like to see who will say me nay. If my father could disinherit me, which he can't, I'd marry her still; the man isn't living that can make Donald Duncan break his word."

With which the young man rose to his feet, and was leaving the room, when his uncle asked:

"And the girl herself, Donald?"

"She will be as true to me as I to her," was the proud reply.

"Yes; the other man might have said, remarked his uncle,

"'If she be not true to me,
What care I how true she be?'

But don't let us part in anger, Donald. I'll help you if I can, and, though I don't like the dark-eyed beauty, I have nothing but my own individual tastes and prejudices to urge against her."

"Thank you, uncle," was the dignified reply. "I came to tell you rather because you might influence Lady Elizabeth or Captain Hill, than for any other reason; beyond this I am an only son, and shall do as I please."

"So it seems. But good-night; or, rather, good-morning. Give me another look in before you leave town."

But Lord Duncan did not call again before leaving town.

TO BE CONTINUED.

"THE DARK AND THE LIGHT."—"Good-bye; may you be as happy as I hoped to have made you," said Arthur Fish as he took his leave of Elizabeth.

THE TURF.

LEXINGTON RACES.

In last week's CLIPPER the first and second days' racing at the Lexington, Ky., Spring Meeting was recorded. The weather on Tuesday, the third day, was cold, raw and showery, with the track deep in mud. The first race on the card was a selling sweepstakes for all ages, one mile and a half dash, $25 entrance, play or pay, with $400 added. Seven horses started: Harry Peyton, Emma C., Bill Dillon, D'Artagnan, Short Line, Joe Rhodes and Tolono. Emma C. was the favorite. A capital race and exciting finish between Emma C., Bill Dillon and Harry Peyton resulted in the last-named horse winning by a head only from Bill Dillon, who was a neck in front of Emma C. Time, 2:39¾. Next came a sweepstakes for three-year-olds which had never won a race prior to March 1, 1878; $20 entrance, half forfeit, with $150 added, mile heats. Five horses started: Buford's McHenry, Grinstead's b. c. by War Dance, Engle's Fairy Queen, Bowen & Co.'s Belle Palmer, and Stuban's Ben Hadley. Grinstead's colt had the call. McHenry won the first heat by two lengths in 1:34½, and he won the next heat and race easily in 1:34¾. Grinstead's colt took second money; Belle Palmer and Ben Hadley distanced.

The fourth day's racing attracted a large assemblage, the weather being clear and cool, but the track heavy and deep in mud from recent rains. The first race was a dash of one mile, for a purse of $300, $50 of which went to the second horse. Only two horses started—McKee's Waterwitch and Megibben's Athol, the former the favorite at $100 to $30. She fully justified the odds, for she led from start to finish, and won in a canter by three lengths in 1:52. This was followed by a selling race for a purse of $300, one mile and a quarter. Seven started, and Bowen's b. g. Charley Gorham won by a length, beating Brown Dick colt (second), Kinlock (third), Topic, Elemi, Bill Saunders and Lager Bier. Time, 2:17. Kinlock was the favorite. The third race, of mile heats, for a purse of $300, was won by Edinburgh, beating his only opponent, Hyena, easily in 1:51¾, 1:52. The weather on the fifth day was unfavorable, for it rained all day. The Phœnix Hotel Stakes, for three-year-olds, $100 entrance, half forfeit, with $600 added, the second to save his stake, one mile and three-quarters, had four starters, viz., Himyar, McHenry, J. R. Swiney, and Solicitor. $300 to $100 on Himyar was freely offered. A good start was had, but before they had run a hundred yards Himyar rushed to the front, and the race was virtually over; for, without ever being again approached he cantered home a winner by six lengths in 2:22¾, McHenry second, and Solicitor beaten away off. The Colt and Filly Stakes for three-year-olds was the next race, entrance $50, half forfeit, with $300 added, second to save his stake, three-quarters of a mile. Eight started, viz., Audax, Llahtunah, Athelstone, La Favorita, Good-night, Florence B., Aleck Grant, and Gabriel. La Favorita had the call, selling for $120. A miserable start was had, Gabriel going the wrong way when the drum was tapped, and La Favorita being fully forty yards behind the last horse. Good-night took the lead. Llahtunah began to show in front at the head of the homestretch, followed by Audax and La Favorita. A driving race home resulted in Audax winning by a length, Llahtunah second, two lengths before the favorite. Time, 1:20. The last race was a dash of one mile and a quarter, for a purse of $250, and had ten starters. It was won by Edinburgh, beating Bill Bass (second), Cammie P. (third), Joe Rhodes, Respond, St. Louis, Classmate, Tampico, Tolona and Topic. Time, 2:16¾. The betting was two to one on Edinburgh.

The racing on the last day, Friday, May 17, was signalized by a disgraceful attempt at fraud, which was so bunglingly perpetrated that it was apparent to all present. Swift retribution followed the guilty parties, and the owner, trainer and jockey of the innocent horse were promptly expelled the course forever. It occurred in the first event on the day's card—a purse of $300 for beaten horses, mile heats, for which Blow's Bill Bass, Megibben's Emma C., and Hancock & Co.'s Tampico were the horses entered. Bill Bass sold for $70; Emma C., $30; and Tampico, $8. In the first heat Emma C. led for half a mile, when Bill Bass passed her, and won easily in 1:51; Tampico distanced. The betting now rose to $100 to $30 on Bill Bass, whose rider, after leading Emma C. to open a wide gap, commenced pulling his horse, and actually stopped him near the half-mile pole and turned back to return to the starting point, being, of course, distanced. Emma C. kept on, and won the heat and race in 1:56½. The excitement was tremendous and shouts of "Fraud!" issued from all over the course. The judges deliberated, and ruled Shelton off the track, also debarring money bets on Bill Bass running, and the owners of Emma C. won all the money bet on Tampico. Subsequently, on returning to Lexington, the judges discovered very damaging evidence against John G. Blow of St. Louis, the owner of Bill Bass, implicating him as a party to the fraud. They charged him with having sent a telegraph message to his brother at St. Louis instructing him to back Emma C. for all the money he could get on, and in the excitement of the moment he gave an order to the Western Union Telegraph Company for a copy of the messages sent or received by him referring to the Bill Bass race. On this evidence the judges convicted him of complicity in the robbery, and ruled him off the course forever, together with his colored trainer Louis Riggs, thus making a clean sweep of the stable. Blow belongs to a highly-respectable family in St. Louis, and it is said the judges are not through yet, but that others implicated in the affair will be made to suffer. The second race was a dash of one mile and a quarter, for a purse of $250, for all ages, for which Lager Bier, Allan Pinkerton and Elemi started. The two last-named were sold for $50 each, and Lager Bier for $10, the result proving a complete upset, for Lager Bier won easily by a length and a half in 2:21¾, Elemi last. The third and last race was a dash of two miles and a furlong, for which Chesapeake and Bill Dillon started. The former was the favorite at two to one, and he won easily in 4:15¾, bringing the meeting to a termination.

PROSPECT PARK, L. I., SPRING TROTTING MEETING.

The newly-organized Prospect Park Fair Grounds Association, Gravesend, L. I., inaugurated their Spring trotting meeting on Tuesday, May 7. The weather was fine, the track in excellent order, and the attendance large. The first of the two events on the day's card was for horses that had never beaten three minutes, mile heats, three in five, in harness, for a purse of $200, for which there were fifteen starters. Of this lot C. E. Denton's b. g. James M. Oakley was made the favorite against the entire field, and his backers were correct in their judgment of his merits, for he won the first heat without any trouble by a length from Duchess and Blossom in 2:34, the second by the same distance in 2:37¾, and the third and race by two lengths in 2:36; Duchess second in both heats, and taking the $60 second money, and Billy Green the $40 for third horse. The other contesting horses were Lady Gutchens, Little Dan, Olive, Brother, Why Not, Marguerite, Kadir, Arabian Mag, Jack Shepard, Judge and Rachel G. The last stumbled and fell in the first heat, dashing his driver, William McMahon, out of the sulky violently to the ground; but, fortunately, he was not seriously hurt, the horse also escaping with a few slight scratches on his hind legs. The second trot was for a purse of $250, for horses that had never beaten 2:30, in three in five, in harness. Eight horses came to the post, Patty Lath winning the first and second heats in 2:34½, 2:34, Even John the third in 2:34, Happy Jack the fourth and fifth in 2:35, 2:39½, and the sixth and race in 2:30; Patty Lath being awarded the $50 second money. The other contesting horses were Lago, Fitzgerald, Annie G., Jenny L., and Lilly. The final heat was trotted next day, darkness having rendered a postponement necessary.

There was an increased attendance on Wednesday, and the day and track were alike good. The first event was for horses that had never beaten 2:45, for a purse of $200, divided into

AQUATIC.

THE SCULLERS' RACE BETWEEN
ED. HANLAN AND FRED PLAISTED.
THE CANADIAN WINS EASILY.

On Wednesday afternoon, May 15, the sculling match between Ed. Hanlan of Toronto, Ont., and Fred A. Plaisted of New York City, for one thousand dollars a side, was decided over a straightaway two-mile course on Toronto Bay, the former achieving a hollow victory. Below we present a report of the contest, prefaced with particulars regarding the principals, making of the match, etc.

SKETCHES OF THE MEN.

Edward Hanlan was born of Irish parents at Toronto, Ont., July 12, 1855, and while quite young was taken by his parents to an island opposite the city, where his father opened a hotel, and where the family have ever since resided. He is 5ft. 8¾in. in height, and on the day of the race weighed 161lb. He was brought up to the business of a fisherman, in which pursuit he acquired great proficiency as an oarsman. His first appearance in a race was made when he was sixteen years of age, he forming one of a crew composed of fishermen, his companions being Berry and Denning, and their opponents Pat Gray and two others. In the following year he figured as the successful competitor in a couple of skiff races, and in 1873 first rowed a race in a shell, the contest being for the amateur championship of the Bay, which was victorious, defeating Sam Williams and McKay. Next year he met Thomas Louden in a race for the championship of Burlington Bay, this being his first professional engagement. The result added another to his list of victories, Louden challenged him to row another race, over a mile course, for $100 a side, in the Summer of 1875, which defi was at once accepted, and they met on Toronto Bay, Hanlan again showing himself to be the better man, he winning by nearly two lengths. During the same season he won a prize offered by the Governor-general, in a two-mile skiff shell, defeating Louden and James Donglas. In the Spring of last year he vanquished Douglas and Wm. McCann, and on August 12 following became possessed of the belt, emblematic of the championship of Ontario, offered by the Toronto Rowing Club, his only opponent being McCann. At this regatta Hanlan likewise won a fisherman's race, three pair of sculls, his partners being McCann and A. Elliott, and the craft engaged being boats actually in use that Summer. All of these races were of minor importance, however, and the reputation they brought was but local. It remained for Hanlan to give the rowing world a startling surprise at the Centennial Regatta on the Schuylkill River, when his name became known on both sides of the Atlantic through the ease with which he won the first prize in the professional regatta, defeating Harry Coulter, Pat Hanlon, Plaisted and Green (the last-named of London) in trial heats, and easily disposing of Alex. Brayley in the final heat, which was rowed in 21:39½—the best three-mile time on record until Courtney cut down the figures last year. Hanlan was tendered a flattering reception upon his return to Canada, and afterwards engaged in business as a hotel keeper, which, however, didn't prove profitable. In warded a Tur CLIPPER office one hundred dollars in gold as a deposit for a proposed match between Hanlan and Billy Scharff (then champion), to row three miles for $1,000 a side, on Toronto Bay; but as Scharff had just made a match with Elo Morris, the challenge from the Canadian was not accepted. Hanlan next appeared at the regatta held on Silver Lake, near Boston, Mass., June 13, when he was defeated by Fred Plaisted, Frenchy Johnson and others, he meeting with a mishap in the shape of an injured outrigger. On June 25 another regatta was held on the same water, when Hanlan won first prize, beating Johnson and Driscoll, Plaisted not starting. The Kanuck next took part in the scullers' race at the Boston Fourth-of-July Regatta, and was ruled out for fouling Plaisted, whom he ran into at the turning stake. His conduct upon this occasion gave great offense to the regatta committee, and subsequently passed a resolution recommending that in future Hanlan be debarred from participation in all races under municipal auspices. This action was, however, upon appeal from Hanlan himself, and through representations of gentlemen who had taken him in hand after his return to Canada, rescinded, and the bar against him removed. After the victory of Ross over Brayley in the fastest time on record for four miles, the Toronto sculler published a challenge to Ross, whose backers were not prepared to row on this basis. However, Wallace's defeat of Plaisted, coupled with the indifferent performances of Hanlan at Boston and vicinity, inspired them with greater confidence, and about the middle of August Ross came out with a challenge to row any man in the Dominion, Hanlan preferred, a five-mile race, for $1,000 a side, offering to give or take $300 for expenses, or he would row Hanlan a two-mile straightaway race upon the same terms. Plaisted, however, declined to allow any fixed amount for expenses, but, upon Hanlan subsequently offering to stake $1,200 against $1,000, and allow him $300 for expenses, in a three-mile turning race, Fred concluded to close with his former offer, and after a meeting between their backers in this city, and some correspondence subsequently an agreement was arrived at, and the following articles were signed:

Articles of agreement, made this 13th day of March, 1878, between Mr. Edward Hanlan of Toronto, Ontario, and Mr. Fred A. Plaisted of New York City, witnesseth:

First.—The parties hereto mutually agree as follows: To row a two-mile straightaway race in best-and best boats, over a course to be mutually agreed upon, on Toronto Bay, on May 15, 1878.

Second.—The race to be for one thousand dollars a side, five hundred dollars a side (exclusive of expenses) forfeit, to be posted with The New York CLIPPER as temporary stakeholder, as follows: One hundred dollars a side upon the signing of these articles, four hundred dollars a side on or before April 1, 1878, five hundred dollars a side on or before May 6, 1878. Angus Morrison, Esq., Mayor of the city of Toronto, to be final stakeholder, and the stakes to be deposited with him on or before May 9, 1878, at which time three hundred dollars shall be paid on the part of the said Hanlan to the said Plaisted, the same being allowance for expenses. The first five hundred dollars posted to be forfeited in case the deposit of May 6 is not promptly made.

Third.—The stakes to be paid over to the winning party on the written order of the referee.

Fourth.—The referee, after preliminary warning, to start the race by the word "Go." The boats to be held by their sterns, and started from boats anchored fifty yards apart, to be the judge of the same, between the hours of three and six o'clock in the afternoon; and the referee to postpone the same from day to day, between and the same hours, if the water is not in suitable condition to start the race.

Sixth.—The race to be governed by the Laws of Boat-racing, as adopted by the N. A. A. A. of A. O., of which a copy is annexed, subject, however, to the conditions of these articles.

Seventh.—The referee, in case of outside interference, if it affects the result of the race, shall order the men to row over on the first favorable day, under the original conditions.

Eighth.—No boat or boats in the interest of either contestant to accompany them over the course.

Ninth.—The referee to be appointed by the Editor of THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, and his expenses to be paid by the contestants in equal shares.

FRED A. PLAISTED.
EDWARD HANLAN.

Before the ratification of the above articles Plaisted had entered upon a course of training on the Harlem River, housing his boats at the Dauntless Club-house, and when the match was a fixed fact M. F. Davis of Portland, Me., was secured for the purpose of acting as trainer. He was subsequently to the signing of the protocol he changed his quarters to Troy, N. Y., where he superintended the construction of a paper boat at the establishment of E. Waters & Son, securing a shell with which he expressed himself thoroughly satisfied. He was likewise provided with a cedar shell, and his sculls were turned out at the noted establishment of Tim Donoghue of Newburg, whose reputation as a skilled manufacturer of lar exercise on the Hudson, above the dam, where good work and careful attention on the part of his brother oarsget himself into prime order, physically, prior to taking his trials made on the quiet before leaving proved satisfactory to his backers. He reached Toronto on Thursday, May 9, and was received by members of the Toronto Rowing Club, who kindly tendered him the use of their well-appointed and stocked boat-house during his stay there —an offer which he gladly availed himself of. The hospitalities of the Queen's Hotel had previously been offered Fred, his backers and attendants, so that they had no reason to complain of the manner in which they were treated while in the Canadian city, and the greater proportion of those who had their faith and hopes pinned on Hanlan. Unfortunately, an almost unprecedentedly bad spell of weather prevailed from the time of arrival up to the day set for the contest, and this prevented both men from taking anything like regular practice, and almost precluded the possibility of the New-Yorker going over the chosen course in his shell. He and his trainer managed to get some work in a pair-oar, however. Plaisted's style of sculling was not to the liking of the Canadians, who fancied that he did not bring back and recover sufficiently into play, and, after having seen him row on the day subsequently to his arrival, expressed greater confidence than ever that their townman would be found to row the winning stroke on the eventful afternoon. On the 11th and 12th the wind and rough water continued, and the result of an attempt by Plaisted to get a little exercise in his boat in the swamping thereof near the boat-house. Having completed a busy season, Hanlan had been doing but little daily pulls not only after the making of the match, but ever since the rather forward Spring opened, and, as before he had made his quarters while training on the island home, he had the advantage in the matter of knowledge through having a lee shore off which to take his breath; consequently, the strong winds and turbulent state of the bay did not cause him very great inconvenience. It was remarked, however, that his condition was scarcely as good as upon the occasion of his race with Ross last Fall—a circumstance which leaves it to be inferred that he felt extreme confidence in his ability to win so short a race from Plaisted without getting down to the hardness of nails. He was still, however, in capital fix. He was well boated, having shells by four makers—one by C. B. Elliott of Greenpoint, L. I., two English-built boats, constructed respectively by Swaddell and Winship, and Robert Jewitt, and one by George Whalin of Toronto. The Elliott boat was his choice, and was used in the race, the sculls being by Ayling. Notwithstanding the overweening confidence manifested by the friends of the Canadian, they hesitated before giving their backers odds of 2 to 1, which Plaisted's comparatively few adherents stubbornly held out for (save in a few instances, when 2 to 1 was accepted), and in consequence the monetary speculation was light, and by no means proportionate to the great interest felt in the match, especially upon the part of the people across the border. Canadians are proverbially a very careful people in money matters, but had the partisans of Plaisted been willing to accept reasonable odds they would have put up all the money that could have been asked for. Had pool-selling been permissible, doubtless considerable money would have been invested on the issue; but as Hon. Edward Blake's bill for the suppression of this and other methods of wagering money publicly went into effect in Canada May 1, this game was effectually blocked, and an exciting feature of the contests was upon this occasion omitted from the programme, somewhat to the disgust of enterprising individuals who had hoped to turn an honest penny in this way.

PREPARATIONS FOR THE RACE.

Those who furnished the wherewithal to carry the match to the deposite being placed in our hands ahead of time, in order to guard against possible accident, and when the theatre of Mayor Morrison. The gentleman whom we selected to fill the responsible post, and whose name appears in the following articles of reference, ex-Alderman Stephen Roberts (formerly well known as a professional oarsman, and who, for over a score of years, has been engaged in the business of boat building, having two establishments in this city), consented to officiate in his well-known and very important point in connection with the match, being done, indeed, more especially in a meeting partaking of an international character, that the gentleman having the control of the race, and the settlement of all questions arising under the same has commenced, be a man who possessed of a thorough knowledge of the duties of the position, and the ability to properly discharge them. Mr. Roberts' record showed him to be the right man for the office, and his appointment proved satisfactory to those interested on both sides. He reached Toronto on the afternoon of the following day large additions were received, the estimated number of people who assembled along shore on the dozen or more steamers which gathered back of which swarmed upon the bosom of the lake, about five thousand. This vast concourse of expectant humanity awaited the arrival, expressed greater confidence than ever that their townman would be found to row the winning stroke on the eventful afternoon. On the 11th and 12th the wind and rough water continued, and the result of an attempt by Plaisted to get a little exercise in his boat in consequence a busy season, Hanlan had been doing but daily pulls not only after the making of the match, but ever since the rather forward Spring opened, and, as before he had made his quarters while training on the island home, he had the advantage in the matter of knowledge through having a lee shore off which to take his breath; consequently, the strong winds and turbulent state of the bay did not cause him very great inconvenience. It was remarked, however, that his condition was scarcely as good as upon the occasion of his race with Ross last Fall—a circumstance which leaves it to be inferred that he felt extreme confidence in his ability to win so short a race from Plaisted without getting down to the hardness of nails. He was still, however, in capital fix. He was well boated, having shells by four makers—one by C. B. Elliott of Greenpoint, L. I., two English-built boats, constructed respectively by Swaddell and Winship, and Robert Jewitt, and one by George Whalin of Toronto. The Elliott boat was his choice, and was used in the race, the sculls being by Ayling. Notwithstanding the overweening confidence manifested by the friends of the Canadian, they hesitated before giving their backers odds of 2 to 1, which Plaisted's comparatively few adherents stubbornly held out for (save in a few instances, when 2 to 1 was accepted), and in consequence the monetary speculation was light, and by no means proportionate to the great interest felt in the match, especially upon the part of the people across the border. Canadians are proverbially a very careful people in money matters, but had the partisans of Plaisted been willing to accept reasonable odds they would have put up all the money that could have been asked for. Had pool-selling been permissible, doubtless considerable money would have been invested on the issue; but as Hon. Edward Blake's bill for the suppression of this and other methods of wagering money publicly went into effect in Canada May 1, this game was effectually blocked, and an exciting feature of the contests was upon this occasion omitted from the programme, somewhat to the disgust of enterprising individuals who had hoped to turn an honest penny in this way.

PREPARATIONS FOR THE RACE.

Those who furnished the wherewithal to carry the match to the deposite being placed in our hands ahead of time, in order to guard against possible accident, and when the theatre of Mayor Morrison. The gentleman whom we selected to fill the responsible post, and whose name appears in the following articles of reference, ex-Alderman Stephen Roberts (formerly well known as a professional oarsman, and who, for over a score of years, has been engaged in the business of boat building, having two establishments in this city), consented to officiate in his well-known and very important point in connection with the match, being done, indeed, more especially in a meeting partaking of an international character, that the gentleman having the control of the race, and the settlement of all questions arising under the same has commenced, be a man who possessed of a thorough knowledge of the duties of the position, and the ability to properly discharge them. Mr. Roberts' record showed him to be the right man for the office, and his appointment proved satisfactory to those interested on both sides. He reached Toronto on the afternoon of the following day large additions were received, the estimated number of people who assembled along shore on the dozen or more steamers which gathered back of which swarmed upon the bosom of the lake, about five thousand. This vast concourse of expectant humanity awaited the arrival, expressed greater confidence than ever that their townman would be found to row the winning stroke on the eventful afternoon. On the 11th and 12th the wind and rough water continued, and the result of an attempt by Plaisted to get a little exercise in his boat in consequence a busy season, Hanlan had been doing but daily pulls not only after the making of the match, but ever since the rather forward Spring opened, and, as before he had made his quarters while training on the island home, he had the advantage in the matter of knowledge through having a lee shore off which to take his breath; consequently, the strong winds and turbulent state of the bay did not cause him very great inconvenience. It was remarked, however, that his condition was scarcely as good as upon the occasion of his race with Ross last Fall—a circumstance which leaves it to be inferred that he felt extreme confidence in his ability to win so short a race from Plaisted without getting down to the hardness of nails. He was still, however, in capital fix. He was well boated, having shells by four makers—one by C. B. Elliott of Greenpoint, L. I., two English-built boats, constructed respectively by Swaddell and Winship, and Robert Jewitt, and one by George Whalin of Toronto. The Elliott boat was his choice, and was used in the race, the sculls being by Ayling. Notwithstanding the overweening confidence manifested by the friends of the Canadian, they hesitated before giving their backers odds of 2 to 1, which Plaisted's comparatively few adherents stubbornly held out for (save in a few instances, when 2 to 1 was accepted), and in consequence the monetary speculation was light, and by no means proportionate to the great interest felt in the match, especially upon the part of the people across the border. Canadians are proverbially a very careful people in money matters, but had the partisans of Plaisted been willing to accept reasonable odds they would have put up all the money that could have been asked for. Had pool-selling been permissible, doubtless considerable money would have been invested on the issue; but as Hon. Edward Blake's bill for the suppression of this and other methods of wagering money publicly went into effect in Canada May 1, this game was effectually blocked, and an exciting feature of the contests was upon this occasion omitted from the programme, somewhat to the disgust of enterprising individuals who had hoped to turn an honest penny in this way.

THE RACE.

Hanlan, who had the inside of the course, appeared a trifle unsteady at commencing, and the New-Yorker, well known as a quick starter, got off best, setting his stroke at thirty-eight, and immediately showing ahead. Fast rowing and terribly severe work enabled him to hold a slight lead for more than a quarter of a mile, but then the Canadian's steady, powerful sweep of twenty-eight to the minute, pulled through clean and hard from stretch to finish, began to tell. The nose of his shell was a little in front when a quarter of the distance had been pulled over, and from this on he continued to add to his advantage, despite the determined efforts made by Plaisted to hold him back. Quite easily he rowed away from the latter, never varying the number of his strokes, and evidently pulling with considerable reserve power. At the end of the first mile there was a gap of close on to three lengths between the shells, and this Hanlan found no trouble in maintaining. Closer. He finally finished the race about two lengths ahead, having achieved one of the easiest conquests that ever elated an oarsman, and avenged himself for the ill-fortune that befell him in Massachusetts last Summer. Nine cheers for the victor ended the ovation as he pulled back to his quarters, while Plaisted was not forgotten, the people admiring the plucky way in which a hopeless stern race was pulled by him. Apprehensions had been entertained that the contest would be marred by fouling, and unusual precautions were taken to prevent the possibility of a collision; but at no time were the boats near each other, so that all such fears proved groundless. In the evening Plaisted and his backers were entertained at dinner at the Queen's Hotel, and before the festivities broke up principals and their friends had said many pleasant things of each other, and become very well acquainted. Col. A. D. Shaw, U. S. Consul at Toronto, who had engineered the match on Hanlan's behalf, presented a check for $50 to Plaisted. Afterwards the late rivals made their appearance at the Royal and Lyceum Theatres and were enthusiastically received. Hanlan receiving a gold medal at the former, and Messrs. Shaw and Meeker acknowledged, on behalf of their proteges, the complimentary demonstrations. No official time was taken, and consequently no time record is to take their pick of half-a-dozen sets of figures ranging from 15:12 to 15:12. Of course all time bets are off. The judges were: On the referee—Alderman Davis of Windsor, Ont., for Hanlan, M. F. Davis of Portland for Plaisted; at the finish—Thos. Winfield of Toronto for Hanlan, P. A. Curtis of New York for Plaisted.

ROWING AT MEMPHIS, TENN.

A race in four-oared gigs, participated in by crews representing four clubs, took place up the river Plaisted's next what is known as Mound City chute, where the water is almost still. The prize was a gold-lined silver cup, the gift of P. J. Kelly. The course was somewhere in the neighborhood of three miles, one turn, and the contesting crews were: Excelsior Club—F. P. McCarty (bow), Wm. Conley, John O'Brien, James Brown, Mat McNeily, John Gillespie (stroke). Charles Hunter (coxswain). De Soto—R. Brown (bow), Blase Pate, James Brown, Shade Lewellyn, V. Ruffing (stroke). Fifty-Six—F. Duvigne (bow), J. T. Bridgewater, Mike Fell, John Enright, P. J. Williams, Robert Lee (stroke), Jas. Creed (cox.). Aldine—John Burke (bow), Jas. Griffith, John Flanigan, John Connelly, W. B. Koerper, Thos. Johnson (stroke), Geo. Washington (cox.). The De Soto six first led, holding the advance position until after turning, when the Excelsiors collared and passed them, and the race thenceforward taking the form of a procession, and was over since the rather forward Spring opened, and, as before he had made his quarters while training on the island home, he had the advantage in the matter of knowledge through having a lee shore off which to take his breath; consequently, the strong winds and turbulent state of the bay did not cause him very great inconvenience. It was remarked, however, that his condition was scarcely as good as upon the occasion of his race with Ross last Fall—a circumstance which leaves it to be inferred that he felt extreme confidence in his ability to win so short a race from Plaisted without getting down to the hardness of nails. He was still, however, in capital fix. He was well boated, having shells by four makers—one by C. B. Elliott of Greenpoint, L. I., two English-built boats, constructed respectively by Swaddell and Winship, and Robert Jewitt, and one by George Whalin of Toronto. The Elliott boat was his choice, and was used in the race, the sculls being by Ayling. Notwithstanding the overweening confidence manifested by the friends of the Canadian, they hesitated before giving their backers odds of 2 to 1, which Plaisted's comparatively few adherents stubbornly held out for (save in a few instances, when 2 to 1 was accepted), and in consequence the monetary speculation was light, and by no means proportionate to the great interest felt in the match, especially upon the part of the people across the border. Canadians are proverbially a very careful people in money matters, but had the partisans of Plaisted been willing to accept reasonable odds they would have put up all the money that could have been asked for. Had pool-selling been permissible, doubtless considerable money would have been invested on the issue; but as Hon. Edward Blake's bill for the suppression of this and other methods of wagering money publicly went into effect in Canada May 1, this game was effectually blocked, and an exciting feature of the contests was upon this occasion omitted from the programme, somewhat to the disgust of enterprising individuals who had hoped to turn an honest penny in this way.

SUIT AT LAW.—Alden S. Swan was awarded $39.45 in the suit brought to recover from Eben Loosee $200, one-half of which was alleged to have been advanced to built a boat used by both parties at Philadelphia in 1876, and the balance to purchase a prize to be rowed for by Loosee and Dave Roach. The defence claimed that their expenses in Philadelphia, for which plaintiff was alone liable, offset the full amount; also that the $100 put up to purchase a prize to be contested for could not be recovered because it was contributed to law. The Court held the latter point well taken, and the jury allowed, in part, the claim for expenses. The case was tried before Judge Goepp and a jury in the Marine Court, a peculiarity of the case being that plaintiff and defendant, their counsel, and the witnesses were all members of the Amlanta Club. J. E. Eustis appeared for Loosee, and E. C. Ripley for Swan.

THE PAVONIA YACHT CLUB of Jersey City, N. J., elected the following officers on May 15: Commodore, Edward A. Dove; vice-commodore, Thos. Cruanemaner; rear-commodore, William Taylor; secretary, Alexander W. Murray; treasurer, Harry H. Holmes; president, John G. Northrup; steward, James Dalney; measurer, Walter G. Moulds; sailing-master, Charles W. Wild; board of trustees: J. L. Kreyer, H. H. Holmes and Otto Crumenauer.

COOPER'S POINT YACHT CLUB.—The season on the Delaware was opened May 13 by the regatta of the above club, sailed from Cooper's Point round the Chester buoy and return. The participating boats were the Feeney, Capt. King; Jessie, Capt. Walton; Guang, Capt. Weaver; Cohill, Capt. Mayberry; Dawson, Capt. Young; McKinney, Capt. Humes; Holland, Capt. Carrol; and Keenan, Capt. Dorgan. The prizes were three in number, all in cash, the first boat receiving $112. The race resulted in favor of the McKinney, the Josie being second and the Guang third.

THE KNICKERBOCKERS' OPENING.—At the last regular meeting of the Knickerbocker Yacht Club it was decided the coming regatta at Seneca Lake; on the steamer Alsatia of the Anchor Line, leaving this port on June 5.

J. H. ORTSON intends coaching the Cornell Freshmen during the week prior to their race with Harvard.

NAUTILUS BOAT CLUB OF READING, PA.—This club has accepted an invitation to participate in the coming Schuylkill Regatta at Philadelphia, and will send a crew to compete in the four-oared race. They received their new four-oared paper-shell May 15. It measures 40½ft. long and 17¾in. wide, has outrigging seats and all the modern improvements. In addition to their handsomely-furnished house at Reading they have also recently-furnished quarters for their guests; they have erected a r eat and near the Lancaster bridge, 60ft. x20ft., and containing dressing, bath and reception rooms. The officers of the club are: Richmond L. Jones, president; T. Burd Patterson Zell, vice-president; J. Edw Trees, secretary; Wm. Y. Woot-ten, treasurer; and a board of managers, consisting of Lieut. C. C. Heacock, U. S. N., Richmond L. Jones and S. L. McIlvain. The crew who will represent the club at Philadelphia June 8 are: M. B. McKnight (stroke), Geo. Wharton Reed, Wayne Hayman, and S. L. McIlvain (bow and captain). They have been in active training for several weeks past.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROWING ASSOCIATION.—The first annual regatta of this Association will be held on Peoria Lake, Peoria, Ill., Wednesday and Thursday, June 19, 20. It will be open to all members of the Association. Entries must be made on or before June 5; entrance-money for each boat to be paid to the secretary as follows: Four-oars or more, $15; pair-oars, $10; double-sculls, $10; single-sculls, $5. The treasurer to the boats scoring, or, in case of satisfactory excuse made for not doing so, to the executive committee. Secretary's address, R. G. Thwaites, Peoria, Ill. The programme is as follows: First day.—Junior four-oared shells; senior double-sculls, six-oared barges, junior single-sculls, tub race (50 yards). Second day.—Senior four-oared shells, junior double-sculls, gigs, senior single-sculls, commodore's race, swimming race (100 yards). The barge race will be one and one-half miles, straightaway. All other races will be one mile and return. In all turning races, boats will turn from port to starboard. Gold badges will be given to the individual winners in each race, and, in addition thereto, a set of colors to the winning crews in gig, barge, junior and senior four-oared scull-races.

"MARSH'S AMERICAN GUIDE TO LONDON," 1878, is a recent addition to tourists' literature. It is a handy little volume, neatly printed, and contains a map and a great deal of useful information about the big city and its environs, with useful hints in regard to the best way of getting there. It can be purchased in London of C. T. Marsh & Co., 139 Fleet street, and in New York of Lockwood & Co., 812 Broadway.

BASEBALL.

MILWAUKEE vs. CINCINNATI.

On May 14 the Cincinnati Club made their appearance in Milwaukee, Wis., having strong hopes of adding another to their three successive victories over the local team; but in this they were mistaken, the verdict being reversed, chiefly through the hitting of the visitors, who pasted Will Weaver for thirteen bases, while the Reds could get but six off Weaver. The first run was obtained in the fourth inning, Peters being brought in from second by a fly which Jones failed to secure. In the next inning the local tossers tacked one on to this, Hobert hitting for his base and getting around on successive hits by Golden and Redmond, while in the sixth good hits by Dalrymple and Goodman, and Kelly's error, gained two more. In this inning the Cincinnatis made their first run, due to a bad throw by Peters, to which three were added in the seventh—the result of fine hitting by Pike, McVey, Jones, J. White and Gerhardt. This tied the score, but the local players got away again in the eighth inning. Dalrymple and Peters making safe hits, Foley following with a two-bagger, and errors by Kelly giving them four. The Reds made a strong effort to overcome this lead in the next inning, but they couldn't get more than a single, Kelly hitting for two bags, and Pike's base-hit and sacrifice-hit on second doing the business. A fly catch by Dalrymple was the feature. Double-plays were credited to Weaver and Foley, Jones and Sullivan.

| MILWAUKEE. | R. | 1B. | P.O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| D'lrymple, r.f. | 1 | 2 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Peters, 2d b. | 4 | 3 | 3 | 3 | 2 |
| Goodman, lb. | 4 | 0 | 1 | 11 | 0 |
| Foley, c. | 4 | 1 | 2 | 1 | 2 |
| Bennett, c.f. | 4 | 1 | 2 | 1 | 0 |
| Holbert, c. | 4 | 1 | 2 | 7 | 1 |
| Redmond, s.s. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 |
| Golden, l.f. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 |
| Weaver, p. | 3 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 1 |
| Totals. | 37 | 8 | 13 | 27 | 13 | 5 |

| CINCINNATI. | R. | 1B. | P.O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Pike, c. f. | 4 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| McVey, 3d b. | 5 | 2 | 1 | 2 | 0 |
| Geer, s. s. | 5 | 1 | 2 | 3 | 3 |
| Jones, 1st b. | 4 | 2 | 9 | 0 | 0 |
| White, c. | 5 | 1 | 0 | 3 | 3 |
| Gerhardt, 2b | 5 | 0 | 2 | 4 | 1 |
| Kelly, r. f. | 3 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 2 |
| White, p. | 3 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 4 | 2 |
| Totals. | 36 | 5 | 6 | 27 | 18 | 6 |

| Milwaukee | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 2 | 0 | 0 | 5—8 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Cincinnati | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 3 | 1 | 1 | 0—5 |

Earned run—Milwaukee, 1. Umpire, Seward of St. Louis.

Thursday, 16th, was a big batting day, particularly on the part of the Milwaukees, who, in the first two innings scored twelve runs to the Reds' two—a lead which the latter could not overcome, their being beaten by four runs. The homerun failed to score afterwards. Of the slugger runs they gave them two, and Dalrymple's three-baser, when the bases were full, brought in three men in the second. Peters and Jones each made a two base hit, the latter sending the ball over the fence in the seventh inning.

| MILWAUKEE. | R. | 1B. | P.O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Dalr'mple, l.f. | 5 | 2 | 3 | 2 | 0 |
| Peters, 2d b. | 5 | 2 | 4 | 0 | 7 |
| Goodman, lb. | 5 | 2 | 16 | 0 | 0 |
| Foley, 3d b. | 5 | 2 | 2 | 1 | 0 |
| Bennett, c.f. | 5 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 0 |
| Holbert, c. | 5 | 0 | 1 | 4 | 1 |
| Richmond, s.s. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 1 |
| Golden, r. f. | 6 | 1 | 1 | 3 | 1 |
| Weaver, p. | 5 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 7 |
| Totals. | 47 | 12 | 29 | 13 | 17 | 9 |

| CINCINNATI. | R. | 1B. | P.O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Pike, c. f. | 5 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 1 |
| McVey, 3d b. | 5 | 0 | 1 | 2 | 0 |
| Geer, s. s. | 5 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 2 |
| Jones, 1st b. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 8 | 0 |
| Gerhardt, 2b. | 5 | 0 | 2 | 3 | 6 |
| Jones, l. f. | 5 | 3 | 3 | 1 | 0 |
| Sullivan, lb. | 4 | 0 | 1 | 13 | 0 |
| Ferguson, s. s. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 4 | 1 |
| Cassidy, r. f. | 4 | 1 | 1 | 2 | 0 |
| Wilia'on, 3b. | 5 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 2 |
| Clapp, l. f. | 3 | 0 | 1 | 2 | 3 |
| Croft, 1st b. | 3 | 0 | 0 | 13 | 0 |
| Larkin, p. | 4 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 4 |
| Totals. | 42 | 5 | 12 | 27 | 18 | 10 |

| Milwaukee | 5 | 7 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0—12 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Cincinnati | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0—1 |

Earned runs—Milwaukee, 6; Cincinnati, 3. First base on errors—Milwaukee, 2; Cincinnati, 4. Umpire, Howard of St. Louis. Time, 2h. 20m.

INDIANAPOLIS vs. CHICAGO.

An ordinary game was contested by the Hoosier nine and the Whites at Chicago, Ill., on May 14, the result being one of the victors, being due in part to errors by the Chicagos and partly to the right place in the Indianapolis boys. Two-base hits were made by Anson, Ferguson, Quest, Clapp and Nolan respectively, Quest also making a double-play.

| INDIANAPO'S | R. | 1B. | P.O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Quest, 2d b.. | 4 | 1 | 1 | 10 | 3 | 0 |
| Nelson, s. s. | 5 | 2 | 2 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Clapp, l. f. | 5 | 2 | 3 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Shaffer, r. f. | 4 | 1 | 2 | 0 | 1 | 0 |
| Fisher, c. | 4 | 0 | 1 | 6 | 1 | 0 |
| A. Whit'y, 3b | 4 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 3 | 0 |
| Sullivan, c. | 4 | 1 | 2 | 5 | 2 | 0 |
| Wright, s. s. | 4 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 3 | 0 |
| Knight, p. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 4 | 0 |
| Booth, 2d b.. | 5 | 0 | 0 | 3 | 4 | 0 |
| Totals. | 39 | 6 | 13 | 27 | 17 | 3 |

| CHICAGO. | R. | 1B. | P.O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Remsen, c. f. | 3 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Hallman, l. f. | 5 | 1 | 3 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Anson, 2d b. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 8 | 0 | 1 |
| Anson, 2d b. | 4 | 0 | 2 | 4 | 4 | 0 |
| Ferguson, s. s. | 4 | 1 | 1 | 4 | 4 | 1 |
| Cassidy, r. f. | 4 | 1 | 1 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Williams, c. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 5 | 1 | 0 |
| Clinton, c. f. | 3 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Glasscock, 3b | 3 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 5 | 0 |
| Lane, c., lb. | 3 | 0 | 0 | 9 | 0 | 0 |
| Hankl'n, 3b. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 4 | 2 |
| Larkin, p. | 4 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 4 | 3 |
| Totals. | 36 | 3 | 8 | 27 | 14 | 8 |

| Indianapolis | 0 | 1 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 2 | 0—6 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Chicago | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0—0 |

Runs earned—Chicago, 2. First base on errors—Hardbidge, Clapp, Shaffer, Williamson, 1 each. Umpire, McLean of Philadelphia. Time, 2h. 10m.

On the 16th the Whites and Reis in the pitcher's position, but the result was not such as they had anticipated, the Hoosiers giving him particular fits. The batting was hard on both sides, the fielding was poor, a result partially due to cold, windy weather.

| INDIANA'PS. | R. | 1B. | P.O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Quest, 2d b. | 5 | 2 | 5 | 0 | 0 | 4 |
| Nelson, s. s. | 7 | 3 | 2 | 2 | 1 | 0 |
| Clapp, l. f. | 5 | 2 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 0 |
| Shaffer, r. f. | 5 | 3 | 3 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| McKell'r, c. f. | 5 | 2 | 1 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Nolan, p. | 5 | 0 | 2 | 1 | 2 | 0 |
| Willia'n, 3b. | 5 | 0 | 3 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Fisher, c. | 5 | 2 | 9 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Croft, 1st b. | 5 | 1 | 1 | 10 | 0 | 0 |
| Totals. | 47 | 13 | 14 | 27 | 14 | 9 |

| CHICAGO. | R. | 1B. | P.O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Remsen, c. f. | 3 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 1 | 0 |
| Hallman, l. f. | 6 | 2 | 2 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Start, 1st b. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 9 | 0 | 0 |
| Anson, 2d b. | 4 | 2 | 1 | 1 | 4 | 2 |
| Ferguson, s. s. | 5 | 2 | 3 | 2 | 7 | 1 |
| Shaffer, r. f. | 5 | 3 | 3 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Harbidge, c. | 4 | 0 | 2 | 4 | 0 | 2 |
| Hankin'n, 3b | 4 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 1 | 2 |
| Reis, p. | 4 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 1 | 1 |
| Totals. | 41 | 8 | 11 | 27 | 14 | 11 |

| Indianapolis | 0 | 3 | 0 | 0 | 3 | 0 | 0 | 7 | 0—13 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Chicago | 3 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0—3 |

Earned runs—Chicago, 3; Indianapolis, 4. First base on errors—Chicago, 5; Indianapolis, 7. Double-plays—Remsen and Anson, 1; Quest, 1. Umpire, Wm. McLean.

BROWN UNIVERSITY vs. WESTBORO.

The collegians of Brown University met the Westboro professionals at Providence, R. I., on May 16, and they had a close contest with the latter, the appended score shows. The list of fielding errors, however, is not creditable to either nine.

| WESTBORO. | T. | R. | 1B. | P.O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Gilligan, c. | 5 | 0 | 1 | 6 | 3 | 5 |
| Cronin, 3d b. | 5 | 0 | 2 | 4 | 1 | 1 |
| Sweeney, lb. | 4 | 1 | 1 | 9 | 0 | 0 |
| Quinn, r. f. | 4 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 |
| Gardiner, p. | 4 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 4 | 7 |
| Bailey, s. s. | 3 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 3 | 0 |
| Flatt, 2d b. | 3 | 0 | 1 | 1 | 4 | 2 |
| Hebard, s. s. | 2 | 0 | 1 | 2 | 1 | 0 |
| Gardener, c. | 3 | 0 | 0 | 7 | 1 | 0 |
| McBride, c. f. | 3 | 0 | 0 | 4 | 0 | 0 |
| Williams, r. f. | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Totals. | 6 | 7 | 27 | 13 | 9 |

THEATRICAL RECORD.

Movements, Business, and Incidents of the Theatrical, Circus, Musical and Minstrel Professions.

THE CLIPPER POST-OFFICE.

☞ A STAMPED ENVELOPE, plainly addressed, must be inclosed for each and every letter, and the line of business followed by the party addressed should be given, in order to prevent mistakes.

NOTE.—Professionals and others should bear in mind that, by a late change in the postal laws, all letters, etc., in transit between the United States and Canada, must be prepaid, otherwise they are not forwarded.

Letters received for week ending 5 P. M., MONDAY, May 20.

LADIES' LIST.

Archer, Amanda
Ackerman, Irene
Allen, Eloise
Amann, Lottie
Bernard, Mrs. Mollie
Buckingham, Fannie Louise
Byron, Mrs. O Doud
Boniface, Marie
Beeman, Pauline
Bensley, J (of Mafflitts' Co.)
Byron, Lizzie (2)
Brink, Kittie
Beaumont, Stella
Bradley, Leanora
Carter, Cherie
Crabtree, Lotta
Claxton, Kate
Contera, Louise Anna
Caldwell, Ella
Cassily, Fannie N.
Chase, Lola
Cadine, Edith (vocalist)
Dulcios, Ninon (3)
De Rosa, Josephine
Dumont, Miss Franklin
Davenport, Lou
Duncan, Pearl
De Love, Gussie (of Farren's Co.)
Delmay, Lu-lu
Douglas, Annie (of Emmet's Co.)
De Brent, Amy
Dair, Ada
Emerson, Minnie
Esmond, Ella
Emerson, Minnie
Foy, Bertha
Findel or Fuedel, Maude
Frudo, Mlle. (of Frudo's Blondes)
Greenfield, Ida
Glover, Ida (of Rice's Co.)
Grant, Lottie
Garretson, Fannie
Hall, Marie (p. o. m Liverpool, O.)
Howard, Josie (burlesque "biz")
Hill, Helen
Howland, Rose (of Howland Sissers)
Jourdan, Alecia
Kimberly, Sessie
Kellogg, Alice
Knight, Mrs. Sophie W.
Leslie or Lester, Mrs. J (London, Eng.)
Lee, Rosa
La Verde, Belle Minton, Emma
Macart, Madam
Miller, Mrs. J (p. o. m. London, Eng.)
Marshall, Florence (vocalist)
May, Etta
Morris, Clara
Nuab, Mrs. Rel
May, Lottie
Mack, Addie
Moore, Clara
McDonald, Nellie (vocalist)
Nelson, Miss A.
Oates, Alice
O'Neil, Hattie
Orennen, Jennie
Pearl, Juliette

GENTLEMEN'S LIST.

Allen, J. (with Allen Sisters)
Archer, H. A.
Almonte, Jas.
Atkins, A. J.
Ashley, J. W.
Arlington, Billy (2)
Adams, Agent
Haverly's Minst.)
Arnold Bros.
Allison, C. W.
Ammon, Chas. B.
Adams, J. (of Adams & Lee)
Atkins, C. M. (manager)
Abrendt, Carl
Adams, Marsh
Adams, Yank
Alexander, G. (of Anderson's Cyclus)
Birch, Wambold & Backus
Bolter, Saml.
Bowles, Frank
Boyd, John (of Belfast, Ireland)
Byron, O. Doud
Barnum, P. T.
Burroughs, Wm. F.
Brown, E. B.
Barry, Tom (clown)
Berger, F. G.
Barrett, Ed. comedian)
Bradini, —(female impersonator)
Brown, Wm. (of Union Square Co.)
Barr, Geo.
Bennett, Harry (2)
Bohea, T. (pianist)
Brownlie, Archie
Bock, Fred
Bohee, Geo.
Bye, Charlie (2)
Brown, Dick
Baily, Geo. A. (actor) (2)
Burton, John
Cody, Hon. W. F.
Clark, Thos. Geo.
Carroll, Harry
Cassidy, G. H.
Coney, Geo. W. (2)
Carter, Wm. C.
Cilly, F. B.
Coup, Geo. W. (3)
Cresswell, S. (of Southern Favorites
"C. W. G."
Charvat, Frank
Carling, J. W. (of Plymouth, Eng.)
Cohoes, John King
Cohan, Tim (of Hogan's Co.)
Collum, Andy
Chandler, A. B.
Chapman, F. (of Dan Rice's)
Corvella, Bob (2)
"Cincinnatus"
Clayton, Frank
Collins, James
Crane, E. M.
Conrad, Wm.
Cole, Eddie
Carr, F. (of Healy's Minst.)
Christie, Geo. W.
Cooper, F. F.
Carncross & Dixey's Minstrels
Clancy, S. (of Robbins' Circus)
Crane, Jack
Carle, John B.
De Shay, H (of Barnum's Circus)
"D. W. C." (2)
Drayton, Herr
Dixon, H. (of Strakosch's Co.)
Delehanty & Hengler
Dowling, J. J. (2)
Denier, John
De Haven, Claude (2)
Devlin, Dick (Irish "biz")
D'Artery, Wm.
Donaldson, G. W.
Egberts, F. P.
Emerson, Billy
Enos, A. G.
Emerson, Master (jig dancer)
Eunice, Ferd
Everett, Geo. (2)
Emaly, Jas.
Fields, A. G. (clown)
Friese, A. (3)
Fowler, W. W.
Frake, W. H. (man fish) (5)
Foster, Al. J. (of Rice's Circus)
Fortescue, G. K.
Fawcett, Owen
Farris, W. H.
Fagan & Fenton
Fox, Willie (comique)
Fish, Chas. 10c.
Franckum, G. W.
Green, J. (with Diefenbach & Lewis)
Goddard, Jack (cornetist)
Grieser, Jas. W.
Glenroy, J. H.
Grover, Leonard
Gates, Chas.
Gaylor, Chas.
Goodrich, E. T.
Granger, Bud
Gose, Wm.
Gretcher, J. (of Diefenbach's Co.)
Guion, J.
Gay, W. M.
Gardner, Harry
Holloway, J. (of London, Eng.) (2)
Hogan, Prof. F.
Hamilton, Wiley
Hogan & Cincinnatus
Howe's London Circus Agent
Hall, Jas.
Haydock, John
Haywood Bros.
Hyde, Mr. (druggist)
Hall, F. M.
Hartington, Frank
Harwood, Harry
Hine, W. J.
Hamilton, Harry F.
Heathwood, Thos
Hawkins, Chas B
Harrison, Eugene H.
Harrington, J. (of Cummings & Harr.)
Hague, T. W.
Healy's Hibernian Minstrels
Hanley, M. W. (2)
Hengler, J. H.
Hengler, T. M.
Huppman, Chas. P.
Hardie, Jas. M. (actor)
Hyland, Wm.
Halleck, W. S.
Hall, Harry (cornetist)
Hernandez, Montie
Irving, F. H. (2)
Julian, Fred
Johnson, Chas. E.
Johnson, R. J.
Jefferson, Jos.
Jacklin-Chy's Agent
Jones, D. (p. o. m. Nottingham, Eng.)
Kiefer, Wm. of White's Dram Co.)
Kayes, Wm. & Minnie
Kimball, W. A.
Kennell, C. W. (of Paris Opera Co.)
Kendall, H. A. (4)
Keane, Jos. H.
Kremer, A. (of Opera Co.)
Keating, J. (of Keating & Sands)
Keenan, Jeffrey J.
Kersanda, Billy
Lorella, W. H. (3)
Liley, C. A. (2)
Lingard, W. H.
Lynch, G. T.
Lee, W.
Lusbie, Ben
Lyle, Chas. (of Anderson's Circus)
Laine, J. H. (agent)
Lee, J. H. (of Adams & Lee)
Lockhart, — (one arm-man) (2)
Lanklin, D. C.
Long, Thos. (of Wagner's Minst.)
Louis, R. (of M. Noble's Co.)
Lorella, T. A.
Lovell, Harry (comedian) Ludington, Alfred Luther) O'Brien's Circus)
Lee Bros. (Bob & Tom) (2)
Lauren, Henri (2)
Loreia, John
Lester, W. (of Lester & Allen)
Loritz, J.
Lucca, A. A.
McKay, Andy (2)
McDonald, Wm.
Melville, Chas. (2)
McFlinn, Saml.
Murphy, C.
Murphy & Mack
McVicker, F. C.
Mudge, Hank
Martello, Harry McGlone, Pete
Murray, John (comedian)
Milligan & Weaver
Magee, John
Morton, Harry & Champion
Morton, Will H.
Melville, W. (of Melville & Leopold)
Mordaunt, Frank (2)
Miller, H. (of Haverly's Minst.)
Marsion, Carl
Morosco, Walter
Miller, S. H.
McKenzie, Archie
McCloskey, J. H.
Mayo, Frank
Morton, Mr. (of Morton & Gravitt)
McGinnis, Jas. ("Mack")
McGrew, Harry (printer)
Martin, Sam
Murphy, J. C. ("Boss")
Misco Bros.
Monroe, W. O. 6c
Mack, Frank O.
Mack, (of Murphy & Mack)
Morgan, W. A.
Mack, James
Melville, Chas L.
Martino, Prof.
Morton, Chas. (of Hess' Circus)
Macdonald, W. M.
Murray, John H.
Morton, Geo.
Mayo, W. (of Mayo & Fash)
Mortimer, Harry J.
McDonough, Thos.
McIntyre & Heath
Nicholls, C. W.
Noon, J. H.
Norrie, J. M. (of Bryant's Minst.)
Nobles, Milton (2)
Norton, Joe (juggler)
Newman, Yank 6c
Nunn, Fred (of Nunn Bros.)
Norman, H. (of Norman & Sherman Bros.) (2)
O'Dale, Wm.
Pearl, C. C. (2)
Petrie, Will C.
Peck, Geo. (of Tom Thumb's Co.)
Powell, E. L.
Pague, T.
Phillips, Harry
Powers, J. H. (Kentucky Giant)
Paston, Chas.
Phillips, T. Augustus
Polk, J. B.
Quinn, M. T.
Ryse, Ellis (3)
Rixford, G. W.
Robinson, Harry (2)
Richardson, John (minst. "biz")
Robbins, Frank
Rice, Col. J. H.
Roberts, J. (of Shickling's Cincin.)
Ross, Wm. A. (actor) (2)
Ryman, Add
Ray, Frank
Rowland, W. (of Denstone's Circus)
Ripley, W. Z.
Robinson, Pony (of Forepaugh's)
Rogers, O. E. (manager) 6c
Saroney, Gilbert
Stout, J. (of W. F. & W. Minst.)
Sator, H. (musical director)
Sator, John (musician)
Singleton, C. (Punch & Judy Phil)
Stevens, Wm. O'Dale
St. Aubin, F. P.
Simmons, J. Slocum & Sweatnam
Stiles, W. A.
Squires, J. P.
Snow, W. H.
Sherman & Cameron
Swain, Sam C.
Sinclair, Harry
Sprague, Z. W.
Sherman, Arthur B.
Searle, C. J.
Smith, R. F.
Sellon & Burns
Stuart, Edwin (of Crisp's Co.)
Shirley, Harry Swonsbourne, C.
Sanyeah, Sam
Sheridan, J. F. (of Smith, R. (of Smith & Byrne)
Seely, Chas. 6c.
Swet, J. S.
Templeton, John
Tissot, Jules (2)
Thompson, John A.
Thomas & Henry
Treville, Walter
Tourison, Wm. G.
Tinkham, E. A.
Tracy, Dan (Irish "biz")
Trimble, John
Tribble, Wm. (Irish "biz")
Tribble, Harry (side-show "biz")
Tooley, Larry
Thompson, J. W.
Tripple, Harry
Taylor, J. R. (bandjobber) (2)
Uzzell, Chas. Minstrels, Agent
Vivian, Chas.
Vernon, Jack
Wiggins, Prof. F. S. (magician)
Wilkie, Albert
Wilson, Chas. (of Dup. & Bend. Minst.)
Weston, Sam
Wright, Albert
Waters, T. (of Waters & Kelly)
Wilson, G. (of E. P. & W. Minst.)
Waite, J. R.
Worthington, Wm.
Weed, John
Weaver, Jr., Add
Wagner, Cal
Way, Charlie
White, Frank
Wilson, F. (of Mack in & Wilson)
Wood, W. H. (of Wood & Beasley)
Williams, Harry F.
Wylie, Billy
Wade, Tom (of Boyd & Wade)
Wentworth, Walter
West, M. (stage manager)
Wingfield, John
Wadly, H.
Zoullmer, Max

THERE WERE LETTERS in the Detroit (Mich.) Post-office on May 16 for Clara Fisher, of Holman's Opera Co., and Thomas Wallace, Manager Tennessee Jubilee Singers.

INTRODUCTORY.

MONDAY, May 20, '78.

Earlier than usual are managers and performers making their annual pilgrimage to the shrine of this theatrical Mecca with the view of considering the situation, and laying out plans and making engagements for the season of 1878-9. June and July have heretofore been the months devoted to interchange of professional courtesies on the Rialto; but this year, owing to the closing of so many theatres and the untimely collapse of various roadsters, New York has already become the abiding-place of some and the objective point of others. We meet many old friends upon the Broadway as we saunter along that great artery of metropolitan life, and we listen to the sad experiences of those whom fortune ceased to smile upon in the season just closed, and we hear of but few tales of unprecedented success in the theatrical vineyard. Pleasant hopes and anticipations indulged in one year ago have been unrealized, and the bitter fruit of the past gives pause to the histrion as he seeks to peep into the impenetrable future and shape his ends accordingly. On all sides, and by all "legitimate" managers, admission is freely made that the campaign of 1877-8 has been a disastrous failure, looking at it in a pecuniary light. The attractions offered have been fully up to the standard of former years, and the people have in nowise abated in their love of dramatic exhibitions, and a desire to visit them; the scarcity of money, even with the addition of the silver dollar to our currency, has been the stumbling block to the success of theatrical ventures. Managers, taking advantage of this condition of affairs, may resort to the questionable policy of reducing salaries, which are low enough already. Should such a notion prevail, the little people will be the first to feel its effects. Be that as it may, we all know, are the least able to bear any further cutting down. Managers, for self-protection, must bring their expenses within reasonable bounds if they hope to weather the storm which swooped down with such severity upon nearly all classes of entertainments during the past closing. There are those who are willing to pay whatever may be demanded to see a first-class performance; but these are the exceptions—it is to the people, to the masses, if we may so term them, that managers must continue to look for support. Take, for instance, those theatres which played to comparatively empty seats, at such prices; and then observe the great improvement in the attendance when the rates of admission were placed within the reach of the hard-handed sons of toil, the bone and sinew of the nation. We do not say that the plays presented under the high-priced schedule were not deserving of extensive patronage—for they were; produced in a style of completeness in every detail to which old-time habitues had never been accustomed—but the industries of the country had become almost paralyzed and the toilers were forced to give up expensive luxuries. The drama has by no means "gone into a decline," as some writers are too ready to assert—it is the country which is passing through one of those dreadful ordeals to which every nation, at periodical seasons, is subjected. Though things theatrical look a trifle gloomy and discouraging just now, yet the stage and those who "fret their brief hours upon it" will work out their own deliverance and salvation by the teachings of experience, costly as that experience has proved to many of them. Apropos of the gathering of the "lost tribes" of Thespis, we call your attention to the appended

MOMENTOUS QUESTION.

"Where shall I go next season? Ah! that's the question—where?"
So murmureth ye Thespian who paces Union square.
"Shall I with combinations fly on from town to town,
Be always in a hurry and never settle down?
Be dragged from Maine to Texas to play a single part,
Thus losing in a season ambition for my art?
Reach towns too late for supper, but just in time to play;
And then, before its midnight, pack up and get away;
Catch dreadful colds while robing in dressing-rooms like cells,
And have a glut of railroads and very bad hotels?
Or shall I in a city some good engagement find,
And get a "line of business" just suited to my mind?
Be settled for the season and not obliged to roam,
Bring on the wife and children and have a little home?
By Jove! I'm not mistaken—a manager in view;
It's Blank of Onondaga—he recognized me, too!
He's looking out "for people," perhaps he'll fancy me;
His smile was very pleasant, I'll go at once and see."

.....In "Diplomacy," at Wallack's, F. Robinson is down on the bills to play the Count Orloff; but the way that gentleman gets the cold shake in act 3 at the hands of Wallack and Montague would indicate that they play the Count all of!.....Down East somewhere, noted for the production of odd notions and things like that, one of the latest accessions to their list of curiosities is a chicken with four feet; and it is as successful on all fours as any professional card sharp could desire. Should the thing pay, Connecticut may go into the business extensively, on the wooden-nutmeg plan.....A party with fifty dollars is wanted in a dramatic company, and full investigation." This is about as moderate a request as was ever made by a theatrical manager. It goes to show that in some localities dramatic business has got down to bottom prices.....As one of the noteworthy events of the times may be recorded the opening of the Fifth-avenue Theatre Summer season with "The Christmas Carol." This is one of the results of the recent cold spell, with hail and snow accompaniments.....He was a conscientious young man, who had his dreams of fame. His lines, which he had studied for three weeks, read: "I will reach the goal at all hazards!" Drawing himself up to his full height, he exclaimed: "I will a-r-r-each the jail at all hazards!" Let us hope that the conscientious young Thespian was mistaken..... Another spasm of Italian opera at the Academy of Music is announced, with Signorina Donati as the prima donna. Now, if the upper ten will only donate a [See this neat play on the lady's name?—ED.] sufficient return for this condescension on the part of the lyric artist from La Scala, Milan, how pleasant and happy it should make everybody! Let's try it.....Mr. Barnum, editor and proprietor of "the Greatest Show on Earth," doesn't like the idea of our Hartford correspondent stating that the governor and legislators of Connecticut were refused admission to his exhibition on tickets presented them by Barnum himself. And we don't wonder. And talking about circuses and horses, and races in the arena, did we ever tell you what Romans seldom wept? No? Well, we'll tell you now—those who were chary of tears, of course!.....Old mill in the city of "Fritz, I will be with thee," has no reference to the "mill" between Emmet and Allen. Don't forget this when you go there.....Our Jim," on seeing an old play brought out as a new one, with merely a change of title, said: "That's a dead cuticle!" He meant that it was a "dead skin!".....It's a wonder some of the sheet-anchor mangers don't get hold of Mrs. Tom-ri-jon and bring her out as an eccentric comedian, with Volcano engagements.....No, Jimmy; no one ever tried to aim a stone at Amy Stone! That won't do.... When the Twin Sisters get through with their engagements we presume they will be taking French leave of us.....Fred B. Wardle has become quite a favorite in this country that, like the little ones who had a benefit at Steinway Hall on Saturday night, he may be counted as one of the "Wardes of the nation."..... "The Four Seasons" to be exhibited in "Humpty Dumpty's Dream" this week at the Fifth-avenue Theatre must not be confounded with salt and pepper and such things. Please remember this.....Why did giving Hamlet with little about seeing "Hamlet" is because of the Ghost that's in it. If they were taught that it is not a real ghost, but only a spectre illusion, we think the juvenile dislike to the tragedy might be eradicated from the youthful mind....To show in what high estimation the manly art is held in this city, we need only say that a fellow in the ranks of boxing charged one dollar and a half for a choice seat at a theatre, between one and two hundred gentlemen paid ten dollars each to see a boxing-match last Saturday night.....One of our popular lecturers chose for the subject of his eloquence this season "The Hidden Power of Art." Perhaps he tells us that it is hidden in the ground as well, or buried in the he-art-h-stone, or lost in the heated m-art or more heated m-art-yr. Possibly he calls attention to the fact that art forms three-fifths of a qu-art. At all events he can't tell us anything about the subject. But we would remind the distinguished lecturer that he ought to make his discourse reasonably brief, because "art is long and time is fleeting." This is one of our sm-art things, as you may readily perceive.....Learning recently that a member of the San Francisco Minstrels calculated on making a matrimonial engagement, we sent a reporter to seek William Birch in the privacy of his hair, and interview that part of the subject. Below is the result:

REPORTER.—Have at thee, William; I wouldst interview thee, an' thou wilt.

WILLIAM.—Let the revels proceed; what wouldst the noble Dane?

REPORTER.—The night wind tells me that in thy dusky corps there lingers one who feign wouldst take a match. Doth the night wind say me sooth, or is it but the idle whispering of some Russian bear that breaks upon the ear?

WILLIAM.—The idle wind doth play thee false, me fructile Gonziago. A trifle fresh art thou, me son. Get thee out of the wet, ere it penetrates the left ventricle of thy abluvious crestaciousness.

REPORTER.—Thou wrongst me, thou frail one. I am a scion of a dukely house, and ——

WILLIAM.—I will hear no more; thou troublest me; flit in vain. Get thee to a beer-ery, and tell 'em I sent thee thither.

REPORTER.—Nay, then, thou dost pain me; I am not an emissary by the Cimbria, nor do I seek to expose the secrets of thy calling.

WILLIAM.—Thou art a cream-faced galoot, and thy bones are marrowless. Thou comest in such a questioning mode as I would bounce thee ere Birnam's wood should come to Dunsinane, wert thou not a traitorous flutemagilda. Away, ere I do thee a murder.

REPORTER.—Alas, good Romeo, I am not what I seem. I would give thee gold!

WILLIAM.—I need not thy filthy lucre! I have millions of the needful dollars, and me pards are equally well fixed. I scorn the traitor as I disgust the treason. Away, thou keepest me from me lunch.

REPORTER.—Prythee, stay but another moment; I am footsore and aweary. I have walked from Boston to consult thee as a learned oracle upon a subject that interests my soul with fire.

WILLIAM.—Wouldst thou beard the Hon in his den? Beware, thou tread'st on dangerous ground. I will summon a pursuivant-at-arms, and have thee flung from yon lofty abyss. One blast from out me bugle-horn would surround thee with thousands of me faithful retainers. No interviewers for me, because in the wicked cause.

REPORTER.—I crave thy pardon. Thy foot is on the mountain height; I grovel in the dust below. I have but one more question to propound. Can such a match be made, an' thou be not cognizant of the fell delusion?

WILLIAM.—I tell thee again, me bootless scribe, we ain't not making matches now, because we haven't our Backus with us!

REPORTER.—I thank thee, kind sir, for thy courtesy and thy gentlemanly bearing. Fare thee well!

WILLIAM.—I want not thy thanks—I have but done me duty. Adios, senor!

FACT AND FANCY FOCUSED.

At our Terrace Garden Theatre, May 15, Hon. Daniel Dougherty of Philadelphia lectured on "Oratory and Orators" for the benefit of the fund of the Literary Society of St. Vincent Ferrer's R. C. Church.....On the 13th inst. laborers began demolishing the Gotham Cottage, in the Bowery, and thus there disappears another of the buildings once used for variety performances.....A concert is to be given at Steinway Hall, this city, May 22, under the auspices of the American Geographical Society, and in aid of the Sir John Franklin search party, now in command of Lieut. Schwatka of the Third Cavalry.....The workmen employed in demolishing the two buildings on whose site Harry Miner's New London Theatre is to rear itself have all been paid off.....Having failed in its recent operatic ventures, our Aquarium has had to resort to variety entertainments, and last week Messrs. Scanlon and Cronin and the La Verde Sisters were the cards.....The American Museum of Natural History, Central Park, this city, held its Spring reception on the afternoon of Saturday, May 11.....Little Bessie Germon, granddaughter of Mrs. Greene C. Germon, is to be of the stock at Ford's Grand Opera-house, Baltimore, Md., next season.

Miss Kate Thayer, vocalist, has returned East from New Orleans.....Mr. Wallace Bruce, of Brooklyn, N. Y., is making himself the benefactor of some sideshowman by raising a four-legged chicken.....Miss Libbie Dick of Detroit, Mich., has been engaged by Adelina Patti for all of this city, is visiting Utica, N. Y., and at St. Joseph's Church, May 12, sang Millard's "Ave Verum" in D flat.....Seven of the eight giraffes imported last Summer by Frank Buckland for Cetewayo, King of Zulu-land, sailed for Stuttgart, Germany, to visit his scholarly daughters, on May 18.....M. Massenet, composer of "Roi De Lahore," has been commended for that work by the Queen of Italy in person.....At the Centennial Celebration at Valley Forge, Pa., June 10, there is to be a chorus of five hundred voices.....David W. Sherwood of Bridgeport, Ct., who is monarch of 70,00 acres of land in southern Colorado, proposes to put a canon thereon to the novel American use of raising three hundred camels a year.....Unknown vandals have sadly disfigured the monument to Mozart in the St. Marx Cemetery, Vienna. Among the other desecrations, the four medallions have been wrenched from the granite pedestal.....Joseph Jefferson's painting of a scene on a river in England has just been placed on exhibition at the gallery of Knoedler & Co.'s, formerly Goupil's, this city.....The streets of Lynn, Mass., are to be cleared of hand-organ artists and other itinerant musicians, and Lynn people will be required to remain in Cincinnati several months, and give concerts for the masses twice a week.....The song of "Don't You Tickle Me" was the only most admirable feature in a recent sunday concert in Boston.....The Commercial Destiny of the Western Hemisphere" will resurrect Cassius M. Clay as a lecturer in St. Louis on the 23d inst.....Miss Crawford, a Brooklynite who has just been placed on exhibition at the gallery of Knoedler & Co.'s, formerly Goupil's, this city.....The streets of Lynn, Mass., are to be cleared of hand-organ artists and other itinerant musicians, and Lynn people will be required to remain in Cincinnati several months, and give concerts for the masses twice a week.....The song of "Don't You Tickle Me" was the only most admirable feature in a recent sunday concert in Boston.....The Commercial Destiny of the Western Hemisphere" will resurrect Cassius M. Clay as a lecturer in St. Louis on the 23d inst.....Miss Crawford, a Brooklynite who is about to go abroad to develop her voice, is said to be the recipient of a complimentary concert at the Academy of Music, that city, June 12.....The Elmira Gazette suggests this motto for the vice-presidential candidates: Incheonpaugh—Grim and bare H.....The father of James Fisk Jr. was peddling Bibles last year, and now he is soliciting orders for lightning rods.....Alfred Tenny son tips the beam at 300 pounds, all skin and bone, and is still growing.....Mr. Neville, "Hungarian tragedian," has now taken to dining and wining him.....Mrs. Mary Banta, vocalist of San Francisco, goes to Milan, Italy, to finish her education at the Conservatory.....Her farewell concert was at Platt's Hall May 7, but she was to sing in Denver, Col., on her way East.....Miss Gemma Donati, prima donna, fresh from triumphs in Italy, is to make her first appearance in this country May 24, at our Academy of Music.....John Habberton, author and lecturer, rejoices in the paternity of another of "Helen's Babies," in place of the one that died about two years ago.....It is understood that one of San Francisco theatres to introduce lady ushers.

Lawrence F. Barrett started from Chicago for San Francisco May 13.....Week before last, the services of W. J. Coggswell, who played Johnson in "Macbeth" at the Broadway Theatre, this city, were dispensed with; and on Sunday night, May 12, the "Rev. W. J. Coggshall" preached against Mormonism in this city.....Miss Helen Potter sailed for Liverpool May 15.....Fred Stinson, connected for seven years past with John Stetson in Boston, has resigned his position, and intends to locate in this city (our publicity).....Miss Louise Cary was tendered a benefit on May 14 by Theo. Stanwood of the First National Bank of Cincinnati. It was largely attended.....Woodward Gardens, San Francisco, were for the first time illuminated by the new electric light on May 9.....Mrs. Charles Schenck, mother of James S. Edwards of Heeck's Opera-house, Cincinnati, died in Cleveland, O., May 14.....At the conclusion of the dedicatory ceremonies of the Centennial Exhibition in Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, Mr. Corbett was presented with an elegant and massive silver vase.....The London, this city, has added a collection of professional photographs to the attractions of its lobby.....Tony Pastor has been immortalized in plaster-of-paris, and his busts, to which we had never known him to be addicted, have become shockingly frequent.....There was a full house, unusual for an opening night at Hooley's Theatre, Chicago, when Martin Hanley's Harrigan & Hart Combination opened there, May 13. The friends of "The Gallant Sixty-ninth" in this city will be delighted to learn that the drill of the youngsters captivated the Chicagoans.....As a special attraction last week at the London, this city, Alex. Zanfretta recalled old times by his high-rope ascensions.....Charles Werner, violoncello-player, sailed for Germany May 18, to be absent a few months.....Courtlandt Palmer, well known privately in theatrical circles of this city, read and recited before the Workingmen's Lyceum on the 18th inst.....George Francis Train spoke his piece at our Broadway Museum May 19.....Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Whitecar and child arrived here from San Francisco May 18, by steamer.....Signor Frapolli leaves for Europe this week, having closed his season with Strakosch in Richmond, Va., May 18.....Herman Linde, Shakespearian reciter, is to be under the management of Strakosch next season, and it is further more announced that the impressario will put the German forward at our Academy of Music as a star actor.....Peter Reid, the very 1st hack-driver, who was well known to theatrical people, died in this city May 15.....The Hidden Gem," a comedy by Cardinal Wiseman, has been brought out in St. Louis, Mo., by the Pio Nono Dramatic Society.....It being feared that Mrs. Rousby's beauty and intelligence might prove all-powerful in a police-court, her case against Daniel E. Bandmann has, by an order of the Lord Chief Justice, been transferred to the Court of Queen's Bench, London.....This unfortunate country is threatened with another female fiend in the person of Signora Pezzana, an Italian who thinks she can do justice to the United States language.....The force with which Mons. Lavelle the aeronaut struck against the brick wall of that factory at Victor, N. Y., as reported in our last issue, was such as to split open a pair of brand-new shoes he wore.....Miss Fanny and Edgar Davenport are to sail for Europe on June 10.....The students of the Upsala University, Stockholm, have been successfully singing "The Children of Orpheus," by King Oscar of Sweden.....Wagner's "Walkure" has fizzled at Rotterdam, but his "Lohengrin" has proved a triumph at the Royal Theatre, Berlin.....Offenbach's "Les Fourchambault," reviewed by us three weeks ago as a production at the Comedie Francaise, Paris, has been purchased for London by Charles Wyndham.....Willie Edouin and Sheridan Shook has proved a wondrously lucky miscue. Revived at the Princess' for two weeks only, and merely as a stop-gap at that, it has reached its 250th night, and will name a new chapter with that of Malibran on the Book of Gold of the Philharmonic Academy of Bologna.....Mlle. Mathilde Wilde, here a short time ago, was at last advices about to make her London debut at Her Majesty's, London, as Valentine in "The Huguenots," in which city Mlle. Albani has reappeared in "Lucia" and M. Maurel in "Ernani."..... Signor Le Call, for eight years past piano-player at Her Majesty's, London, has resigned, his successor is M. Willing, organist to the Sacred Harmonic Society.

CITY SUMMARY.

DEATH AND BURIAL OF HARRY CUNNINGHAM.—This gentleman, an actor for nearly twenty years, but more widely known as a dramatic agent and as president of the Liquor-dealers' Association of this city, died here on May 18 after a brief illness. About five weeks ago he imprudently stepped outside of his place of business, in his shirt-sleeves, to converse with ex-Alderman Henry Clausen, head of the Brewers' Association. The day was damp, and Mr. Cunningham complained of a chill, which laid him up for a week at his home and other place of business, City Island, East River. Returning to the city, he was at work for over four weeks or two. On Sunday night, 12th instant, he was attacked by neuralgia of the jaw, which speedily spread to the throat as in the late General Thomas S. Dakin's case on the same date, and eventually took the form of paralysis of the heart. Death was instantaneous, wholly unexpected, as also a shock to his numerous friends. Mr. Cunningham's immediate relatives, as he died, he was sitting up with a bowl of nourishment in one hand, while the other was in the grasp of his physician, a lifelong friend, who sat chatting with him, and who had apprehended no serious results, inasmuch as Harry's sickness in its worst aspect was but what in olden times was called "quinsy sore throat;" aggravated in his particular case by catarrh of long standing. The invalid was nervous and fretful, and the fatal heart-stroke was no doubt due to excitement. Harry Cunningham was born about 1828, at 131 Fulton street, this city, of Irish parents. There were three boys, of whom the youngest is, with a sister, the only issue. Mr. Harry, by reason of his great, genial, manly nature who came between him and William, the survivor, died in his youth. Harry's career in the dramatic profession began at Barnum's American Museum, corner of Ann street and Broadway, as property-assistant for the season of 1851-2. Strictly, this was not his introduction to the boards, inasmuch as he was one of the children who took part in the Winter of 1838-9 "Nicholas Nickleby" was first brought out at the Park Theatre, the Fanny Squeers being Charlotte Cushman, who with her mother then lived in Frankfort street, near Pearl. As a man, Cunningham's first bow before an audience was to "lead the shouts" at Barnum's in the drama of "The Orphan's Dream," Jan. 30, 1852; his first speaking-part was as one of the Robbers in "The Forty Thieves;" and his first character of any consequence was the fop in "Eustache Baudin"—or rather, as we recollect the circumstance, there was no fop in that drama, but he took a minor role and made a fop out of it, as a stronger foil to Eustache Baudin in one of the first-recognized parts in the impersonator of Baudin was the late Corson W. Clarke, no less a personage than the stage-manager, the fop business was a lucky stroke for Harry, who, being urged by the late A. A. Andrews, eccentric actor of the company, to quit the property-room, found in Clarke a strong ally on the stage over the wardrobe, and remained at the Museum with Clarke until 1858, left it with Clarke, and returned to it with Clarke. In his absence he had played at the Metropolitan Theatre (later Winter Garden) under F. B. Conway's management, at the New Bowery Theatre, and also at what is now Tony Pastor's, 585 Broadway—then the Metropolitan Music Hall transformed for the first time into a legitimate theatre. After leaving Barnum's for good, he was at the Old Bowery Theatre for several seasons; of the company with which Lucy Rushton on Dec. 22, 1865, translated a church into what is now the National (late Globe) Theatre; at Barnum's upper Museum; of those who at the Academy of Music supported Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kean in their farewell performance in America, in 1866, in "Louis XI," in which he played Philip de Commines; of those supporting E. L. Davenport and Jeffreys Herring in the burlesque of "Camille" at the Winter Garden; and in 1869-70 of the stock at the Olympic Theatre. This was his last season on the stage. He had for several years kept a sample-room on Broadway, near Houston street. Above it he also had a dramatic agency, in conducting which for at various times had for partners Charles H. Day, Harry Wall, Dow of Cincinnati, Dan Symonds, Huntley and others. He also founded the Multum in Parvo Club, which in 1870 leased High Island, near New Rochelle, the last of this class of social organizations with which he became connected being the Trips which organized about 18 months ago. On Nov. 13, 1871, he opened the Globe Theatre. This was his first and last experience in management. In nine days he lost one thousand dollars, and then he shut it up, owing nobody a dollar. Next he went over into the Bowery, and on a modest scale opened a restaurant that in its new quarters has for four years panded the largest and most thriving on that side of town. Of late years he had played only for benefits, the first after his retirement being on May 20, 1872, as Jack Ryerson in "Bertha, the Sewing-machine Girl," at the Bowery Theatre, in behalf of Charles Foster; on Aug. 2, 1873, he again appeared there for one night only, as Solon Shingle, "Acres on the Strike;" and he finally played there March 5, 1874, for the benefit of the poor of the Sixth Ward. We think he had appeared but once since, and then at the Stadt Theatre, also for a benefit. At professional funerals either his presence or his purse was always felt, and many an actor owes his "place of eternal rest" to Harry Cunningham. Even on he never sought a place, notwithstanding he was in a position to command a prominent one. Not the least singular feature of his career is that, though strictly abstemious himself, he was yet at the head of the Liquor-dealers' Association, with which he first became connected on June 5, 1871, and M. P. Lyons opened the dining-saloon still known as that of Cunningham & Lyons, in 1875 he established Cunningham Villa on City Island, which latterly has been developing into a valuable piece of property. Only a year or two ago it became vested in trust of what is called the Widows and Orphans' Fund for actors and other professionals. Like his brother William, he never married. His funeral, on Sunday, May 19, was largely attended, and flowers in various designs, an eloquent tribute. Prominent among these were a pillow, "Rest," from David Linds; a pillow, "Everybody's Friend," from Josh Hart, an old chum of Harry's; a pillow, "My Dear Brother," from William Cunningham; a crescent and harp and dove from M. F. Lyons; an ivy cross from J. F. Stoltz the undertaker; a cross from Henry Clausen; etc., etc. The remains were deposited in a rosewood coffin, silver cloth-covered, and mounted in silver, the plate bearing the inscription: "Henry Cunningham, Died May 16, 1878, aged 48 yrs." Followed by some two hundred mourners on foot, the hearse bringing up the rear, the body was taken to Cypress Hills Cemetery, Long Island, and there deposited in the new Catholic Cemetery, which the deceased had helped to found, being himself the fifth or sixth to find rest there. The Rev. Father McEvoy officiated at the ceremonies at the cemetery. The pall-bearers were David Lindo, A. G. Vail, Samuel Yates (brother of Ben), and the actors W. H. Partello, J. J. McCloskey and Frank Noyes. Among the notabilities in attendance were John Gilbert, Robert Johnston, Louis Mestayer, John Matthews, Harry Clifford, Harry Seymour, John G. Boyd, Frank Hart, Ed. Harding, Charles Dobson, Henry Chapman, Ed. Banker, Gus Mills, Hon. James Hayes, Major George W. Sauer, Edward Price, City marshal De Graff, Assemblyman Grady, William Hayes, Charles R. Townsend, Frank Pfeiffer, Frederick Conway, D. Young, Mark Lanigan, ex-Alderman Monaghan, etc., etc., together with a large number of ladies, many of them professionals.

STROLLING into the Bowery Theatre one night last week, we saw at the door a portly form that seemed to be Isaac Freleigh's. Remembering that poor Freleigh had handled his last paste-board, having been dashed to pieces against the roof of the Atlantic Garden, next door, we looked up again, and this time the giant at the portal, hugging the ticket-box to his breast as if loth to let go, was the gentleman who once purveyed eminent fodder at fabulous prices in Park Row—John or....Signor Frapolli leaves for Europe this week, having closed his season with Strakosch in Richmond, Va., May 18.....Herman Linde, Shakespearian reciter, is to be under the management of Strakosch next season, and it is further more announced that the impressario will put the German forward at our Academy of Music as a star actor.....Peter Reid, the very 1st hack-driver, who was well known to theatrical people, died in this city May 15.....The Hidden Gem," a comedy by Cardinal W

AT THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC, Reading, Pa., "A Celebrated Case" was produced under the management of J. W. Collier May 15, to the largest house of the season, says our correspondent, adding: "The setting was attractive, and the dresses were accurate, while the frequent outbursts of applause testified the appreciation of the acting. E. K. Collier, C. McManus, M. W. Ledingwell, E. Lamb, and the Misses Emily Baker and Meroe Charles are deserving of especial mention. They played to Lancaster 16, Trenton, N. J., 17, Newark 18, 20, and are to be in Paterson 21, Poughkeepsie 22, Hartford, Ct., 23, and Holyoke 24.....Manager Mishler informs us that he is about closing negotiations for a concert company and a dramatic company for next season.....Kate Claxton and company appear in the Grand Opera-house 21, in "Two Orphans."

ELIZA WEATHERSBY'S FROLIQUES have been very successful since their organization, and are now doing a good business in Canada. They open at the Globe Theatre, Boston, May 27, and close their season June 8. Managers desiring to engage them for next season can address N. C. Goodwin Jr., proprietor, as per advertisement.

JENNIE WEATHERSBY, who is traveling with the Froliques Combination, states through a card that she is engaged for next season.

WM. MAGEE, late of the Knight & Forbes "Mollie Maguire" and "Uncle Tom" Combination, advertises for an engagement as walking gent.

LAWRENCE BARRETT has gone to San Francisco, Cal., to fulfill an engagement in the California Theatre under the new management.

"JOURNALIST," who can be addressed care of this office, has an original emotional drama for sale.

HARRY HARRISON, whose address find elsewhere, wants an engagement with a traveling company to learn the profession.

FRANK MCVICKER died of hemorrhage of the lungs in Boston, Mass., May 19, after a comparatively brief professional career, which had been confined almost entirely to his father's (J. H. McVicker) theatre in Chicago, Ill. During Edwin Booth's recent engagement in the theatre bearing his name in New York City, the deceased acted as his business-manager, and played some few characters.

SLAVIN'S "UNCLE TOM" TROUPE closed their traveling season in Sharon, Pa., May 11, and returned to New York City.

FROM SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., our advices up to May 10 are as follow:

At Baldwin's Theatre, McKee Rankin and Miss Kitty Blanchard opened in "The Danites" May 6. Long before the curtain rose the house was filled by a brilliant audience, who throughout the evening testified their appreciation of the play by the heartiest applause. Sandy was in every respect a natural and truthful personation of the true old frontiersman, whose being was as great as his courage. Kitty Blanchard as Nancy Williams and Billy Piper was excellent. Her efforts won the favor of the audience, and she was quite strong. Mrs. Thorpe as Bishop, who made his first appearance under this management as William Wise the Judge. He surprised and delighted his friends. The Widder of Annie Pixley was a charming piece of acting. She is quite an accession to the company. Maggie Chambers as Captain Tommy, and Katharine Corcoran as Bunker Hill, acted their parts well. Mr. Bauermeister and Harry Brown rendered the roles of the Parson and Grasshopper Jake in good style. The entirely new scenery painted by George W. Dayton, including the grand mountain view in the fifth act, with the gold-mine, was beautiful of well-managed. Every act was applause it evoked, and twice every night this week has Mr. Dayton been called before the curtain. Mr. Brown deserves commendation for careful attention to details and the artistic manner in which he sets the stage. The flattering attendance first accorded has been sustained, and very full houses nightly greet the newcomers. The piece is announced to run May 20, to allow "The Octoroon" to be produced. The orchestra has been strengthened. The violin solos by Mr. Widmer, the leader, and the cornet solos by John Saveniers are highly received.

Despite the fact of his private secretary's sorrow, Barton Hill was compelled to succumb to fate, and the California Theatre closed its doors on the completion of Miss Dargon's engagement, May 4. It is to be reopened 20, under the management of its new lessee, General Barton, assisted by Frank Lawlor as business manager; Barton Hill, stage-manager; and Thomas Maguire Jr., treasurer. Miss Katharine Rogers has declined to forego her engagement, and Lawrence Barrett will be the first star, opening 20 for two weeks. He will be assisted, perhaps, by Miss Dargon, who will shortly be secured by Miss Eleanor Carey. Mr. Barrett will be followed by Jefferson, who will play an engagement of four weeks. George Rignold then comes, and he will be followed by a New York company, who will produce "Diplomacy," and Crane and Robson with a new play. Tom Keene, W. A. Mestayer and Barton Hill will form the nucleus of the stock company, and new engagements will be made as the season progresses. Artists are busily engaged in cleaning and renovating the theatre, laying a new stage, and making other needed improvements.....The Grand Opera-house has also closed its doors since May 5, and it is very unique if any manager can be found with sufficient temerity and bank account to hazard a reopening.....Haverly's Minstrels, at the Bush-street Theatre, are now playing to one week's business, an unusual fun, which attracted big money. The principal features are Richmond's "Custodians of the Peace" and "Epitaphs;" Charley Diamond in his harp song and dance; Welch and Rice in "scenes on the Levee," and gems by the quartet. As end men, Rice and Thatcher give general satisfaction, and it is likely they will be retained there. Haverly's will be the engagement of the coming week. Matinees are given twice each week.....The Swedish Lady Vocal Quartet at Emerson's Opera-house, under the management of Mrs. Emerson, have failed to draw. Their vocalization in Swedish, German and English is a musical treat that should be appreciated by the presence of larger audiences.....At the Bella Union Theatre Sig. Solari with Johnson and Bruno in songs and dances, Kitty Henderson in specialties, songs and dances by Marie Zoel, lightning change songs by Zitella, the Vadis Twin Sisters, and the sensational drama of "The Snow bird." Wm. Barry Rice, late of Haverly's, is engaged to open 13.....At the Adelphi, Marie D'Est's Minstrels in their living pictures, Minnie Emerald's charming specialties, and the usual round of roaring loadstones.....The May festival—28, 29, 30—at the Mechanics' Pavilion promises to be a big thing. In addition to the soloists engaged—Anna Bradley, Miss Hastings, Miss Abbie Allyn, Wm. Winters, and W. H. Fessenden—we are to have a grand chorus of two thousand voices, fire-bells, artillery, electricity, and perhaps an earth quake. Mme. Rudersdorff's "Kentucky Belle" company, opened in Los Angeles 8, for four nights.....Tony Franks, late leader of Forepaugh's Circus band, died of heart disease in Virginia City May 5.....Jack Hall, a native of Virginia City, for four years past stage doorkeeper at the California, was found dead in bed May 6.....Willie Seymour, formerly stage-manager, has secured an engagement in the stock company at Baldwin's Theatre.....George Reynolds will shortly reappear at the Adelphi in a new act.....Evening prices are the rule at the matinees in Pleasant Hunter's Opera-house, the party who played the longest engagement on record in this city, appeared in San Jose 7, 8.....Miss Catherine Lewis suit against E. E. Rice for $5,000 for breach of contract has been settled, and she will shortly go East, to sing in opera bouffe.....Miss Eleanor Carey is to return to Australia.....Blanche Corelli has been confined to her room by a severe cold, but has been cool, and her place filled by Helen Grayson, formerly of the Adelphi. LATKE.

Billings & Barrows, who have done well with the "Uncle Tom" traveling venture, intend leasing the theatre in Portland, Oregon, for six months.....An unknown practical joker loaded with powder the pipe used by J. O. Leach in his character of the Chinaman in "The Danites," and in lighting it had his face badly burned and his eye brows singed..... The recently discharged ushers of the California Theatre yesterday presented a petition to General Barton, asking for their reinstatement, and the signers in their behalf were the names of thirty-five gentlemen whose united wealth, it is said, would exceed one hundred millions of dollars.....Miss Eleanor Carey will produce "A Celebrated Case" in Australia.....A chariot race between two unknown ladies will be the attraction at Golden Gate Park, Sunday, May 12.

MUSICAL.

THE KELLOGG-ROZE OPERATIC COMBINATION closed a successful engagement of three nights in the Richmond (Va.) Theatre May 17, the attendance the first two nights being the largest of the season.

THE EDISON PHONOGRAPH is to be exhibited in Troy, N. Y., this week.

A LIST, containing a number of Wellman's popular songs, among which are "Here and There and Everywhere" and "She's Pretty as She Can Be," both taking songs-and-dances, and Allerup's serio-comic song "My Handsome Beau," is published by W. J. Dyer & Bro., St. Paul, Minn. Orchestral parts can be had for all the songs issued by this house.

CINCINNATI MUSICAL FESTIVAL.—The Musical Festival which inaugurated the new Springer Musical Hall in Cincinnati began 14 and continued 15, 16 and 17, with matinees 15, 16 and 17. The attendance was immense, averaging 6,000 people each evening. On Wednesday the treasurer had in his hands $56,000, and the subsequent receipts would probably increase this sum $10,000. The expenses are estimated at $40,000. The hall itself was much admired. The dimensions have already been given, and the material used is white wood instead of plaster, and the innovation is considered a good one. The festival was artistically a success. An organ recital, at which Miss Cary and others assisted, was given at a matinee 18, by way of a finale.

JUAN SALCEDO, cornetist, in connection with the Hartz Mountain Band, is giving concerts at the Bellevue House, Cincinnati.

THE CAMILLA URSO CONCERT, which was to have taken place at Tweddle Hall, Albany, N. Y., May 16, was postponed until 18.....An opera company, with Max Maretzek as conductor, and including Signors Ferranti, Arigi, Brignoli, Bellini, Gross, and Misses Human, Coerlin, Grimminger, and Meta, is announced to sing in "Faust"—at the Leland—20, and in "Il Trovatore" 21.

THE MARYLAND MUSICAL FESTIVAL will give three concerts at the New Academy of Music, Baltimore, May 27, 28, 29, under the directorship of Prof. Augustus Hoffman. The programme embraces an orchestra of sixty-four performers, a chorus of three hundred voices, and Mme. Auerbach and Mr. Remmertz of New York as soloists.....The operetta of "Genevieve" will be given there 17 by pupils of Mrs. Manross.

THE POPULAR BALLADS of H. Millard, among which are "Baby Mine," words by Mackay, written in the key of G, with a compass from lower E to G above the line; and "Remember or Forget," key of G, with a register from D below the staff to G above, both attractive in melody; and the marching song "Finnegan's Brigade," by Fuller; also his "Two Orphans," a sentimental ballad; and Harry Montague's lively ditties, among which is "Perhaps," can be obtained at Spear & Dehnhoff's.

"NEVER MIND ME," Harry Montague's latest song, and other popular issues are advertised by Spear & Dehnhoff.

BENJ. F. LEONARD, solo cornet-player, advertises for an engagement with a circus.

LEW JOHNSON'S Tennessee Jubilee Singers are billed at Zanesville, O., May 22, 23, McConnellsville 24, 25, and Marietta 26.

HERMAN BRAUN, violoncello, had a testimonial concert at St. George's Hall, Philadelphia, May 15.....Aaron R. Taylor and his pupils gave a concert at Musical Fund Hall 16.....The cantata of "The Haymakers" was given at St. George's Hall 16, under the direction of Henry W. Knauff.....Carl Sentz, leader of the First Regiment Band, Maennerchor Garden orchestra, and Young and Old Maennerchor singing societies, was tendered a reception at Maennerchor Hall 16, upon the occasion of his fiftieth birthday.....Prof. M. H. Cross has been re-elected leader of the Cecilian.....The open-air concerts at Maennerchor Garden will be commenced June 11 with Carl Sentz' orchestra. George A. Conly, basso, sails June 15 to fill engagements in London and Paris, and will return Aug. 31. Jacob Beck was leading the orchestra at the Arch-street Theatre after Jesse Williams sailed for Europe.

CARLETON'S ENGLISH-OPERA COMPANY is to sing in Portland, Me., May 20, 21.

THE MEMPHIS OPERA COMPANY play "Fra Diavolo" in Little Rock, Ark., May 20, 21.

DON FERREYRA, "the man flute," whose imitations of this instrument have excited considerable attention, is now under J. Jay Watson's management. He can be engaged by addressing as per card.

AT THE WEST-END OPERA-HOUSE, Chicago, Ill., a musical and literary entertainment was given May 17, Jessie Couthoui, Mrs. Louis Falk, Miss E. O. Randall, A. E. Bulsseret, and Prof. Louis Falk participating.....The First Regiment gave a promenade concert in the Exposition Building 18.....Signor Farini is to give a concert in the West-end Opera-house 29.

THE MENDELSSOHN QUINTET CLUB of Boston, Mass., gave an afternoon and evening entertainment in Library Hall, Pittsburg, Pa., May 18, and the Symphonic Society of that city is to give a concert on May 21.

BELLRINGERS and children with musical specialties are wanted by J. C. Breban, who advertises, for a Summer season.

MUSICAL NOTES from Boston, Mass., are sent by our correspondent as below:

Madame Madeline Schiller, pianist, assisted by Miss Lillian Bailey, soprano, gave her last pianoforte recital in Horticultural Hall, afternoon of 14.....Miss Emma Abbott's testimonial concert at Music Hall 14 drew a large audience. The beneficiary, W. H. Stanley, tenor; Signor Ferranti, buffo; W. H. Sherwood, pianist; M. Arbuckle, cornet-soloist; and Herr Robyn, accompanist, appeared in a pleasing programme.....A concert for the entertainment of members of the B. Y. M. C. A. was given in their hall 16..... The Cecelia gave their third invitation concert in Tremont Temple 17, when Handel's "Acis and Galatea" was given, the soloists being Miss Lillian Bailey, Miss Ita Welch, John F. Winch, and Dr. S. W. Langmaid; B. J. Lang director; and Arthur W. Foote pianist..... The concert complimentary to Miss Mathilde Lemoine occured at Union Hall 18. The lady was assisted by Miss Fanny Kellogg, soprano; W. H. Fessenden, tenor; John Orth violinist, and M. Dow, pianists..... The Cecelia gives its last concert this season 23 at Tremont Temple.....A concert for the benefit of the Oddfellows' Library will occur at Oddfellows' Hall 23, the Ladies' Alpine Quartet, and the Jerome Concert Company appearing.....The Tremont Temple church fund will be benefitted by a concert to be given 24 by the original Swedish Lady Vocal Quartet; Mrs. E. Humphrey Allen, soprano; Mrs. J. E. Simonds, pianist; E. C. Towne, violinist; Wulf Fries, violoncellist; and S. L. Studley, accompanist.....At the farewell appearance in Boston of Madame Rappoldsheim, 27, at Music Hall, Miss Fanny Kellogg, soprano; Signor G. Tagliapietra, baritone; Samuel L. Studley, pianist; and the Swedish Lady Vocal Quartet, the Amherst Glee Club, H. H. Sherwood and S. L. Studley, pianists, and a grand orchestra are to appear.....The Boston Cadet Band, under the leadership of J. B. Claus, give a promenade concert in Music Hall 31.....Miss Susie Goodrich, pianist, will have a benefit at Union Hall 30, assisted by Miss Lillian Bailey, Ita Welch and Charles R. Hayden.....Brown's Brigade Band propose a season of promenade concerts at Beethoven Hall, commencing 27.....A grand concert for the benefit of the ushers of Boston Theatre will be given in Music Hall June 7. The artists engaged are Miss Fanny Kellogg, soprano; Miss Ita Welch, contralto; Sig. G. Tagliapietra, baritone; Samuel L. Studley, pianist; and the Boston Cadet Band. This is a new departure, as heretofore benefits of a like character have been of a dramatic or variety order.....William T. Carleton's English-opera Troupe commenced a series of four performances at the Globe Theatre 16, presenting "Fra Diavolo," which was repeated matinee 18. The opera was somewhat cut, but excellently given, Mr. Carleton appearing as Fra Diavolo, Miss Marie Stone as Zerlina, Miss Adelaide Randall as Lady Allcash, E. S. Pearson as Lord Allcash, Charles H. Clark as Lorenzo, Percy Cooper and W. H. McDonald as Beppo and Giacomo, and Mr. Hennessy as Matteo. The orchestra, under the direction of J. C. Mullally, was efficient, and the chorus was composed of a number of fresh voices. 17, "Martha;" 18, "Il Trovatore," for the debut in Boston of Mlle. Isadore Martinez, who appeared as Leonora. A fair business has been done.

VARIETY HALLS.
In Memoriam.

DEDICATED TO THE CHILDREN OF THE LATE MISS F. F. JONES.

BY ELLA SHELDON.

Mother, dear, where art thou? Dost thou hear me calling
In the early morn or when eve is falling,
Through each darksome night and each cheerless morrow,
Since we closed thine eyelids on that night of sorrow?
Mother, dear, where art thou? Dost thou see us weeping
In the dreary midnight, when light hearts are sleeping?
Doth thy spirit hover near us when we stilly slumber,
Or watch through darkness sleepless hours we number?
Mother, dear, where art thou? Weary hours of sadness
In our lonely chamber, once a home of gladness.
Weighing down our spirits, pass unheeded o'er us,
While the chair, deserted, ever stands before us.
Mother, dear, where art thou? We have none to cherish
With the love that cannot in death's darkness perish.
At our step approaching no proud brow will lighten,
And our smile of gladness no kind eye will brighten.
Mother, dear, where art thou? Hast thou left no token
That the tie which bound us still remains unbroken
But the vacant pillow, where we watched thee dying,
And the silent vault, where thy dust is lying?
Mother, dear, in heaven, there joy ever is swelling,
Angels' hymns adoring, blessed is thy dwelling.
Safe from fear of evil, free from toil and sadness,
Waiting for thy loved ones till we meet in gladness.

Philadelphia, Pa., May, 1878.

PERFORMERS desiring engagements are requested to address H. Sterling, manager, Washington Hall, Wheeling, W. Va.

THE LATEST SONGS-AND-DANCES can be obtained at Harding's advertised address.

JAMES H. ROCHE, comedian and specialty artist, is engaged for next season at the New Academy of Music, Philadelphia, while the theatre is being engaged in cleaning and renovating the theatre, laying a new stage, and making other needed improvements..... The Grand Opera-house has also closed its doors since May 5, and it is very unique if any manager can be found with sufficient temerity and bank account to hazard a reopening.....Haverly's Minstrels, at the Bush-street Theatre, are now playing to one week's business, an unusual fun, which attracted big money. The principal features are Richmond's "Custodians of the Peace" and "Epitaphs;" Charley Diamond in his harp song and dance; Welch and Rice in "scenes on the Levee," and gems by the quartet. As end men, Rice and Thatcher give general satisfaction, and it is likely they will be retained there. Haverly's will be the engagement of the coming week. Matinees are given twice each week.....The Swedish Lady Vocal Quartet at Emerson's Opera-house, under the management of Mrs. Emerson, have failed to draw. Their vocalization in Swedish, German and English is a musical treat that should be appreciated by the presence of larger audiences.....At the Bella Union Theatre Sig. Solari with Johnson and Bruno in songs and dances, Kitty Henderson in specialties, songs and dances by Marie Zoel, lightning change songs by Zitella, the Vadis Twin Sisters, and the sensational drama of "The Snow bird." Wm. Barry Rice, late of Haverly's, is engaged to open 13.....At the Adelphi, Marie D'Est's Minstrels in their living pictures, Minnie Emerald's charming specialties, and the usual round of roaring loadstones.....The May festival—28, 29, 30—at the Mechanics' Pavilion promises to be a big thing. In addition to the soloists engaged—Anna Bradley, Miss Hastings, Miss Abbie Allyn, Wm. Winters, and W. H. Fessenden—we are to have a grand chorus of two thousand voices, fire-bells, artillery, electricity, and perhaps an earth quake. Mme. Rudersdorff's "Kentucky Belle" company, opened in Los Angeles 8, for four nights.....Tony Franks, late leader of Forepaugh's Circus band, died of heart disease in Virginia City May 5.....Jack Hall, a native of Virginia City, for four years past stage doorkeeper at the California, was found dead in bed May 6.....Willie Seymour, formerly stage-manager, has secured an engagement in the stock company at Baldwin's Theatre.....George Reynolds will shortly reappear at the Adelphi in a new act.....Evening prices are the rule at the matinees in Pleasant Hunter's Opera-house, the party who played the longest engagement on record in this city, appeared in San Jose 7, 8.....Miss Catherine Lewis suit against E. E. Rice for $5,000 for breach of contract has been settled, and she will shortly go East, to sing in opera bouffe.....Miss Eleanor Carey is to return to Australia.....Blanche Corelli has been confined to her room by a severe cold, but has been cool, and her place filled by Helen Grayson, formerly of the Adelphi. LATKE.

BILLINGS & BARROWS, who have done well with the "Uncle Tom" traveling venture, intend leasing the theatre in Portland, Oregon, for six months.....An unknown practical joker loaded with powder the pipe used by J. O. Leach in his character of the Chinaman in "The Danites," and in lighting it had his face badly burned and his eye brows singed..... The recently discharged ushers of the California Theatre yesterday presented a petition to General Barton, asking for their reinstatement, and the signers in their behalf were the names of thirty-five gentlemen whose united wealth, it is said, would exceed one hundred millions of dollars.....Miss Eleanor Carey will produce "A Celebrated Case" in Australia.....A chariot race between two unknown ladies will be the attraction at Golden Gate Park, Sunday, May 12.

AT THE METROPOLITAN THEATRE, Indianapolis, Ind., May 13, the main feature was the presentation of "The Colleen Bawn" by the stock company, with new scenery by D. B. Hughes. The piece failed to draw remunerative houses, except at Prof. Hughes' benefit, 17, when the attendance was fair. Departures 18: W. H. Schneider, to St. Louis; Kitty Allyne, Huber and Glidden, Edith Lyle, to Chicago. Arrivals 20: Paddy Murphy, Minnie Gale, Minnie Kaye, and J. B. Radcliffe..... Crone's City Garden was reopened for the Summer season 13, the attendance being very large, and business continued fair during the week. The improvements in the place are quite marked, including an entirely new stage, with twelve sets of scenery by W. P. Wilson, and an increased auditorium, to which has been added a parquet. The prices of admission have been advanced to 15 and 25 cents. The bill opened with a parlor minstrel scene, disclosing B. L. Hodges and J. E. Parkes as interlocutors, George Nelson and Frank B. West on the ends, and six ladies, modestly attired in white. J. E. Parkes and Sallie Woodruff inaugurated the olio with a musical sketch, "Pat Casey's Troubles;" Louisa Bliss gave serio-comic songs; Frank West and his banjo; Marie Nelson, song-and-dance; Charles Orville in a balancing act on the trapeze, and later a gymnastic act; Nellie Heywood in a jig; the Nelsons in an Ethiopian sketch; Frank West and N. B. Shimer in a duet; and "In and Out of Place," in which Sallie Woodruff assumed six different characters, were the other attractions. No departures. Coming 20: Chas. O. and Gertie Seaman.....Mitchell's Specialty Troupe at the Grand Opera-house 21, 22.

INCREASED ATTRACTIONS resulted in satisfactory business at the Metropolitan Theatre, Newark, N. J., the past week. "Leah the Forsaken" was commendably acted by the stock company, Miss Bertie Maywood's Leah being a praiseworthy effort. The Springers in "The Cat Duet," the McDermot Sisters in double Lancashire clog, H. F. Juleene, vocalist and comedian, and Little Todd in feats of balancing were the other specialty features. Departures 18; Little Todd, H. F. Juleene and the Springers, to New York, and the McDermot Sisters, to Philadelphia, Pa. To open 20: Moore Sisters, Tim Rogers, Raymond and Murphy and Jessie Warner.....Pat Rooney's Combination at the Opera-house for 26.

THE NEW NATIONAL THEATRE, Hartford, Ct., is to be reopened May 20 by Leonzo & Ryan with a variety company comprising Nellie Vincent, Annie Rochford, Carrie Davenport, Leonzo and Ryan, Foster and Hughes, Harry Fox, Harry Healy, Joe Dorcy, and Chas. Shene.

MLLE. PACHON'S BRUNETTE AND FOLLY COMPANY opened in Portland, Me., to a big house May 14, and had fair houses 15, 16.

J. H. CUMMINGS of Cummings and Harrington, late of Delehanty and Cummings, and Miss Jennie A. Morrison, non-professional, of Columbus, O., were united in marriage May 10 in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Jersey City, N. J.

THE LARGEST BUSINESS of the season was done last week at the Atlantic Garden, Fort Wayne, Ind. No arrivals. Departures: Prof. Rhinehart and dogs, to Chicago. Manager Earl has leased the Cenulivre Park, where his company appears each Sunday afternoon.

HARRIGAN & HART give the date of their opening at the Bush-street Theatre, San Francisco, Cal., as June 3. Their engagement in Chicago is reported to have been as phenomenally successful as was their reception in Pittsburg.

MAUD HANAFORD'S PARTY INCLINED IN BLUE played in Titusville, Pa., May 17, Corry 18, and are billed in Buffalo, N.Y., 20, for one week, Bradford, Pa., 27, 28.

CINCINNATUS AND JOHN HOGAN, song-and-dance and specialty artists, who are performing at the Olympic Theatre, this city, commence a two weeks' engagement at Haverly's Third-avenue Theatre May 27. They can be engaged from June 10. Address care of this office.

CHARLES O. WHITE, late manager of Foster's Coliseum, Detroit, Mich., publishes his address in another department.

MADAME LEMOYNE'S FEMALE MINSTRELS, who are performing this week at the Grand Central Theatre, Philadelphia, open at Tony Pastor's Theatre, this city, May 27, for two weeks; Howard Athenæum, Boston, June 10; Wood's Theatre, Brooklyn, 17; and the present season closes 22. Manager Leavitt states that the company will add for July and August the Serpentine Sisters, Lizzie Lovely, and artists with attractive specialties desiring to engage for the tour can address him care of this office.

AT THE METROPOLITAN THEATRE, Louisville, Ky., the good entertainment provided by the new management last week attracted large audiences. Nonnell's Trained Dogs and Ponies, in their living sketch of "The Strangers," Reese and Whiting in a good gymnastic act, and Charles Foster in "Saved at Seven" were the arrivals May 13. Foster's Major was a fine piece of character acting, and he was well supported by Messrs. Kennedy, Hart and Coghlin, and Misses Lucia Rae, Ada Foy and Virginia Dare. Departures 18: Mons. Charest and Mlle. Tulalu, destination uncertain; and Charles Foster, New York. La Rue's Minstrels (ten in number), Andy Amann, Mattie Ellis, Fanny Wilson and Amelia Dean in "The Workingirls of Louisville" open 20.....The shooting affair here is reported briefly elsewhere in this issue, explained by Manager Whallen of the variety troupe who performed in Rockport, Ind., May 9, when the accident took place. He says:

I arrived in Rockport in the morning with my combination, and at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, after the parade, had congregated around the tent during the performance, and when the act came on in which Harry Wallace was to shoot the apple from his wife's (Mlle. Idaletta's) head, two men were standing on the outside of the tent, one of which the shot was to be fired. This the men attempted to do; but, owing to the large crowd present, were unable to perform their task. Two or three shots were fired, each coming through the canvas. When the last shot was fired, someone called out that a boy was killed. I went out and found a boy, whose name I afterward discovered to be Johnny Wingery, lying on the ground, a bullet-hole over his left eye. He died almost immediately. Wallace was not arrested, all of the better portion of the citizens knowing it was an accident. The matter was settled in the family of the boy, his friends receiving the full receipts taken in. Had not the better class of citizens stood by the show, I think we would have had trouble, and even as it is their assistance I think we would have been in danger had we not left the town immediately.

Our Louisville, Ky., correspondent says: "The Whallen Combination have returned to Louisville, in full fulfillment of their engagement in Southern Indiana, and the accidental killing of the boy by Mr. Wallace the sharpshooter also injured their business. Manager Whallen expects to start out again about June 1."

FROM CINCINNATI our correspondent sends the following variety news, dating May 17: "George W. Thompson, in his sensational drama of 'Yacup,' and the Foy Sisters, whose songs, dances and sketches made a pronounced hit, were the fresh appearances at Heuck's Opera-house 13. The drama received the usual support, and was a success, the acting of Messrs. E. R. Dalton, James S. Edwards, N. B. Compton, James Douglass, George Hanna, James Fox, Alice Placide, Kate Edwards, Lillian Travis and Kate Bilisland being even and finished. Business this week, owing to the great influx of strangers consequent on the opening of the fair, has been immense, the sale of tickets several nights having had to be stopped. Departures: Nies and Evans, Buffalo, and Goss and Fox. Mr. Thompson remains another week, producing 'The Lowensteins.' Levino and the Foy Sisters also stay. Opening 20: Herr Gerhard, Cordy and Victoria, and Gardner and Vincent. Jennie Oates, who does a neat song-and-dance and jig; Oley Audley, an accomplished singer and dancer; and Harry Lee and Lizzie Barrett, who came from the Eldorado Theatre, were the reinforcements at the Brighton Opera-house 13. Biz good. Departures: Lee and Barrett, to Louisville; Dick Mack, Lizzie Barrett, Jennie Oates and Oley Audley, to the Eldorado, city; and Charles W. Young. Opening 20: Redlaw and Alton, Billy and Hattie Leagrave, Billy Diamond, and the Four Hamilton Sisters..... The Coliseum closed its season last Saturday night, the 11th inst., for the company. A German company has been there this week, and will continue if profitable.....Shickling's Academy of Music, under the management of John Morrissey, is to be regularly reopened 20. In the meantime a picked-up company has given performances this week to a big business, Lew Benedict, Jennie Hughes, John Manning and Jennie Southern, to New York; Harry Osborne and Fannie Wentworth and Fannie Reynolds, to Cleveland; Lew and Lena Cole, Detroit; Freeman Sisters, Detroit; Henderson, Ed. and Maggie Barnes, Toronto. Announced for 20: Mme. Bertrand's Blondes, Prof. Corelli, Misses. Eura and Alveo, McDowell Sisters, Lucy Adams and Guy Linton, Reno Steadman, Scamon and Somers, and Murphy and Mack. The season closes May 30.

AN EXCELLENT entertainment was given at the Theatre Comique, Providence, R. I., the past week. The new people were Chas. H. Yale, an old Providence favorite; James D. Boome, who is always sure of a warm reception; Carleton Sisters, who introduced a novel change act, which was well received; Carrie Beasley, a clever song-and-dance artist; and the Novello Quartet, who scored a success. They were repeatedly encored at every performance. Manager Hopkins has engaged them for forty weeks, beginning Aug. 1. Grace Durell, Irene Stanley, Nellie Turner, Frank Harrison, C. J. Simmons, and a ballet of six also reappeared. Jerry Cohan acted "The Molly Maguires." The same company, with the exception of Jerry Cohan, remain another week, and Addie Graham and Alice Gleason will be added.

CAPTAIN JOHN W. TOWNSEND, doorkeeper of the Grand Central Theatre, Philadelphia, publishes a card of thanks to the managers and artists who assisted at his benefit on May 17.

A SUPPLEMENTARY WEEK of benefits was given at the Howard Athenæum, Boston, Mass., commencing 13, with B. F. Tryon's appeal, when Maffitt, Bartholomew, Miss Marian Fiske, Frank Melrose, Schoolcraft and Coes, Gus Williams, Charles W. Meade, Harry Bloodgood, A. J. Leavitt, N. D. Jones, S. E. Springer, W. O'Brien, Williams and Sullivan, Welch and Shields, John Barker and Barney McNulty appeared. 14, benefit of Schoolcraft and Coes, when the additions were William Arlington, Balabrega, Signor Giovanni and Naoni. 15, benefit of Gus Williams: the new faces were Helene Smith, Alice Seidler, Billy Morris. 16, benefit of Messrs. W. H. Chester, P. Somers, W. Dixon and W. O'Brien: the volunteers were Faulkner and Regan, the Boucicault Dramatic Club, Master Donevan, George Hardie, John H. Dyer, Josie Chatell and Frank Davis. 17, for John J. Braham, N. D. Jones, and Andy Leavitt, the attractions were Miss Annie F. Irish, Mrs. Rachel Cantor, Misses Addie Farwell, Dollie Pike, Bella Remick, T. H. Burns, C. L. Farwell, Charles A. Stedman, Harry Williams, Barney Fagin, Williams and Sullivan, Dan Hart, Young Bryant, and an enlarged orchestra. 18, for last night of the season and benefit of Maffitt and Bartholomew, the appearances were members of the Americus Club, the Virginia Quartet, C. W. Meade, Crosby and Martin, William Johnson, McAloon and Plunkett, Julia Melville and Rosa Thomas. Matinees were given 15, 18, by volunteers of the week.....The Victoria Lofus Troupe of British Blondes, Charles Davis business-manager, and George Atkins stage-manager, played last week in the Boylston Museum to a continuation of crowded houses. The programme opened with the sketch of "Divorce," performed by James Collins and Ada Freeman; followed by Harry Le Clair in burlesque female impersonations, Mattie and Alice Stuart in songs, changes and clog-dance, Petrie and Fish as grotesque high-kickers, Miss Lottie Elliott in a graceful and difficult skipping-rope dance, the bill terminating with the burlesque of "Atalanta, or the Female Athlete," performed by Annie Collins, George Atkins, Jas. Montrose, William Fish, Harry Le Clair, and the Misses Georgina Smithson, Ada Freeman, Victoria Loftus, Myrtle Picquette, Belle Clifton, Lillie Raymond, Mattie Stuart, Kitty Maxwell, Emily Herbert, Lottie Elliott and Alice Stuart. The new company 20 will include Charles L. Davis, Miss Eloise Allen, Sam and Carrie Swain, Miss Nellie Abbott, H. F. Juleene, Sergeant Callahan, Emma Vern, J. Marlowe and Boylston Ballet Troupe. 23, benefit of Frank Chandler, treasurer. Letter of May 19.

PERFORMERS are wanted at the Theatre Comique, Richmond, Va. See card.

AT THE LYCEUM THEATRE, Toronto, Canada, the company last week included Eugene F. Gorman, the Perry Bros., Jessie Boyd, Harry and Mary Thompson, Frankie Sydney, Chas. and Annie Whiting. The performance opened with a minstrel scene and closed with the sketch of "Life in a Tenement-house." Chas. and Annie Whiting, to Cleveland, and Frankie Sydney, to Toledo, closed 18. Lydia Rosa and Mattie Nelson are announced for 20. Performers desiring engagements, especially ladies with specialties, are requested to address Redmond & Bayley, proprietors.

AT THE EXCELSIOR GARDENS, Martinsburg, W. Va., the company includes Pauline Howard, Allie Hughes, Anne Elimore, Bob Elliott, J. B. Hennings, Frank Miller, and R. Moan. James Wheeler and Lillie Howe opened May 16.....At the Theatre Comique the O'Neils—John, Charles and Gardner—Minnie Williams, Harry Winchell, Mike Smith, Dick Perry, Nellie Saroney and Kate Clare are playing.

MME. FELICIA'S FEMALE MINSTRELS are to show in Tiffin, O., May 20, Clyde 21, Fremont 22, Norwalk 23, Elyria 24, Medina 25, Akron 27, Revenna 28, Alliance 29, Canton 30, Massillon 31, Orville June 1, Wooster 3, and Mansfield 4.

VIOLA CLIFTON, change artist, can be engaged through her agents, Carlisle & Ireson. The special points in regard to her performance are noticed in her card elsewhere.

C. J. MILLS, character vocalist and female impersonator, is open for an engagement.

DICK DURAND informs us his real name is Richard Martin Durand, and not Mike Doren, as a correspondent wrote us when informing us of Mr. Durand's recent marriage.

AT THE LYCEUM THEATRE, Toronto, Ont., the company last week included the Perry Brothers, Eugene F. Gorman, Harry Thompson, Charles and Annie Whiting, Jessie Boyd, Mary Thompson, and Frankie Sydney.

AT THE LONDON MUSIC HALL, Brooklyn, L. I., the attractions billed for this week are James and Susie Dillon, Lillie Western, Reno Steadman, Billy and Nellie Hasson, Josie Byron and Add Weaver.

ENOCHS' VARIETIES, Philadelphia, is offered for sale. See Max Schmitt's advertisement.

AT THE ADELPHI THEATRE, Danville, Ill., the arrivals last week were Blanche and Johnny Nichols, Fred Hart, Pearl Sisters, Jennie Allen and Hattie Ellis and dogs. Performers desiring engagements are requested to address A. Hornig, proprietor.

MYER WEIL, professionally known as G. Myer Weil "The Happy Old Man," died of consumption at his residence in Boston, Mass., May 12, aged 38 years. He was a native of Berlin, Germany, and made his debut with the Morris Bros.' Minstrels at their Opera-house in Boston. He traveled for three seasons with the show styled "Erin and the Brennans," and was well known among the variety profession. He was unmarried, his parents, brother, sister and his remains were interred at Wakefield, Mass.

MME. RENTZ'S FEMALE MINSTRELS gave exhibitions in Library Hall, Pittsburg, Pa., May 15, 16. On the first night the attendance was large, but there was a material falling-off at the second performance..... Lizzie Richmond, Bryant and Williams, Dan Delmay, Jr., Bell and Conners and Kelly were the fresh attractions at Trimble's Varieties Theatre. All were meritorious in their respective specialties, and received a cordial welcome. The D'Omers, Maggie Ray, Queen and West, Blanche Selwyn, Ben Gilfoil and others appeared in addition to the usual bill, and were in good show, and attracting a full attendance at nearly every performance during the week. Closes 18: Queen and West, to New York; D'Omers, Blanche Selwyn, Ben Gilfoil, and Maggie Ray, the Hayleys, Lulu Delmay and Al. Hall, to Worcester, Mass..... Maggie Kane, Bonnie Runnells, Master Barney, Harry Clarke, Miss Ida Ingersoll, and Signor Alvira..... An interesting case was decided in the United States District Court May 16. It was a suit brought against Fred Aims and his treasurer, when the former was manager of Trimble's Varieties Theatre, several seasons ago. It was charged that these persons had violated the Civil-rights Bill in refusing to sell a colored man a ticket admitting him to the parquet of the theatre. A verdict of five guineas was returned, under instructions from the Court. The prosecutor, Charles Thomas, was a porter on a sleeping-car on one of the roads running into Pitt-burg. He was directed to go to the gallery, the defense contending that the lower part of the house was full..... Harry Montague, the Duncan Sisters and Wilbur Macy are the latest appearances at the Tivoli Garden. Business good.

AT THE OLYMPIC THEATRE, Sandusky, O., the arrivals May 20 are announced as John F. Stowe, Lou West, Annie Campbell, Clara Stanley and Frank Marion. Closing 18 were Prof. Lawrence and Troupe of Blondes.

HARRY A. HANAFORD is

RATES.

SUBSCRIPTION.—Per annum, in advance, $4; six months, $2; three months, $1, including postage to any part of the United States. Foreign postage extra. Single copies 10 cents each. No deduction to clubs or agents.

ADVERTISEMENTS.—Agate type measure, 14 lines to an inch.—Department notices, copied from and credited to other journals, 30 cents per line, the same notices to be inserted once only. Advertisements under the head of AMUSEMENTS, 15 cents per line; Miscellaneous and Sporting Advertisements, 20 cents per line—for each and every insertion. A deduction of 20 per cent. from these rates will be made for advertisements when paid for three months in advance by the advertiser. Advertising agents are not allowed this or any other deduction further than their regular commission. Cuts and displayed type in advertisements charged at the same rates for space occupied.

OUR TERMS ARE CASH.—Advertisements to be paid for at the time of insertion.

THE CLIPPER is issued every Tuesday morning. The first, fourth, fifth and eighth pages GO TO PRESS ON SATURDAY, and the second, third, sixth and seventh pages on Monday evening. Advertisements intended for this outside pages should reach us not later than noon on Saturday, and all favors should reach us early on Monday to insure their insertion in that week's issue.

ADVERTISEMENTS SENT BY TELEGRAPH must reach here not later than 6 P. M. on Monday.

TO AVOID LOSS, when remitting money by mail, we would advise our patrons to register their letters or procure Post-office orders. Make all orders payable to and address all communications

FRANK QUEEN,
Editor and Proprietor,
P. O. Box 3,860, or CLIPPER BUILDING,
88 and 90 Centre street, New York.

THE CLIPPER is for sale in LONDON, ENGLAND, at the American Exchange, 449 Strand, Charing Cross, W. C.

---

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER

ALMANAC

For 1878,

CONTAINING A RELIABLE RECORD OF

THEATRICAL AND SPORTING EVENTS

FOR THE YEAR, WITH OTHER VALUABLE INFORMATION,

CAN BE HAD OF ALL NEWSDEALERS AND AGENTS

PRICE 15 CENTS.

NEWSDEALERS can order their supplies through their wholesale agents.

COPIES WILL BE MAILED FROM THIS OFFICE ON RECEIPT OF PRICE, 15 CENTS.

FRANK QUEEN,
Publisher and Proprietor,
P. O. Box 3,860. 88 and 90 Centre street,
1-tf NEW YORK.

---

TO GYMNASTS.—C. H. HAWKINS, No. 115 E. 13th st., New York, Maker of Gymnastic Apparatus, Leaping Boards, and Bars, Horizontal-bars, Steel Centres, Magic Barrels, Crosses and Globes. Gymnasiums fitted up, etc., etc. Send stamp for circular. 6-13t*

SKETCHES, DRAMAS, ACTS, GAGS, SONGS, STUMP-SPEECHES, FARCES, WRITTEN TO ORDER BY I. DAVEAU, 8-tf 116 South First street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

THE LINGARDS.
EIGHTH MONTH.
32D WEEK OF PRESENT SEASON.
141st TIME OF
"HEART AND CROWN."
SECOND MONTH OF MR. LINGARD'S SKETCHES.
All dates and engagements filled.
New England Four Weeks.
Park Theatre, N. Y., May 27.
7-tf Address 126 E. 37th street, New York.

THEATRE ROYAL,
MONTREAL,
ENTIRELY RECONSTRUCTED,
enlarged and redecorated. New stock of scenery and drop-curtain, new dressing-rooms, etc., etc.; situated in the most central part of the city, and one of the most elegant and convenient theatres on the continent. Is now ready to let for short or long seasons, or long lease. For open dates and terms apply to [1-9t*] JESSE JOSEPH, Proprietor.

MORTON HOUSE, ERIE, PA. Fine accommodations for traveling companies. Agents for circuses and hall-shows, please give me a call before making arrangements elsewhere. JAMES CAMPBELL. 1-10t*

"THE BELVIDERE" IN CENTRAL CITY, COLORADO—the finest theatre in the State—four dressing-rooms and grand piano. Terms $15 per night for theatre and $3 per night for piano. Liberal terms by the week. Address THE BELVIDERE, 1-31t* Central City, Colorado.

MILLER'S WINTER GARDEN, VINE STREET, NEAR EIGHTH, PHILADELPHIA, PA. HARRY MILLER, Proprietor; HARRY F. SEYMOUR, Business Manager. Always open dates for good Serio-comic Vocalists, Ballad Singers, Sketch Artists, etc., etc. Salaries must be moderate, as they are sure. Incompetents may expect to be discharged the first night. Wanted, good singing soubrette for the season. Address as above. 1-15t*

NEW HALL, GREENWICH, R. I.
Second floor; size, 54x40ft., with gallery 12x40ft. Good stage, ticket-office and store. Inquire of S. A. SLOCUM. 1-12t*

MR. FRANK M. CHAPMAN, ADVANCE OR BUSINESS MANAGER (now ahead of Augustin Daly's Comb.), MISS STELLA CONGDON, SOUBRETTE, both at liberty for SAME company after May 1. Address 1-13t* Box 14, Worcester, Mass.

ST. JOHN, N. B. DOCKRILL HALL,
JUST COMPLETED, HANDSOMELY SEATED,
Central Location. Capacity 700.
Rent Moderate.
8-13t* J. F. DOCKRILL, 86 King street.

A. LACROIX, MANUFACTURER OF THEATRICAL SHOES, Dancing Clogs, Dyer's and Wooden Shoes, 264½ Bowery, between Prince and Houston streets, New York. 7-41*

COL. T. ALLSTON BROWN, 140½ West Fifteenth street, New York, BUSINESS MANAGER OR TREASURER, can be engaged for Season 1878-79. 8-tf

FOR SALE—A CAROUSEL OR Hobby-horse propelled by two steam-engines; was run at Saratoga last season. Apply to ALEXANDER MILLER, at John's Axe Factory, Cohoes, N. Y. 8-4t*

"PRETTY PRIMROSE," Bobby Newcomb's new song; "Uncle Tom's Lament," "Blue and Gray on Sleeping Side by Side," "Sweet Visions of Childhood," "My Pretty Red Rose," always encored, 40c. each; Orchestration, 60c. Professionals' specialties. FREDERICK BLUME, 861 Broadway, 2 doors above 17th st., N. Y. 1-13t*

LELAND OPERA-HOUSE, ALBANY, N. Y., FOR RENT, or will play First-class Combinations on sharing terms, during the months of June, July and August. Address P. O. Box 92, Long Branch, N. J. 8-6t J. W. ALBAUGH.

THEATRE COMIQUE, WASHINGTON, D. C.
The regular Summer season commences at this theatre May 27. Artists of ability wishing dates for the Summer, address JAKE BUDD, 8-4t Proprietor and Manager.

WM. MAGEE, LATE OF THE G. S. KNIGHT AND CHAS. FORBES "MOLLIE MAGUIRE" AND "UNCLE TOM" COMBINATION, desires an engagement as WALKING-GENT for the Summer or regular Fall and Winter season of 1878-79; salary low. Address WM. MAGEE, 9-1t* Pittsburg, Pa.

TRIUMPHANT SUCCESS OF TOMMY HEYLIN, THE CLOG-DANCER.
First open date, Aug. 5. Address
9-1t* Care of CLIPPER.

FOR SALE—AN ORIGINAL AND POWERFUL motion drama, completed upon the advice of the great artist MADAME JANAUSCHEK. Please address immediately "JOURNALIST," care of CLIPPER. 9-1t*

UNION HALL, CAMBRIDGEPORT, MASS.
Rent reduced to $35 per night from May 15 to Sept. 15.
SEATING CAPACITY, 1,500.
4t* Address W. A. BULLARD, Treasurer.

NEW SONGS-AND-DANCES, CENTS EACH.—"Marriage Bells," and "Summer of Love," by O'Reardon. "Little Cherry Blossom," by Bobby Newcomb. HARDING'S, 329 Bowery. Send for catalogue. 9-1t*

A SOLO CORNET-PLAYER wishes an engagement with a circus. Address BENJ. F. LEONARD, West Wareham, Mass. 9-2t*

WANTED—FOR VAN'S GREAT OLYMPIC CIRCUS AND CONGRESS OF NOVELTIES, Performers and Musicians; also, man to run canvas. Must be temperate. Will be a first-class wagon show, taking in mail towns. Will take the road June 24. All privileges or sale. Please consider silence a negative. Address H. D. VAN, Box 322, Saugerties, New York. 9-1t

THEALL & CARTON'S NOVELTY THEATRE, Nos. 111, 113, 115, 117 Fifth street, Brooklyn, E. D., will open on or about Sept. 1, 1878. First-class artists wishing dates will please address THEALL & CARTON, Managers. 7-4t

THEALL & CARTON'S COMIQUE, Broadway, corner Fourth street, Williamsburg, N. Y., TO LET by the week or month, during June and July. Address THEALL & CARTON, 7-4t Williamsburg, N. Y.

VOLKS' GARDEN

199 BOWERY. 201

LONDON MUSIC HALL OF AMERICA.
OPEN THE YEAR ROUND
MRS. PAUL FALK.....Proprietress
WM. T. GIESELBERG.....Manager
SIG. CONSTANTINE.....Stage Manager
STRICTLY FIRST-CLASS VARIETY TALENT IN ALL BRANCHES.
None others accepted after the first night. Business must be sent in one week in advance. All aerial artists must have a net. Address SIG. CHAS. CONSTANTINE, 1-tf Stage manager.

THE LONDON.

235 AND 237 BOWERY,

OPPOSITE PRINCE STREET.
THEATRE OPEN
ALL THE YEAR ROUND.
Artists wishing one or two weeks, please address as above. ARTISTS OF ABILITY AND REPUTATION will do well to APPLY AT ONCE FOR DATES. 1-tf

HARRY MINER'S NEW LONDON,
165 and 167 BOWERY.
Also his uptown theatre,
THE AMERICAN,
443 and 445 THIRD AVENUE.
BOTH THEATRES OPEN THE YEAR ROUND. First-class artists can secure two, four, six or eight weeks. 18-tf

THE LINGARDS
OPEN AT THE PARK THEATRE, NEW YORK,
MAY 27.
COMPANY FULLY ENGAGED.
Address 126 E. 37th street, New York. 9-1t

---

FOR RENT,
LARGE HALL at Cape May, N. J., for season. Will seat 1,000 persons; well lighted; stage, dressing-rooms and bar complete. Suitable for a variety theatre. Address R. A. GORDON, 7-4t* Continental Hotel, Philadelphia.

THE HESS ENGLISH-OPERA SEASON OF 1878-9.
Managers desiring to arrange dates for this company the coming season will please address C. RANDOLH GARDINER, C. D. HESS, Director. No. 12 Union square, New York. 6-4t

J. L. TUTTLE, for the past 3 years at the OLYMPIC THEATRE, ST. LOUIS, is at liberty for Summer and season of '78-9. Business, WALKING GENT. Address as above. 6-5t*

ALICE BATEMAN AND BILLY NOONAN, in their original picturesque combat clog, recognized as the neatest act in that line of business in the profession, can be engaged by responsible managers only for the ensuing season. A party connected with some supposed dramatic agency, having announced his determination to injure the above-named artists by canceling engagements, or any way in his power, solely on account of personal and private spite, managers are hereby requested to treat his unmanly efforts with the contempt they merit, and are respectfully referred for proof of their ability as first-class performers to Mr. John Stetson, Howard Athenæum, Boston; Tony Pastor, Broadway, New York; Messrs. Harrigan & Hart, Theatre Comique, Broadway, N. Y.; Col. Sinn, Park Theatre, Brooklyn; and all other first-class managers in the East. Please address BILLY NOONAN AND ALICE BATEMAN, 8-2t* care of CLIPPER office.

MANAGERS are respectfully notified that MISS LULU DELMAY, America's acknowledged serio-comic artist, can be engaged, in conjunction with MR. H. R. ARCHER, the great California Baritone and Character Actor. This lady and gentleman having an immense repertory of original and amusing Society Sketches and Burlesques, are recognized by the press and public as the most finished artists in the country in that line of business. Responsible managers only, wishing to arrange dates for the coming season, will please address H. R. ARCHER, 8-4t* care of CLIPPER office, N. Y.

SCENIC ARTIST. D. J. ETLY, 227 EAST BROADWAY, LOUISVILLE, KY., desires an engagement as Scenic Artist. Has good recommendations and references. Salary moderate. 8-2t*

JOPLIN OPERA-HOUSE, JOPLIN, MO.
New and complete. Population, 12,000; and the best show-town in the West. Will share or rent.
8-7t P. J. BLACKWELL, Proprietor.

FIRST-CLASS TROUPES (music bands and Tyrolers preferred) will find it to their advantage to write to A. Neuhausen's Summer Garden for engagements. This garden has all necessary improvements, and drew immense crowds last Summer.
8-3t* A. NEUHAUSEN, proprietor, Wheeling, W. Va.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY—A few Dramatic and Specialty Artists. Address ARTHUR WRIGHT and HARRY LINDLEY, Syracuse, N. Y. 9-1t*

FOR SALE—ENOCHS' VARIETIES, Seventh street, below Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa. Location central. First-class chance for a live manager. Address MAX SCHMITT, Atty., No. 225 South Sixth street, Philadelphia, Pa. 9-4t

ADELPHI THEATRE, DANVILLE, Ill.—First-class talent wanted at all times, especially ladies. A. HORNIG, Proprietor. 9-1t

SCENERY OF ALL SIZES KEPT ON HAND. One lot of 5 scenes and drop-curtain, wings, etc., new, $80. F. L. LOWELL & CO., Scenic-artists, Bloomington, Ill. [9-3t*

ACADEMY OF MUSIC, MONTREAL, will be LEASED AT VERY LOW RATES or on sharing terms to first-class combinations. Appointments complete. Seating capacity, 1,725. To secure dates in advance, apply to G. W. STEPHENS, Managing Director. 1-9t*

WANTED, BY A FIRST-CLASS CHARACTER VOCALIST (male), possessing a fine tenor (or contralto) voice, an engagement with a good company. As female impersonator hard to excel. Address C. J. MILLS, 9-1t* Joliet, Ill.

PIPER'S NEW OPERA-HOUSE, VIRGINIA CITY, NEVADA.
Stars and Combinations visiting the Pacific Coast will find it to their advantage to visit this city. House holds $1,200. Terms, share or certainty. JOHN PIPER, 1-16t* Proprietor and Manager.

TO LET,

FOR SINGLE NIGHT OR WEEK,

GLOBE THEATRE

AND

HOWARD ATHENÆUM, BOSTON.

GLOBE THEATRE

$150 NIGHTLY

(NO STOCKHOLDERS).

HOWARD ATHENÆUM,

$100 NIGHTLY

(NO STOCKHOLDERS).

INCLUDING THEATRE LIGHTED AND ATTACHES.
HALF-PRICE FOR MATINEES.
APPLY TO
JOHN STETSON,
9-1t BOSTON, MASS.

SAVANNAH, GA.

Managers of Companies Coming South, before Completing their Arrangements, should Write to the Agent of the

NEW # MASONIC TEMPLE.

* IT IS CENTRALLY LOCATED,
AND THE BEST HALL IN THE CITY.
Large Stage and New Scenery.
SEATS 800. REPUTATION FIRST-CLASS.
"One of the best musical Halls in the South.
ADELAIDE PHILLIPPS & CO."
"The acoustics are perfect, seating well arranged, stage and scenery good. The best Hall in the South.
CHARLES MAC EVOY,
Mac Evoy's Hibernicon."
"I am well pleased with Masonic Hall, and have rarely spoken in a better one.
PROF. ALONZO TRIPP, Lecturer."
RENT VERY MODERATE. Address
9-13t S. P. HAMILTON, Savannah, Ga.

Fair Skin.

THE SUPREME SKIN REMEDY.

GUARANTEED ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS.
WILL DO ALL CLAIMED FOR IT.
PIMPLES, BUMPS, BLOTCHES, all defects of the skin, removed. A CLEAR, BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION insured by using the great remedy—SULPHIDE OF ARSENICUM. NEVER FAILS TO SATISFY.
PRICE, $1 per package. Send stamp for full information. Chronic cases specially invited.
9-1t* DR. DOHME & CO., 86 East Fayette street, Baltimore, Md.

THE AGNES WALLACE-VILLA COMBINATION had the gratification and pleasure of playing two nights in UNION HALL, GOUVERNEUR, N. Y., AND WE PRONOUNCE IT PERFECT IN EVERY PARTICULAR.
FINE STAGE, ELEGANT SCENERY, AND THE PROPRIETORS ARE GENTLEMEN to deal with. OUR BUSINESS WAS EXCELLENT. Yours, etc.,
9-1t SAM VILLA.

JOHN HART AND A. C. MORELAND,
Musical Mokes and Wench Dancers.
IMMENSE HIT
IN BAKERSFIELD, KERN CO., CAL., where they received one solid encore. Coming East with Forepaugh in a cage. Managers, beware!
P. S.—Look on the map for Bakersfield. 9-1t*

UNION HALL,

GOUVERNEUR, N. Y.

Just completed. Fine stage and dressing-rooms, new scenery, and lighted with gas. Seating capacity, 800. Rent moderate. Address UNION HALL CO. 9-26t

MISS LILLIE D'ALVE
OF THE D'ALVE SISTERS, is lying ill at their home, 1,812 Woodstock street, Philadelphia, Pa. 9-1t*

MOZART GARDEN,

FULTON AND SMITH STREETS, BROOKLYN.
5,000 PEOPLE ATTEND NIGHTLY.
Lady operatic vocalists, gentlemen soloists, and all kinds of musical specialties in white faces wanted. ARTISTS of acknowledged ability only engaged. All letters answered. Terms must be low. A. R. SAMUELLS, Manager. 9-2t*

BOGAN'S PROFESSIONAL SILVER RIM and ROSEWOOD BANJOS, TAMBOURINES, and all kinds of musical instruments and strings.
BOGAN'S BANJO MANUAL,
the most simple and only method of the kind ever published, enabling the pupil to play at sight, containing 59 popular airs, with directions for practice. Price, $2. Banjo, jig and clog dancing taught. Send stamp for catalogue and price-list. Address JOHN J. BOGAN, 0-11* 100 East Houston street, New York.

HARRY G. RICHMOND.

SUCCESS.

BUSH-STREET THEATRE, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL. 9-1t*

NEVER MIND ME,

latest comic song by Harry Montague. 35cts. PERHAPS, ladies' serio-comic, 40cts. FINNEGAN BRIGADE, new Irish marching song, 40cts. DEAR LITTLE COLLEEN, Irish ballad, 40cts. CIGARETTE, new specialty comic for ladies. Price $1.50. SPEAR & DEHNHOFF, Publishers, 9-1t* 717 Broadway, N. Y.

ELK CITY OPERA-HOUSE

ELK CITY, CLARION COUNTY, PA.
Seating capacity, 500. For terms and open dates, address
1-12t* DR. S. M. LALLIN, Manager.

PLAYS,

PANTOMIMES, Tableaux, Speeches, Dialogues, Colored Fire, Tableau Lights, Burnt Cork, Magnesium, Wigs, Beards, Moustaches, etc. For Catalogues send your address to HAPPY HOURS CO., No. 5 Beekman st., New York. 8-13t

---

BLOOMS'

GREAT THEATRICAL SUPPLY,

338 and 340 BOWERY, NEW YORK.

Truly, the only establishment of its kind in America. Not alone that every article requisite for the

OPERA, DRAMA OR BURLESQUE

can be found here, but everything necessary to complete a

THEATRICAL WARDROBE IN ALL ITS DETAILS.

ENGL. FLESH COTTON TIGHTS
ENGL. FLESH COTTON SHIRTS
ENGL. WHITE COTTON TIGHTS
ENGL. WHITE COTTON SHIRTS
$1.35 EACH.

BLOOMS',

338 and 340 BOWERY, NEW YORK.

SEND FOR PRICE-LIST. 3-26t*

ESTABLISHED 1840. THE OLDEST AND MOST RELIABLE HOUSE.

W. DAZIAN, 280 BOWERY, New York,

Importer and Manufacturer of Theatrical and Equestrian Goods.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| ENGLISH COTTON SHIRTS AND TIGHTS, per set | $3 50 | GENUINE FRENCH COTTON TIGHTS ....per set | $9 00 |
| WORSTED TIGHTS, SHIRTS, LEOTARDS, Etc., ea. | 2 75 | WORSTED CLOWN SUITS.....from | $7 50 up |
| WORSTED KNEE TIGHTS.....per pair | 2 50 | BEST QUALITY CALF PADS..... | 3 50 |
| WORSTED TRUNKS.....per pair | 1 50 | FULL PADS..... | 3 50 |
| LISLE-THREAD SHIRTS AND TIGHTS.....each | 3 50 | CHINA SILK TIGHTS, Silk Tops..... | 6 00 |

BEST ENGLISH ALL-SILK TIGHTS - - - - - $7 50

All Goods from my Establishment Guaranteed as Represented.

Also constantly on hand the most complete assortment to be found in the United States of Silks, Satins, Velvets, Tarletans, Laces, Flouncings, Lace Shawls and Sacques, Overdresses, etc., Gold and Silver Trimmings, Armor Cloths, Spangles, Fringes, Illuminated Tissues, etc., Canvas and Leather Slippers, Gaiters, Sandals, Clogs, etc., Monkey, Bear, and Frog Dresses, Fancy Embroidered Hose in great variety. Theatrical Jewelry, and everything necessary for a complete wardrobe. Goods sent C. O. D. to any part of the U. S. 4-tf

ENORMOUS SUCCESS

OF

ELIZA WEATHERSBY'S FROLIQUES

AND

N. C. GOODWIN JR.,

IN THEIR

REFINED AND ORIGINAL ENTERTAINMENT.

Everywhere patronized by the elite, and pronounced by press and public to be the ONLY successors of the VOKES FAMILY. PEOPLE TURNED AWAY AT TOLEDO AND CLEVELAND, and now doing the greatest business ever done in Canada. Open at the GLOBE THEATRE, BOSTON, May 27. Season closes June 8. Managers wishing to engage this novelty for next season, address
N. C. GOODWIN JR., Sole Proprietor,
9-1t GLOBE THEATRE, BOSTON.

GREAT SUCCESS OF

JENNIE WEATHERSBY

(SISTER OF ELIZA)

in her original creation of EUPHEMIA BANG, THE CENTENNIAL FAIRY, at present with the great Eliza Weathersby Frolique Combination. Globe Theatre, Boston, May 27. Engaged for next season. 9-1t

VIOLA CLIFTON,

THE PREMIER CHANGE ARTIST OF THE WORLD.
COPIED BY MANY. EQUALED BY NONE. ENVIED BY ALL.
N. B.—This lady makes a complete change of Tights in eight seconds, her own original act. She is justly termed the mould of form and mirror of fashion. Managers wishing to engage this Sensational Star address
9-1t* CARLISLE & IRESON, Agents.

Pike's Opera-house,

CINCINNATI.

SEASON of 1878-79

OPEN FOR RENTAL, OR WILL SHARE WITH FIRST-CLASS COMBINATIONS.
Address
L. P. THOMPSON, Manager,
8-2t LOCK BOX 576.

CONTINUED SUCCESS

HEALY'S HIBERNIAN MINSTRELS,

18 ACKNOWLEDGED PERFORMERS 18

TOGETHER WITH THE IRISH BRIGADE BAND AND NEW MIRROR OF IRELAND.
Now on Successful Tour of New England.
All letters address JOHN E. HEALY,
9-3t care of CLIPPER office, New York.

JAMES H. ROCHE,

COMEDIAN AND SPECIALTY ARTIST,
New Academy of Music,
CHICAGO, ILL.
SEASON 1878-79.
N. B.—I sail for Europe June 21. 9-1t*

LIZZIE BYRON

GREAT SUCCESS

WITH
MAY FISK'S ENGLISH BLONDES.
ALL DATES CANCELED UNTIL FURTHER NOTICE.
A divorce was granted me from
FRED CARRARA, BETTER KNOWN AS FRED BYRON.
Should like to hear from him to send papers. 9-1t*

APOLLO THEATRE

EVANSVILLE, IND.
JOHN ALBECKER.....Proprietor
HUGH FAY.....Manager
WANTED, first-class SERIO-COMIC AND LADY SKETCH ARTISTS. Address as above. 8-2t*

MAGIC LANTERNS

and Stereopticons, all prices. Views illustrating every subject for public exhibitions, etc. A profitable business for a man with small capital. Also lanterns for home amusement. 74-page catalogue free. McALLISTER M'fg Optician, 49 Nassau street, N. Y. 9-10t6ow

HAMBLIN'S OPERA-HOUSE

BATTLE CREEK, MICH.

This hall, having a seating capacity of 1,400, has been refitted with new process of lighting, cushioned reserved seats, painted and put in good shape. Population of city, 8,000. May be secured for every variety of entertainment at reasonable prices by addressing the new lessees and managers, ELDRED & CLARK,
1-13t* P. O drawer 89.

BANJOS

GEO. C. DOBSON'S STAGE AND SOLO NICKEL RIM AND ROSEWOOD BANJOS—20 different styles; 100 to select from. Simplified method, without study, 96 pages, 100 tunes, bound book, 75c. A 16-page pamphlet of testimonials and price-lists sent for ONE STAMP.
GEO. C. DOBSON, the King Performer and Teacher,
7-11 1,139 Washington street, Boston.

CIRCUS LIGHTS.
KIDD'S PATENT LIGHTS,
PRICES REDUCED, ARE THE CHEAPEST, BEST AND MOST DURABLE.
SOLE AGENTS,
1-19t* TAYLOR & BASSEMIR,
Moved to 33 Gold street, N. Y.

BANJO.

DOBSON'S NEW SCHOOL. The Boss Book. Learn at sight. Price, 75c.

DOBSON'S GUITAR.
New School. The best yet. One can learn without trying. Price, 75c.

BLAKE'S PIANO METHOD.
A complete self-instructor. Plain, practical, and needs no teacher. Boards, $1; paper, 75c. Post free on receipt of price by publishers. WHITE, SMITH & CO.,
8-4t 516 Washington street, Boston.

BANJO TAUGHT BY MAIL.
COPYRIGHT SECURED. A Sample Tune, neatly printed, and fully explained; also how to TUNE, FRET, AND PLAY THE BANJO, and a 24-page catalogue of 3,000 tunes, sent for TEN CENTS and stamp. Books Nos. 8 and 9, just out, contain FANCY PIECES AND ACCOMPANIMENTS. Circulars showing the contents of nine books sent free. Nickel-rim banjos from $7 up. Best strings, 70c. per set. Dime Banjo Music Co., 208 & 210 Fulton st., Brooklyn, N. Y. 1*

HOME RULE FOR OLD IRELAND
The great new Song and Chorus, by Edward Kendall, character vocalist, with portrait, sent post free, on receipt of 35 cents, by WHITE, SMITH & CO., Boston, Mass. 8-2t

---

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER

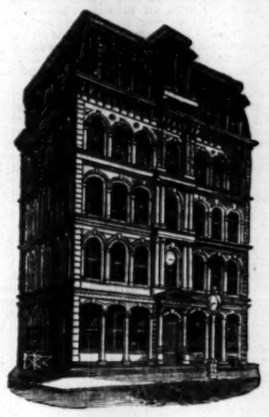
ESTABLISHED 1853.

THE OLDEST AMERICAN

SPORTING AND THEATRICAL

JOURNAL.



THE NEW YORK CLIPPER BUILDING.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER IS A PAPER FOR EVERYBODY—A DAILY AND A WEEKLY COMBINED.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER CONTAINS FULL AND RELIABLE REPORTS OF ALL THE MORE PROMINENT BASEBALL GAMES. IT ALSO PUBLISHES THE OFFICIAL NOTICES OF THE INTERNATIONAL AND LEAGUE ASSOCIATIONS, AND GIVES THE LATEST GOSSIP OF THE BALL FIELD.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER TELLS YOU ALL ABOUT CRICKET, AND PUBLISHES FULL SCORES OF ALL MATCH GAMES.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER IS THE RECOGNIZED ORGAN OF PROFESSIONAL OARSMEN, AND GIVES SPECIAL ATTENTION TO BOATING AND OTHER AQUATIC SPORTS.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER PUBLISHES FULL AND ACCURATE REPORTS OF ATHLETIC GAMES, AND IS A STANDARD AUTHORITY ON FASTEST TIME, Etc.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER GIVES CONDENSED BUT READABLE REPORTS OF ALL TURF EVENTS.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER PUBLISHES THE SCORES MADE AT THE RIFLE-BUTS, AND REPORTS OF TRAP AND OTHER SHOOTING.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER CONTAINS A COMPLETE RECORD OF ALL THE SPORTING NEWS AT HOME AND ABROAD.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER IS THE MOST RELIABLE OF THEATRICAL JOURNALS.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER RECORDS THE DOINGS OF SHOW PEOPLE ABROAD.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER TELLS YOU ALL ABOUT THE VARIETY STAGE.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER GIVES YOU ALL THE CIRCUS NEWS.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER PUBLISHES THE DOINGS OF THE MUSICAL WORLD.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER GIVES THE ROUTES AND OTHER INFORMATION ABOUT MINSTREL COMPANIES.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER IS A REPOSITORY FOR ALL MISCELLANEOUS AND AMATEUR SHOW NEWS.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER PUBLISHES ORIGINAL SERIAL STORIES, INTERESTING SKETCHES, POEMS, Etc.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER CONTAINS A RECORD OF THE DEATHS OF PROMINENT INDIVIDUALS.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER GIVES THE NEWS OF THE WEEK IN CONDENSED FORM.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER WEEKLY POST OFFICE LIST ENABLES PROFESSIONALS TO COMMUNICATE SAFELY WITH ONE ANOTHER WHEN TRAVELING.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER IN ITS DEPARTMENT OF ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS GIVES INTERESTING INFORMATION

IF YOU WANT A READABLE, RELIABLE AND CAREFULLY COMPILED SPORTING AND THEATRICAL JOURNAL,

BUY THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

FOR SALE BY ALL NEWSDEALERS.

PRICE, TEN CENTS.

SUBSCRIPTION.

Per annum, in advance, $4; six months, $2; three months, $1, including postage to any part of the United States. Foreign postage extra. Single copies 10 cents each. No deduction to clubs or agents.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

Agate type measure, 14 lines to an inch.—Department notices, copied from and credited to other journals, 30 cents per line, the same notices to be inserted once only. Advertisements under the head of AMUSEMENTS, 15 cents per line; Miscellaneous and Sporting Advertisements, 20 cents per line—for each and every insertion. A deduction of 20 per cent. from these rates will be made for advertisements when paid for three months in advance by the advertiser. Advertising agents are not allowed this or any other deduction further than their regular commission. Cuts and displayed type in advertisements charged at the same rates for space occupied.

OUR TERMS ARE CASH.

Advertisements to be paid for at the time of insertion.

THE CLIPPER is issued every Tuesday morning. The first, fourth, fifth and eighth pages GO TO PRESS ON SATURDAY, and the second, third, sixth and seventh pages on Monday evening. Advertisements intended for the outside pages should reach us not later than noon on Saturday, and all favors should reach us early on Monday to insure their insertion in that week's issue.

ADVERTISEMENTS SENT BY TELEGRAPH
must reach here not later than 6 P. M. on Monday.

TO AVOID LOSS,
when remitting money by mail, we would advise our patrons to register their letters or procure Post-office orders. Make all orders payable to and address all communications

FRANK QUEEN,
Publisher and Proprietor,
P. O. Box 3,860, or CLIPPER BUILDING,
88 AND 90 CENTRE STREET,
NEW YORK.

THE CLIPPER is for sale in LONDON, ENGLAND, at the American Exchange, 449 Strand, Charing Cross, W. C.

---

FOX'S

NEW AMERICAN THEATRE,

PHILADELPHIA, PA.
J. C. CURRAN.....Business-manager
COMBINATIONS AND DRAMATIC STARS treated with liberally. Write fully, particulars. 9-1t

OPEN DATES,

NEW PARK THEATRE,

BROOKLYN.

JUNE 3, 10, 17.

THE THEATRE

CAN BE RENTED

THE ABOVE DATES.
OR STRONG COMBINATIONS RECEIVED ON SHARES.
9-2t WILLIAM E. SINN.

THE HANLON BROTHERS

NOW PERFORMING AT
FOLIES BERGERE,
PARIS,
take this opportunity of informing Managers and Friends that their former pupils, designating themselves "The Hanlon Midgets" and "Hanlon-Volta Troupe," have no right to use the name of Hanlon, their real names being John Charles Ryan, William O'Mara and Patrick Carmody.
GEORGE HANLON,
1-24t* Manager Hanlon-Lee's Troupe.

McVicker's Theatre,

CHICAGO.
COMBINATIONS
WILL BE NEGOTIATED WITH FOR THE MONTHS OF
JUNE, JULY AND AUGUST.
4-7t* Address J. H. McVICKER.

BETTER THAN GOLD!

Managers and traveling agents of theatre, opera and show companies will find it better than gold in their pockets if they are going west, north or northwest of Chicago to call upon or write to J. H. MOUNTAIN, City Passenger Agent of the

Chicago and Northwestern Railway,
62 CLARK STREET, CHICAGO.
This is by all odds the best road between Chicago and Omaha, Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, and Chicago and all points in the West or Northwest. It deals liberally as to rates with all show companies, and is patronized by the best-posted managers that come West.
This is the only line that runs the west of Chicago, the PULLMAN SLEEPING-CARS north of Chicago, and PARLOR-CARS between Chicago and Milwaukee. Its lines reach all the important business centres of the great West.
PULLMAN HOTEL-CARS
Boston office, 5 State street; New York office, 415 Broadway; San Francisco office, 2 New Montgomery street.
MARVIN HUGHITT, General Manager.
1-15t* W. H. STENNETT, General Passenger Agent.

THEATRICAL GOODS.

We import, manufacture an carry a large stock of THEATRICAL GOODS, WARDROBES, COSTUMES, FRINGES, LACES, SPANGLES, STARS, Etc., Etc.
Theatres and traveling troupes supplied with full outfits, and at as reasonable rates as they can be purchased East.
WADHAMS & ROUNDY,
Nos. 190, 192 CLARK STREET,
3-13t* CHICAGO, ILL.

RED OR BLUE CLOGS,
$3.50; 15-inch Song-and-dance Shoes, $7; Dutch Clogs, $3; Fright Wigs, $6; Burnt Cork, per box, 50c.; False Moustaches, 50c.; Rosewood Bones, 75c.; Tambo, $2; Banjo, $3; Triangle, $1; Mouth Organs, 75c.; Fire-eating Preparation, per box, 50c.; Negro Wigs, per doz., $12; Plays, 20c. Jig, Clog, and Breakdown Dancing Made Easy, 50c. End-men Wigs, $2 each. Send stamp for Prices of Amusement Goods. Remit by P. O. order or registered letter to ED. JAMES, Clipper Building,
1-tf 88 and 90 Centre street, New York.

OWENS' ACADEMY OF MUSIC

CHARLESTON, S. C.
All business communications should be addressed to J. M. BARRON, Business manager,
1-tf 14 Union square, New York.

H. C. DOBSON'S GREAT PATENT PARLOR AND STAGE BANJOS; also simple method, enabling the pupil to play instantly. 5,000 tunes, 25cts. each. Circulars free. 466 Sixth avenue, New York. 4-tf

GILMORE'S

HOLLIDAY-STREET THEATRE,

BALTIMORE, MD. OPEN DATES:
For rent or combinations, June 3, 10, 17, 24, July 1, 8, 15, 22, and 29. Address [8-2t] W. J. GILMORE.

H. A. THOMAS, LITHOGRAPHIC STUDIO,

865 BROADWAY,
BETWEEN 17TH AND 18TH STREETS, NEW YORK.
J. R. JACKSON, Business-manager. 7-tf

SWISS BELLS

OF ALL KINDS CONSTANTLY ON HAND and for sale at the lowest cash price. Address
5-13t* SWISS BELLS, Box 3,021, Boston, Mass.

"THE VICAR OF WAKEFIELD"
AND OTHER NEW PLAYS, BY MARTHA LAFITTE JOHNSON.
Address MORRIS SIMMONDS, 10 Union square, New York, or 1,729 Pine street, Philadelphia. 9-1t*

---

SHANNON, MILLER & CRANE,

No. 46 MAIDEN LANE, NEW YORK.
IMPORTERS AND MANUFACTURERS OF

THEATRICAL GOODS,

MILITARY, SOCIETY, CIRCUS AND REGALIA ORNAMENTS,
GOLD, SILVER AND TINSEL TRIMMINGS,
LACES, FRINGES, TASSELS, STARS, SPANGLES,
THEATRICAL, EQUESTRIAN AND GYMNASIUM HOSIERY, WOVEN ROWING